STATE AND NATIONAL BANK STATEMENTS

Quotations in this department are given per share, not per cent, except for stocks of Canadian Institutions, and are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding date of issue, though often are nominal. An asterisk (*) denotes sales

Figures of deposits, capital and profits for the national banks are from the Comptroller's last call; for all other institutions they are the latest obtainable, direct returns being procured by us where no periodic statements are required. For the Clearing House banks of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, deposits are taken from the latest weekly statement.

REVIEW OF JULY—COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL EVENTS.

European affairs took a very menacing turn in July. Germany fell into a state of almost complete economic collapse, and the latter part of the month Great Britain suffered gold withdrawals hardly less severe than those previously experienced by Germany. The crisis, at first confined to Central Europe, rapidly spread and became the dominant feature of world affairs, finally involving all other important markets. Taking its rise from a combination of economic and political circumstances, the crisis waxed steadily with efforts at amelioration by government and financial leaders altogether unparalleled and altogether unavailing. It caused a breakdown of German economy and a suspension of payments by German banks, which were closed entirely for a two-day period (July 14 and July 15) by an emergency decree of the Reich Government. Some thirty emergency decrees dealing with various aspects of the difficulties were issued during July by the Berlin regime, many of them in preparation for the resumption of full payments by the banks, which had not been accomplished by the end of the month. The Berlin Boerse was closed on July 13, and reopening is not expected until the latter half of August. All of Central Europe was affected by the troubles, and not a few difficulties also were reported in the Balkan and Baltic lands.

A flight from the mark caused the crisis in part, and it continued on an ever-increasing scale until checked by the virtual suspension of payments by Germany. This in turn brought about a serious situation in London, which held large amounts of German short-term paper. The panicky spirit induced by the incidents throughout Europe occasioned heavy withdrawals of French and other Continental balances from London as well, and in order to maintain sterling exchange gold was poured from London into Paris and Amsterdam on an unprecedented scale. So serious did this situation become that the Bank of England finally, at the end of July, arranged a short-term credit of £50,000,000 with the Bank of France and the Federal Reserve Banks of the United States in equal amounts.

These developments, which were accompanied by frantic conferences of Government heads and financial authorities, naturally were felt very keenly in all securities markets. All the German exchanges were closed by order of the Government. In London and Paris, as well as New York, prices of stocks were depressed, with trading at the slowest pace in six years. Bonds of the Central European countries moved sharply downward in all external markets, with declines of $200 to $300 a $1,000 bond not uncommon. Discount rates were raised in Germany, Austria and other countries, while even the Bank of England rate was advanced, with the 2½% figure giving way first to a 3½% rate on July 23, and finally a 4½% level July 30. The Reichsbank rate was advanced on July 15 from 7% to 10%, and further advanced July 31 to 15%, while the Lombard or security rate was first raised to 15% and then to 20%.

Financial fundamentals of this situation are not difficult to grasp, however involved the ramifications and the political consequences. German borrowing in other capital markets has proceeded at a tremendous pace in recent years, almost entirely on a short-term basis, owing to the difficulty of floating long-term obligations. A high return on German bank paper also induced a very large flow of funds to Berlin from London and New York, with Paris participating on a smaller scale. Funds thus secured by German public and private corporations supplied the money needed not only within the Reich itself, but also the sums required for reparations payments. The short-term debt, which is believed to have approximated $2,500,000,000, placed Germany in a vulnerable position, since there has been no opportunity to build up satisfactory reserves of gold and foreign exchange holdings since the crash of 1923.

The financial debacle of 1923 and the complete devalorization of the old German mark was in itself an important factor in the present situation, as the memory of it is keen in the minds of Germans and also of foreign investors who held German obligations. The flight from the mark that brought about the present manifestations found expression not only in withdrawals of their credits by foreign investors, but also in an insatiable demand for foreign currencies by fear-stricken Germans who recalled vividly their worthless holdings of Reich currency and securities eight years ago. Since last summer, indeed, close to $1,000,000,000 is estimated to have been withdrawn from Germany by foreign creditors and sent out of the Reich by panicky Germans. About half this sum flowed out in the months following the German general elections of last September, which resulted in great gains for the extremist parties of the Right and Left and an unsettled political situation. When Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius went to Chequers early in June they advertised rather too well the precarious state of affairs produced in Germany by the world-wide economic depression and the heavy reparations burden. Pleas then made by the German leaders for foreign aid, together with a German Government decree imposing heavier taxes, restarted the flight of capital from the Reich and the movement attained proportions that finally exceeded the capacities of the financial institutions of the Reich.

Not a little significance attaches, moreover, to the debt suspension proposal announced by President Hoover June 20 which was designed as a relief from the pressure of intergovernmental obligations. Germany naturally receives the greatest benefits of this arrangement, which was formally concluded only on July 6. Hailed throughout the world as a superb step toward recovery in trade and industry everywhere, the proposal met French objections which delayed its application and in the period during which the Governments conferred on the means for placing it in effect, capital withdrawals from Germany gained ever greater ascendency. A temporizing measure of dubious value was attempted in the form of a $100,000,000 credit to the Reichsbank, extended June 25 in equal proportions by the Federal Reserve banks, the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the B. I. S. This credit was quickly exhausted, and although repayable July 16, extension had to be effected with ultimate repayment now altogether uncertain, in so far as the date is concerned. Use also was made, early in July, of a $50,000,000 private banking credit extended years ago by New York bankers to the Gold Discount Bank, a subsidiary of the Reichsbank, and which was still outstanding and became available. These sums were small in comparison with the demands upon German institutions for repayment of short term loans and for exportation of capital by Germans, and nothing remained for the German Government save the closing of all financial institutions in the Reich, which was effected by order of July 13. Hoarding of currency within Germany also was a highly important element of the troubles, estimates placing the figure at 1,500,000,000 marks.

Although the financial crisis has superseded all other matters in public interest for the time being, it is apparent that the debt suspension proposal of President Hoover, which was finally made a matter of international agreement on July 6, will prove a highly significant landmark in political and financial history. As indicated in our preceding issue of this Record, the negotiations between France and the United States remained delicate to the last. It may be surmised that the need of Germany for relief from the strain of capital exports hastened the accord between the French and American Governments. As formally announced late July 6, the agreement preserves the spirit of Mr. Hoover's proposal, and it is to be hoped that the aim of "giving the forthcoming year to the economic recovery of the world" will be realized. It provides a moratorium for the year beginning July 1 1931 on the reparations and inter-governmental debt payments growing out of the World War. The disturbing effects of these huge overhead transfers on international trade and finance have become more and more apparent as the economic crisis continued and deepened, and the salve applied through the agreement is undoubtedly one of the most wholesome that Governments could make available.

Sacrifices entailed in the agreement will fall chiefly on the United States and France, with respective amounts of about $246,000,000 and close to $100,000,000 involved in the postponements. Great Britain will sacrifice about $55,000,000, owing partly to the extension of the moratorium arrangement to the Dominions and the Government of India, while Italy will forego receipts of $9,000,000 over and above the sum that would normally have been transferred to other Governments. Germany will be the chief beneficiary, as the postponed payments on reparations, United States Army of Occupation and other claims will amount to about $394,000,000. As the debt negotiations proceeded, there was a growing realization that the French sacrifice is proportionately greater than that of the United States when the smaller population and resources of France are taken into consideration. This occasioned an understanding of the French position that was not general in this country at first.

In the agreement reached July 6, the main factor is of course that of the one-year suspension of payments, but three additional points stand out as of prime importance. These relate to the unconditional annuities and the amortization of the postponed payments. It is provided that Germany will pay the unconditional annuity due during the year of suspension, but the payment is to be invested by the Bank for International Settlements in bonds guaranteed by the German railways, so that the funds will not actually leave the Reich. The suspended payments are to be amortized in 10 annual payments beginning July 1 1933, and they are to bear interest as suggested by the United States Government, or in other words at the average rate paid by the creditor governments on their own public debt at the end of the preceding fiscal year. These conditions, moreover, are also to apply to the bonds issued by the German railroads.

Three further points were touched upon by the French Government, although it was remarked specifically in the agreement that they do not concern the United States Government. It was observed that a "common action by the principal Central banks acting through the medium of the B. I. S. shall be organized to assist the countries of Europe which would be particularly affected by the postponement of the payment as proposed." A preliminary understanding was stipulated, secondly, between France and the B. I. S. in order that France shall not supply the guarantee fund provided for in the Young plan in the event of a moratorium except by monthly payments in accordance with the needs of the B. I. S. after actual transfers of payments by Germany. The third of these points concerned the question of deliveries in kind, and the various modifications which will become necessary as a result of the application of the American proposal and the agreement as finally reached. This question is to be studied by a committee of experts named by the principal powers, "which shall reconcile the material necessities with the spirit of President Hoover's proposal." France specifically reserved the right, moreover, to request of the German Government "indispensable assurances concerning the utilization for exclusively economic purposes of the sums freed to the Reich budget."

The accord thus outlined was announced by President Hoover, who stated that the "American proposal for one year's postponement of all intergovernmental debts and reparations has now been accepted in principle by all of the important creditor governments." The terms, he cautioned, are subject to the approval of the other interested powers. While certain payments are to be made by Germany on reparations account, Mr. Hoover added, the substance of the proposal is retained as the sums so paid are immediately reloaned to Germany. "The technical difficulties arising from many complicated international agreements which involve the aggregate payment between governments of over $800,000,000 per annum are now in the course of solution by the good-will and earnest co-operation of governmental leaders everywhere," Mr. Hoover said. "The American part of the plan is, of course, subject to approval by Congress, but I have received the individual assurances of support from a very large majority of the members of both the Senate and the House, irrespective of political affiliations. The acceptance of this proposal has meant sacrifices by the American people and by the Allied governments, who are with all others suffering from world-wide depression and deficits in governmental budgets. The economic load most seriously oppressing the peoples of Germany and Central Europe will be immensely lightened.

"While the plan is particularly aimed to afford economic relief, yet economic relief means the swinging of men's minds from fear to confidence, the swinging of nations from the apprehension of disorder and governmental collapse to hope and confidence of the future. It means tangible aid to unemployment and agriculture. The almost unanimous support in the United States is again profound evidence of the sincere humanity of the American people. And in this year, devoted to economic upbuilding, the world has need of solemn thought on the causes which have contributed to the depression. I need not repeat that one of these causes is the burdens imposed and the fears aroused by competitive armaments. Contemplation of the past few weeks should bring a realization that we must find relief from these fundamental burdens which to-day amount to several times the amount of intergovernmental debts."

An equally important statement announcing the conclusion of the accord was made in Paris at the same time by Premier Pierre Laval. "It is an important decision which involves a severe sacrifice for my country," M. Laval declared. "It will be readily understood that the government desired to maintain Franco-American solidarity, on which more than ever is contingent the work of international co-operation for peace. It will be observed that the French Government has not permitted France's inviolable right to reparations to be limited. If the accord which has been reached gives rise to the re-birth of confidence in the world, our gesture will not have been in vain, and if Germany understands the extent and meaning of our generous attitude a new era will be open for these two peoples." Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, who bore the brunt of the work in the negotiations at Paris, stated to press representatives that all meetings of the French and American negotiators had been most congenial and pleasant.

A question that was discussed rather broadly in the public prints, but apparently not in official exchanges, was cleared up at the same time by Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany, who gave assurances to United States Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett that the financial relief extended Germany would not be devoted to an increase of German armaments. The text of the Chancellor's statement was published at Washington, July 5, and there were assurances at the same time that it was not due to external suggestions. "In view of the fears which have sprung up in some circles," the Chancellor said, "that the amounts released in the German budget by the relief from reparations payments might be used to increase armaments, I declare that an increase in the appropriations for the army and navy during the holiday year has never been contemplated, nor will it take place. The aggregate alleviations accruing to Germany from the Hoover plan are required and will be used in their entirety to cover the deficits in revenue which are to be expected, to consolidate financial conditions and to save German economic life." This assurance was communicated to the French Government, July 8, by Leopold von Hoesch, the German Ambassador to Paris.

Notwithstanding the conclusion of this accord and the relief thus extended the German Government, emergency measures were found necessary within the Reich in the days immediately following in order to relieve the strain occasioned by the immense flight of capital from the Reich. German estimates placed the figure of the export of capital at about $500,000,000 after the start of the Chequers conversations and in the five succeeding weeks. Together with the exportation of earlier months, this made the withdrawals about $1,000,000,000. The two credits aggregating together $150,000,000, already referred to, proved insufficient to meet the demands for foreign exchange made on the Reichsbank.

An impressive step, designed to demonstrate the solidarity of German bankers and industrialists and their willingness to assist the Reich Government, was announced in Berlin July 7. A pledge was given by 1,000 financial and industrial leaders to place at the disposal of the Gold Discount Bank a security guarantee of 500,000,000 marks ($119,000,000) to back foreign credits. A joint letter addressed by the 1,000 organizations to Dr. Hans Luther, President of the Reichsbank, remarked that they desired to restore confidence in Germany and prevent further credit withdrawals. "Under the leadership of the Gold Discount Bank," the letter continued, "a guaranty syndicate will be formed, consisting of German industrial, banking, shipping, and commercial organizations, which will assume collateral guaranty to the extent of 500,000,000 marks, in order through this guaranty sum to strengthen the power of action of the German Gold Discount Bank. This liability sum will be apportioned by us according to a certain method among 1,000 of the leading German organizations by means of a distribution key which has already been conceived." Legal effect was given this offer July 8, when an emergency decree was issued by the Bruening Government empowering the Gold Discount Bank to engage in the suggested credit operations "in the interest of the maintenance of German foreign credit."

To these measures was added, July 9, the sudden departure of Dr. Hans Luther for London and Paris, in order, it was said, to negotiate a huge credit estimated at $400,000,000 to $500,000,000. The Reichsbank head left Berlin by airplane after frequent telephone conversations with Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, and arrived in London the same day. After a hurried consultation with Ambassador von Neurath, he met Mr. Norman by appointment and the two bank heads journeyed together on a boat train for Dover, with Basle as their ultimate destination. Dr. Luther conferred July 10 with Governor Clement Moret of the Bank of France. Reports from Berlin, London and Paris all suggested that Dr. Luther would attempt to arrange a credit of 1,500,000,000 marks or more with the Banks of England and France and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Berlin dispatches stated that he would use the joint guaranty offer of the 1,000 German firms as one of the important resources backing the proposed credit.

Regarding the actual course of the negotiations conducted by Dr. Luther in his attempt to secure international aid extremely little is definitely known publicly, but it may be surmised that he received little encouragement anywhere. The Reichsbank President arrived in London by airplane July 9 and he conferred with Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, as the two bank heads journeyed to the Continent together. Their ultimate destination was Basle, where the regular meeting of B. I. S. directors was scheduled for July 13, but Dr. Luther changed his plans several times before proceeding finally to the Swiss city. He conferred July 10 with Governor Clement Moret of the Bank of France at a meeting in Paris, and it appears from reports that the earlier French political demands were reiterated and perhaps even amplified in the course of this discussion. Dr. Luther's appeal to the French central bank for aid received the sympathetic attention of M. Moret, accounts said, and late in the same day he again stated his case to P. E. Flandin, French Minister of Finance. His final conference of the day was with Louis Franck, Governor of the Bank of Belgium, who flew from Brussels to Paris to meet him. Technical difficulties in the way of raising the amounts needed by Germany were brought forward, it was said, but these were not considered formidable. Emphasis was placed, reports to the New York "Times" and New York "Herald Tribune" stated, rather on the political guarantees by Germany that would have to accompany French participation in any extension of credit. These, it was said on the basis of unofficial reports, would take the form of pledges that Germany would abandon her projected customs union with Austria, and also suspend construction of the 10,000-ton armored cruisers known as "pocket battleships."

Reports July 11 revealed little save complications, some of the statements, indeed, being distinctly contradictory. Through all the dispatches ran a vein of pessimism, induced by a growing realization that aid probably would not be forthcoming and would be too late even if finally extended. Dr. Luther returned to Berlin by airplane, reaching the German capital late July 11 and immediately proceeding to a Cabinet meeting over which Chancellor Heinrich Bruening presided. The gathering continued until early July 12, with no definite conclusions reached, but it was suggested in press accounts that the Cabinet would reject the French political demands. It was also stated that the Bruening Government debated the declaration of a moratorium on all private debts and the closing of the German securities and commodity exchanges for a time. At the request of the German Government, United States Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett was said to have cabled an urgent appeal for aid to the Federal Reserve Board in Washington. The impression prevailing in some quarters that the Bruening Government had appealed to President Hoover was denied late in the day by Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr., who informed Washington correspondents that no communications of any kind had been exchanged with the German Government during the day by Mr. Hoover It was admitted, however, that the President was following the developments with the greatest care and concern.

The impending financial disaster in Germany produced consternation in London, as it was immediately realized in that keenly sensitive market that all of Europe would be drawn into a tense international situation. The "Financial News" of London stated that a private meeting of the London acceptance and banking houses was held July 11 to discuss means of checking the withdrawals of credits from Germany. Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Office officials also were said to be keeping in closest touch with the devèlopments in Berlin. In Paris it was suggested that a huge international flotation of long-term German bonds might be the sole available means of saving the situation. Leading New York bankers remarked at the time that central bank credits appeared to offer the only possible solution, such advances to be accompanied by assurances on the part of commercial banks that they will cease their withdrawals of balances from Germany during the period of the loans. It was intimated here that even such arrangements would have to wait upon the outcome of the Basle meeting of bank heads.

The Bruening Cabinet met in Berlin early July 12 to deal with the situation and continued its deliberations for almost 18 hours. At the conclusion of the meeting, in the small hours of July 13, it was announced that the Darmstaedter und Nationalbank (Danat Bank) would not open its doors Monday morning, July 13. Full responsibility for the orderly liquidation of the institution, which was one of the largest in Germany, was assumed by the Government, with all payments to depositors guaranteed. Orders were issued at the same time for the closing of every stock exchange throughout the Reich July 13 and 14, this measure being taken to prevent panic and the wholesale flight of capital from Germany, which otherwise would ensue from the closng of an institution with the prestige of the Darmstaedter und Nationalbank. The "Danat Bank," as it has been called, is one of the leading Berlin institutions and is one of the group of "D" banks which includes also the Deutsche Bank und Disconto Gesellschaft and the Dresdner Bank. Capital of the bank was $15,000,000 and reserves amounted to an equal figure. It was noted at the time that the bank had important investments in the Danziger Bank fur Handel under Gewerbe, and the Mercurbank of Vienna. A half dozen leading bank presidents of Berlin and a number of German industrial leaders were said to have participated in the Cabinet discussions which resulted in these measures.

The seriousness of the German situation was reflected in many other centres of government and finance. A preliminary consultation of B. I. S. directors was held in Basle July 12, with Dr. William Vocke representing the Reichsbank, Mr. Norman the Bank of England, M. Moret the Bank of France and Signor Beneduce the Bank of Italy. No announcement was made at the conclusion of this conference. A last minute attempt to secure French aid was reported in Paris, where the German Ambassador, Leopold von Hoesch, called upon Premier Pierre Laval late in the day. A communication issued after the meeting stated merely that Dr. von Hoesch outlined to the President of the Council the seriousness of the German situation. "Premier Laval reviewed France's stand and again emphasized her desire to prevent a German collapse," a Paris dispatch to the New York "Times" said. "He also urged the impossibility of her intervention until the world was reassured as to Germany's intentions to take the strongest measures on her own account for her own economic security and of her intention to take the definite political steps for which France has been asking."

Also of general interest were consultations on the matter in Washington and New York, July 12. Acting Secretary of State Castle issued a statement in which it was intimated that American bankers would probably participate in any effective arrangements that might be made at Basle, July 13, to deal with the situation. Referring to the prospective meeting of the bank heads in Basle, Mr. Castle said: "Obviously any plan for a banking solution must originate from these banks which are on the ground, and it is my understanding that our bankers are prepared to consider assistance in any effective plan of relief that they shall evolve." In New York a meeting of leading Reserve officials was held at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, with Ogden L. Mills, Acting Secretary of the Treasury, and S. Parker Gilbert, former Agent General for Reparations Payments, participating. Mr. Mills issued a statement after the meeting in which he remarked that the position of the United States Government in the German situation was clear. Calling attention to the President's debt suspension program, Mr. Mills pointed out that more than $400,000,000 had been made available for the rehabilitation of German industry and commerce. "That is the only direction in which our government has either the opportunity or the authority to intervene," the statement continued. "It is, of course, well known that the government has no control over the foreign credit policies of the Federal Reserve banks, and under a well established and sound public policy they have been kept free from executive influence or interference. It should not be forgotten that the problems with which we are concerned to-day are fundamentally European problems and can best be solved through the initiative and concerted action of those who are closest to the situation."

It appeared speedily, July 13, that the crisis within Germany was no longer subject to control by ordinary measures and that extreme steps would have to be taken to deal with the situation. Withdrawals of funds from banks throughout the country were heavy, leading to the belief, Berlin dispatches said, that many institutions would fail if the runs were allowed to continue. A decisive step was accordingly announced late, July 13, when a government decree was published closing all banks for two days, with the sole exception of the Reichsbank. The execution and acceptance of payments and transfers of any nature at home and abroad were prohibited. A decree prohibiting trading on the securities exchanges was issued at the same time. It was announced officially, moreover, that the holiday would be used by the government and the banks to devise means of meeting monetary requirements at the re-opening, July 16, especially those relating to the payment of wages and salaries. The necessary authority for all these measures was provided in a series of emergency decrees signed by President von Hindenburg under Article 48 of the Weimar Constitution.

A proclamation announcing the assumption of responsibility for the liquidation of the Darmstaedter und Nationalbank also was issued by the Bruening Government, July 13. Calling attention to the vast sums withdrawn from Germany during the weeks of controversy over the Hoover proposal, the proclamation stated that "complete tranquillity" had not yet set in. The need for halting the withdrawals was remarked upon, and it was added that the Reichsbank and the Gold Discount Bank would endeavor to secure the longest term credits possible abroad in order to help private German economy. "In the course of these events and despite all efforts, the Darmstaedter und Nationalbank came to a condition which was not liquid," the statement said. The necessary authority to meet the great dangers arising from this matter had been provided. "It is not a matter," the statement continued, "of saving the capital of the bank, but of preserving the property of hundreds of thousands of its customers and thus saving their enterprises from shutdown or even failure. Only from that viewpoint will the Reich assume responsibility for eventual shortages. It is a matter of course that the affairs of the bank will be supervised by trustees of the Reich Government. No irregularities in conflict with the laws have been ascertained. It is essential that in this difficult situation the German people should keep its nerve and not augment its troubles by lack of self-confidence."

A number of banks in other cities allied with the Danat institution closed their doors, July 13. Among these were Schwarz, Goldschmidt & Co., of Berlin; Hammerstein Bros., of Berlin, and Otto Hirsch & Co., of Frankfort a-M. The large German banks adopted various policies July 13. to meet the huge demands made upon them. The largest institution, the Deutsche Bank-Discontogesellschaft, refused to pay more than 10%, while in some instances only 3½% of deposits were granted by the institution. The Dresdner Bank began paying 100% where demanded, but after conferences with the directors of other leading banks, followed the precedent set by the largest institution. It was reported in a Berlin dispatch of July 13 to the New York "Times" that the government will pay the debts of the Danat Bank "only if its reorganization fails and only for amounts which are not covered after a full liquidation of its assets." The guarantee pledge was given by the government, it was said, only after other leading banks declined to assume common responsibility for the Danat Bank's liabilities. Jacob Goldschmidt, head of the bank, attributed the difficulties of the institution to the heavy withdrawals of foreign credits, the bank having repaid since June 30 nearly $240,000,000, he stated. The Reichsbank applied rigorous credit restriction measures, July 13, refusing to pay out foreign exchange except in cases of vital necessity. The German press remained calm throughout this period of stress, and there were also no public disorders.

Another act of the drama was played at the same time in Basle, where the directors of the Bank for International Settlements gathered for a 12-hour session to discuss ways and means of aiding Germany. Dr. Luther joined the deliberations late in the day, as he departed from Berlin by airplane only on Monday morning, July 13. He reported fully on the situation in Germany, advices said, and secured an extension for a period of three months of the credit expiring July 16. The B. I. S. participation in the $100,000,000 credit was $25,000,000. Directors of the bank issued a communication late in the day which epitomized all the real information emanating from Basle on that day. "The board of directors took note of the statement presented to it by Dr. Luther, President of the Reichsbank, on the situation in Germany and the satisfactory character of her economic and budgetary position in spite of the crisis brought about by the withdrawals of short-term capital from Germany," the statement said. "The German Government, having approached the various Governments with a view to obtaining financial assistance on their respective markets, the board, being convinced of the necessity for such assistance under the present circumstances, declares it is prepared to collaborate therein and strengthen the assistance by all the means at the disposal of the central banks. In the meantime the board authorized the President, in agreement with the other institutions concerned, to renew its participation in the rediscount credit previously accorded the Reichsbank." Extension of its participation in the $100,000,000 credit was announced the same day by the Bank of France, while similar action was taken by the Bank of England and the Federal Reserve System July 14. There were few developments within Germany July 14, owing to the closing of the banks and exchanges. Ample evidence appeared, however, of the effects of the crisis in other Central European countries. The German Government debated all day the measures that might be taken to meet the demands when the banks should reopen July 16, it was said.

A severe reaction from the German crisis was felt July 14 in Hungary. After a long meeting the Cabinet Council in Budapest decided before the day's business began to issue a decree closing all Hungarian banks and financial institutions from July 14 to 16 inclusive. Banking circles in the Hungarian capital claimed, reports said, that the closing was due only in part to the German troubles, with a halt in the negotiations for a $25,000,000 credit from abroad playing an equally important part. In Vienna the Mercurbank, affiliate of the Danat Bank, closed its doors July 14 after a Government decree granting it a three months' moratorium had been issued. A calming statement was issued by Finance Minister Joseph Redlich, who said the bank's troubles resulted solely from its connection with the German institution. The situation in Rumania attracted a little attention, owing to the suspension of the Banca Dacia in Jassy with uncovered liabilities of $1,250,000. Some doubts were expressed as to whether the difficulties were due to the German crisis. Banks in the free city of Danzig felt the repercussions severely and limited their payments to 10% of demands. Latvia also felt the matter severely, the Riga International Bank and the Bank of Libau suspending payments. The Latvian Cabinet guaranteed the deposits of Latvian currency, but asserted it could not extend assistance to depositors whose accounts are in foreign currency.

Indications that heads of the leading Governments were preparing to meet for a discussion of the German financial situation in particular, and also of the general causes of unrest and international disaffection, were reported from Basle July 14. "Great Britain intends to propose the immediate convocation of a conference of European Premiers to devise means of dealing with the present financial and political deadlocks of the Continent," a dispatch to the New York "Herald Tribune" said. "Such a conference, according to the British desires as outlined here, would attack all the causes of crisis, unrest and lack of confidence now prevailing. Great Britain, it was said, favors open debate on disarmament, the intentions of Germany with regard to Austria, and the possibilities of a new political understanding between France and Germany. It is hoped that new reassurances can be obtained which may enable the several Governments to lend to Germany the $400,000,000 to $600,000,000, or a considerable portion thereof, regarded as necessary to put Germany back on the road to economic recovery." Much interest was taken in a visit to Paris by the British Foreign Secretary, Arthur Henderson, in anticipation of the proposed journey of Prime Minister MacDonald and Mr. Henderson to Berlin later in the week. The Foreign Secretary talked at length with the German Ambassador in London before leaving. It was reported in the British capital that he would attempt to persuade France to abandon her insistence on political guarantees as a condition for extending aid to Germany.

Emergency ordinances designed to meet the situation at the opening of the banks on July 16 were promulgated by the German Government the previous day. None of the extreme measures at first considered were utilized, dispatches said, the Reich leaders contenting themselves with conventional steps. The first move was the raising of the Reichsbank discount rate from 7% to 10%, while the Lombard rate (on collateral loans) was moved up at the same time from 10% to 15%. A further emergency decree legalizing two general measures for dealing with the situation was signed by President von Hindenburg. It was provided that German banks and credit institutions might, during the remainder of the week, pay out money only to provide funds for payment of wages, salaries, and unemployment insurance. Severe restrictions were placed, at the same time, on transactions in foreign exchange, all such dealings to be conducted solely by the Reichsbank.

An announcement by the British Foreign Office at midnight, July 15, summoning a conference of European Ministers to a London meeting the following Monday was known to relate directly to the German situation. This step was considered, according to London dispatches, as the most sweeping move yet made to meet the rapidly developing emergency. The hour at which the announcement was made was itself considered evidence of the emergency nature of the move. The meeting, the official announcement explained, would be in relation to the gathering of experts in London for the purpose of adjusting details of the Hoover debt suspension proposal that might be in conflict with the Young plan. "His Majesty's Government have decided it is now necessary to summon immediately the conference of Ministers which was foreseen at the time of the invitation to the experts' committee," the statement said. "It is desired that the conference of Ministers should meet in London at 6 p. m. Monday, July 20. The experts' committee will, as arranged, arrive Friday and will put themselves at the disposal of the Ministers on Monday." It was indicated that Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson would make their projected trip to Berlin July 17, but this plan was subsequently changed. "The latest move of the British Government came after a day of tension such as financial London has not known even in the present protracted crisis," a dispatch to the New York "Times" remarked. "This time concern was felt not only for Germany's finances, but for the pound sterling, which, under pressure of persistent withdrawals, fell to the lowest point since 1925."

Interest in the coming London conference became intense July 16, when it was learned that President Hoover had instructed Secretary of State Stimson to represent the United States at the gathering. It was stated in Washington that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon also would proceed to London for the meeting. This was accepted in Europe as definite indication of a break in the established American policy of aloofness from European affairs. In Washington it was explained officially, however, that American participation would be different from that of the other Powers, since the United States would not inject itself into any European political considerations. The two American Secretaries, however, would participate on the same basis as the European Premiers, it was added. "The attitude to be followed by Mr. Stimson at the conference," an Associated Press dispatch from Washington said, "will be to maintain a friendly interest in both the German and French positions, but stressing the fact that one of the best things which could occur at the present time would be a settlement of the Franco-German divergencies." A preliminary exchange of views was reported in progress in Paris July 16 among representatives of the United States, France and Great Britain. Secretary Stimson arrived in Paris from Rome on that day on his tour of European capitals. Mr. Mellon also was in France at the time, enjoying a needed rest from the then recent Paris conferences on the Hoover debt suspension proposal. It was reported in New York, on the basis of private advices to banking interests, that a plan for extending a loan of $500,000,000 to Germany was under consideration in Paris. The sum would be secured, it was remarked, by German customs receipts.

Complete changes in the plans for the series of international conferences were necessitated by the announcement of the forthcoming gathering of European and American Government heads in London. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald cancelled the trip which he was to make to Berlin July 17 with Foreign Secretary Henderson. This journey was contemplated as a return visit for the stay of Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius at Chequers early in June. A statement by the London Foreign Office said: "There has developed action of international solidarity to achieve assistance for Germany. For the first time in long years the United States is represented officially in negotiations of particular interest to Europeans. It is unnecessary to emphasize the importance of this fact."

Reopening of the banks in Germany July 16 after the two-day enforced holiday, was accomplished with a minimum of disturbances. Rigid rationing measures were enforced only by the savings banks, it was said, as the crowds waiting for these institutions to open were far more numerous than those at the commercial banks. They were well behaved, however, and readily accepted the assurances that no measures of inflation were contemplated. Demands for business purposes and for payrolls and similar needed disbursements were promptly met. The situation in the Reich July 17 was not quite so calm. In most areas of the country the day, which was the first general payday since the many emergency decrees were promulgated, passed without incident. There were Communist riots in the Ruhr area, however, and also some forays between Fascist and Communist elements. An attempt was made to force the Bruening Government to convene the Reichstag at an early date, but this was unsuccessful. The extremist press in Germany adopted an exceedingly hostile tone to the Chancellor, with a general distrust of the Paris negotiations in evidence.

Various regulations for the control of the financial situation within Germany were promulgated by the Reich Government in the days that followed. A favorable indication was afforded by the reopening of the Danat Bank under Government auspices July 17, although payments were small. A drastic ordinance against the flight of capital to other countries was issued July 18. All possessors of foreign exchange were required, under this decree, to offer their holdings to the Reichsbank and upon demand to sell them to the German central bank, while foreign security holdings purchased subsequent to July 12 were made subject to the same stipulations.

A further decree of the German Government, issued late July 18, provided for a slight relaxation of the bank holiday regulations and resumption of limited bank payments. This was accepted as the initial step toward the restoration of normal banking conditions. Banks were required to pay, under this decree, not more than 5% of the deposited amounts to depositors and in no case more than 100 marks. Payments on savings bank deposits were limited to 20 marks, while on letters of credit the sum was limited to 100 marks. These limitations were made effective for the period from July 20 to 23, inclusive. A clearing house arrangement between 43 Prussian banks was announced July 18, in order to make possible a greater freedom of check transactions. Transfers between members of this so-called "Prussian consortium" were specifically exempted from the emergency decree. When the banks reopened on July 20, thousands of depositors were in line at institutions throughout Germany, but there were no riots or other troubles and the police had no difficulty in maintaining order. A decree by the Government imposing rather severe censorship regulations on newspapers provoked a little resentment, but the restrictions were modified. Suspension of the J. F. Schroeder Bank of Bremen was announced July 20, this incident naturally producing an unfortunate effect. The institution had capital and reserves of $3,750,000.

Expiration of the decree covering bank withdrawals up to July 23 was followed on that day by the promulgation of a further decree of a very similar tenor. A little additional relief was extended the hard-pressed German people, but again the rulings were only temporary, with a further reconsideration scheduled for the following week. For the period from July 24 to 28, inclusive, depositors were permitted daily withdrawals up to 200 marks, as against 100 marks previously, and single withdrawals of 30 marks from savings accounts, instead of 20 marks. No proof of need was required from depositors wishing to withdraw sums from the banks under the new decree. Provision also was made for restricted transfers of money by checks from one account to another. Important also was a decree issued July 22, providing for the issuance of 500,000,000 marks in new silver coins and 100,000,000 marks in new copper coins, to augment the existing coinage of 1,200,000,000 marks and relieve the prevailing shortage. No decision was reported as to the date for minting the currency, but it was suggested in Berlin dispatches that only a part of the authorized increase of 600,000,000 marks would actually be issued.

Emergency measures in Austria and Hungary reflected at the time the growing incidence of the financial crisis in Central and Southeastern Europe. The Austrian National Bank advanced its discount rate July 22 from 7½ to 10%, while the rate on international mortgage transactions was raised to 11%. It was explained officially that the increases were occasioned by the great strain in the European business world. The Hungarian Government announced on the same day that the restrictions on bank payments and exchange traffic previously adopted would be continued until July 30. The authorities of the Budapest Stock Exchange announced simultaneously that the institution would be kept closed until the end of the month. The Legislatures in both Austria and Hungary adopted bills for greater economy in government. Some perturbation was occasioned in Rumania by the withdrawals of credits, but the short term commitments of that country were said to be relatively small.

The representatives of the Seven Powers began their final series of conferences on the German financial situation in London late Monday, July 20. The countries represented were Germany, France, Great Britain, the United States, Italy, Belgium, and Japan. The conference convened Monday evening, hardly an hour after the arrival of the French, German, Italian, and Belgian delegations from Paris. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald called the meeting to order at the House of Commons, and he made a conciliatory speech in which he suggested that the discussions be confined to financial and economic questions. Welcoming the delegations in the name of the British Government and people, Mr. MacDonald suggested that the gathering "may be one of the turning points in the history of the world, for good or ill." He emphasized the necessity of finding a solution for the present crisis in Germany, and spoke at length on the causes leading up to the difficulties. "Our position, in a word, is to restore the confidence of the foreign investor in Germany," Mr. MacDonald remarked. "Clearly, the problem has both political and financial sides, but the mind of this conference is to be concentrated on the latter." Admitting that the question of what can be done must be reserved largely for bankers and financiers, the Prime Minister indicated that two main alternatives were apparent. "The one is to find the means of providing new loans or credits to Germany," he continued. "The other way would be to attack directly the question of whether by strengthening the internal position of Germany we can give an assurance of its stability to the outside world so as not only to prevent the capital that is already in Germany from being withdrawn, but to enable it to be augmented." The need for haste was repeatedly emphasized by Mr. MacDonald.

Premier Laval and Chancellor Bruening made the only other addresses at this first meeting of the delegations at London. M. Laval dwelt at length on the sacrifice entailed for France in her acceptance of the Hoover debt suspension proposal. He made it plain that the French Government, while it understood the difficulties of the present situation in the Reich, was willing to participate in a credit to the Reich only on condition that the guarantees frequently mentioned unofficially in dispatches from all European capitals were forthcoming. French public opinion deemed such guarantees indispensable, he declared. "M. Laval reiterated his conviction," a London dispatch to the New York "Herald Tribune" said, "that any loan to Germany must be attended by a pledging of German customs receipts and stressed the fact that French public opinion demands also assurances of Germany's good-will in the political sense." Chancellor Bruening, who followed, gave a detailed account of the flight of capital from the Reich since the Chequers conversations early in June, and stated that Germany was in dire need of credits. Washington reports of July 20 indicated that suggestions of the Hoover Administration for the alleviation of the financial difficulties of Germany would be submitted to the London conference Tuesday, July 21, by Mr. Stimson.

When the London conference was resumed on July 21 there was published throughout the world an American proposal for meeting the emergency. It appeared subsequently that this proposal had been submitted in Paris late the previous week through Secretary Stimson, and that most of the deliberations of the governmental gathering had been based upon it. Publication of the document was followed by renewed efforts to arrange matters in accordance with the suggestions of President Hoover, other views dropping into the background. Two major suggestions were outlined in the proposal. The first called for the renewal, for an unspecified period, of existing short-term credits to Germany. The second called for the selection of a committee by the B. I. S. to consider the credit position of the Reich and develop plans over the next six or eight months for conversion of some of the short-term into long-term credits. These suggestions were hailed with great enthusiasm in the political world, but bankers were more reticient. It was pointed out by financial authorities that the immediate and essential element of any plan was the prolongation of present short-term credits, an emergency measure which was voluntarily undertaken by the banks when the crisis became acute.

"The essence of the problem," the formal proposal stated, "is the restoration of confidence in Germany's economic life, both in Germany and abroad." On the political side, it was suggested, friction should be eliminated so that the world might rely upon the political stability of Europe. On the economic side, to which the proposal was devoted almost exclusively, it was remarked that the present emergency was strictly a short-term credit crisis. After a brief reference to the drain on Germany banking resources and the depletion of German gold and foreign exchange holdings, the proposal remarked that fundamentally there was nothing to justify these movements. "If, through co-operative action, they can be arrested, there is no reason why the present emergency cannot be immediately and definitely surmounted," it was said. The flight from the mark, in so far as it is of German origin, was, of course, left to the "vigorous action of the German Government and the Reichsbank." Dealing specifically with external credits, the belief was expressed that "the first approach to this problem is the development of a program that will permit the maintenance for an adequate period of time of the present outstanding lines of credit." Details of such a program and the methods of making it effective were to be left to the banking communities of the respective countries and the central banks. It was suggested, finally, that a committee should be appointed by the B. I. S. or created by some other appropriate method to secure international co-operation for the renewal of existing credits and for the development of a plan for conversion of some proportion of the short-term advances into long-term credits.

A sub-committee of the Finance Ministers of the various Governments represented in London began promptly to "work along the lines suggested by President Hoover," London reports said. It was immediately assumed that the proposal would remain the dominant feature of the gathering and that decisions would be of a nature to correspond. "This means," a dispatch to the New York "Times" said, "that the French proposal of a long-term loan to Germany under both political nad economic guarantees has been abandoned by the conference, although France is still urging it as the only plan in which she can participate." In the formal gathering, the report added, Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden asked the French to explain what they meant by their willingness to help Germany on the basis of guarantees and political appeasements. M. Laval is said to have replied that the conditions had already been outlined in Paris and that further discussion was apparently useless. An official communication stated merely that the conference was considering the matter of international financial co-operation for the restoration of confidence in Germany's economic stability.

As a result of the proposal by President Hoover and the deliberations of the sub-committee of Finance Ministers, it was clearly foreshadowed in London July 22 that a credit plan would be evolved with a series of recommendations closely in accord with the obvious necessity of extending existing commitments and furthering the emergency measures already taken by the Berlin Government. It was stated definitely that the Ministers would propose a further renewal of the $100,000,000 short-term credit placed at the disposal of the Reichsbank in June by the Federal Reserve banks, the Bank of England, the Bank of France, and the B. I. S. This credit was extended on July 16 for a period of three months. Chancellor Bruening and his colleagues of the German delegation made further efforts for securing long-term credits, but these were apparently of little avail.

The conference ended July 23, with, as one correspondent put it, "a chorus of self-congratulation upon the part of the statesmen who participated in it, but without noticeable enthusiasm being displayed by the world's banking or industrial communities as to the immediate value of the proceedings." An official communication, issued at the close of the gathering, summarized the developments and conclusions. It was remarked that the Governments represented were "ready to co-operate so far as lies within their power to restore confidence," and that they were ready to recommend for the consideration of the financial institutions in their respective countries specific proposals for relief. These were, first, that the central bank credit of $100,000,000 granted the Reichsbank be renewed at maturity for a period of three months, and secondly, that concerted measures be taken by the financial institutions in the different countries with a view to maintainig the volume of credits they have already extended to Germany. A further recommendation related to the committee which President Hoover suggested should be set up by the B. I. S. to inquire into the immediate further credit needs of Germany and to study the possibility of converting short-term into long-term credits. Note was taken of a communication from Dr. Bruening relative to the joint guarantee recently placed by German industry at the disposal of the Gold Discount Bank, and the opinion was expressed that a guarantee of this description should make it possible to provide a sound basis for the resumption of normal operations of international credit. "The conference considers that if these measures are carried through they will form the basis for more permanent action to follow," the communication stated.

"The conference also decided," it was added, "that a committee of experts should proceed with an elaboration of the detailed measures required for giving effect to President Hoover's proposal for a year's suspension of intergovernmental debts."

President Hoover issued a statement in Washington late July 23 in which he praised the London conference as having laid "sound foundations for the establishment of stability in Germany." The major problem, he remarked, is one affecting primarily the banking and credit conditions and can best be solved by the voluntary co-operation of the bankers of the world rather than by Governments with their conflicting interests. Secretary Stimson issued a statement in London in which he remarked that he and Secretary Mellon were very well satisfied with the results of the gathering. The friendly meeting of French and German Ministers was emphasized by Mr. Stimson as one of the outstanding points of the conference. "It reassured the world with respect to political conditions and greatly tended to restore a basis of confidence," he added. Prime Minister MacDonald also expressed his pleasure at the results of the meeting. "An agreement between seven Powers is not easy to reach," Mr. MacDonald said, "but it has been reached and will be of the greatest importance." Chancellor Bruening contented himself with expressions of thanks at the close of the meeting for the consideration of steps to help Germany.

In the meantime London was made the subject of startling withdrawals of gold, indicating trouble in a new quarter, and on July 23 the Bank of England marked up its discount rate from 2½% to 3½% and on July 30 made a further advance to 4½%. The pressure on sterling drove it far below the point at which gold could profitably be exported and the extent of the shipments that were thus occasioned is illustrated by the decline in the bullion reserves of the Bank of England in the last two weeks of July. The holdings were £165,199,894 on July 16, but by July 30 they had dropped to £133,309,663, a reduction of £31,890,231. Almost all the metal went to France, with some, however, going to Holland and minor countries. Although the sterling dollar rate was much under the point at which gold might profitably be moved from London to New York, engagements were rigorously eschewed, owing to the general unwillingness of American bankers to add to the pressure already felt in London.

While the gold flow from London to Paris was at its height conversations on the financial situation were started in Paris between Sir Robert Kindersley, a director of the Bank of England, and Clement Moret, Governor of the Bank of France. These discussions were continued until July 28, when Sir Robert returned to London. Although credit arrangements between the Bank of France and the Bank of England were thus clearly foreshadowed, some surprise was occasioned by the formal announcement in London, Paris and New York, on August 1, that the Bank of England had arranged a credit for an unnamed period, amounting to £50.000,000, with the Bank of France and the Federal Reserve banks equal participants. The announcements made no mention of the terms of the arrangement, but it was suggested in Paris reports that the charge would be 3⅜%. This credit, it was stated unofficially, will enable the British bank to meet any further demands from Continental lenders, for repayment of their London balances without further diminution of the gold stock. It was broadly hinted in banking circles, moreover, that the credit was arranged in part to reassure investors everywhere and restore world confidence. At the same time this arrangement was announced by the Bank of England, it was also announced in London that the Bank of England had received permission from the British Treasury to increase by £15,-000,000 for a period of three weeks the fiduciary note issue. This was regarded as a precautionary measure which, if necessary, will free an equal amount of British gold for seasonal demands or other purposes.

Announcement was made in Berlin July 25 that the leading banks of the country would unite for mutual guaranty of their liabilities by forming the Acceptance and Guaranty Bank, with capital of 200,000,000 marks. Under this scheme, the statement disclosed, the Darmstaedter und Nationalbank also would be enabled to resume payments. Currency to the amount of its capital was to be placed at the disposal of the new institution in exchange for first-rate drafts, and this reserve was, in turn, to be available to all the banks, which would thus be buttressed against runs. With the emergency decree covering withdrawals from the banks expiring July 28, a further decree was issued providing a little more latitude for holders of bank balances. Permission was granted for withdrawal of sums needed for payment of rent or interest on mortgages, while withdrawals otherwise were limited to 300 marks daily from drawing accounts, as against 200 marks theretofore. A further decree provided that all German debts of 50,000 marks or more owed abroad must be reported to the Finance Ministry, to the end that a complete schedule of German foreign obligations might be made available.

Reports that the Reichsbank would further raise its discount rate sharply in advance of the general resumption of payments were confirmed July 31, when an increase to 15% from the previous level of 10% was announced. The Lombard rate (on collateral loans) was increased at the same time from 15% to 20%. By this means, it was held, the private banking institutions would find it advisable to sell to the central bank their remaining foreign exchange holdings, estimated by some German authorities at $500,000,000. Repayment of debts to commercial banks also would follow, and this would, in turn, make possible reduction of debts owed the Reichsbank. The higher interest rate would attract hoarded funds to the commercial banks, it was maintained, and considerable additional funds thus made available, since it was estimated that German currency now hoarded amounted to 1,500,000,000 marks. There was some discussion late in July of the advisability of a supplementary currency issue, reports said, but financial experts opposed such suggestions.

Officials of the Bank for International Settlements, at Basle, began in the last days of July to organize the committee which the London governmental conference suggested should be set up to inquire into the German economic situation. It was disclosed in New York, July 30, that Albert H. Wiggin, Chairman of the governing board of the Chase National Bank, had been named by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to represent American interests.

ACTION OF FEDERAL RESERVE BANK AND OF NEW YORK BANKERS.

The New York Reserve Bank, in its "Monthly Review," notes that Germany's foreign creditors also mobilized for her assistance in the chief creditor countries. In the United States the Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced, on July 14, that it had, in association with other Federal Reserve Banks, and with the approval of the Federal Reserve Board, agreed to renew its participation—approximately $25,000,000—in the outstanding $100,000,000 central bank credit to the Reichsbank, originally announced on June 25. On July 16 the bankers of the City of New York, it is stated, were able to reach an informal voluntary agreement upon a uniform course of action with regard to their business with their respective German clients, and this agreement was supported in several other cities of the country. These informal and day-to-day understandings provided, for the present, it was asserted, that German checks and cable orders would be honored to the extent of German credit balances, and that acceptance lines then outstanding and in use and time deposits, advances and loans in Germany would be maintained at about their then existing amount. These informal agreements, to a considerable degree, merely extended, it is asserted, an already existing situation.

"Figures available to this bank indicate that short-term credits extended to German clients by banks and bankers in this country were substantially maintained during the month of June, and only slightly less inclusive figures covering banks in New York City show a small increase in the amount of such credits during the first half of July."

GRAIN PRICES MOVE LOWER, BUT SQUEEZE IN CORN—WINTER WHEAT CROP ABUNDANT; SPRING WHEAT DAMAGED—PRESIDENT HOOVER INVEIGHS AGAINST SHORT SELLING.

The depression in the agricultural world was further emphasized by a renewed decline in the price of grain in the case of wheat to the lowest figures reached in considerably over 35 years, or since 1896. On the farms, indeed, reports had it that wheat was selling for only 30c. a bushel, and, even, as low as 25c. On the other hand, there was a squeeze in the price of corn at Chicago, but this was a temporary and a local matter. The indications were that the United States would have a winter wheat crop of exceptional proportions, but that as against this the spring wheat crop would be extremely short as a result of the damage inflicted by prolonged drouth in the Northwest, this shortage thus going to offset the increase in the winter wheat yield. But the indications also were that the Canadian spring wheat crop, like our own spring wheat crop, would be heavily reduced, and for the same reason, namely, because of damage from drouth and prolonged dry weather. This was the situation at the beginning of July, and the weather during July did not provide any relief, but rather served to intensify the prevailing adverse state of things in that respect. The outlook in Canada pointed to a crop smaller by 125,000,000 to 150,000,000 bushels than the crop of 1930, which latter was by no means of unusual size. In these circumstances the tendency of wheat values, other things being the same, ought to have been upward rather than downward. The obstacle in the way was the accumulation of 200,000,000 bushels or more of wheat in the hands of the Federal Farm Board, which, as for so many previous months, hung like a pall over the market, since it was a certainty that sooner or later these vast accumulations of wheat would have to be disposed of, and until that occurs they must necessarily act as a depressing agency on the market. President Hoover was inclined to regard the further shrinkage in prices as the work of speculators, and on Friday, July 10, he issued a statement condemning speculators, who, he said, purposed to drive commodity prices down by short selling. The President's statement read as follows:

> It has come to my knowledge that certain persons are selling short in our commodity markets, particularly in wheat. These transactions have been continuous over the past month. I do not refer to the ordinary hedging transactions, which are a sound part of our marketing system. I do not refer to the legitimate grain trade. I refer to a limited number of speculators. I am not expressing any views upon economics of short selling in normal times.
> But in these times this activity has a public interest. It has but one purpose, and that is to depress prices. It tends to destroy returning public confidence. The intent is to take a profit from the losses of other people. Even though the effect may be temporary, it deprives many farmers of their rightful income.
> If these gentlemen have that sense of patriotism which outruns immediate profit, and a desire to see the country recover, they will close up these transactions and desist from their manipulations. The confidence imposed upon me by law as a public official does not permit me to expose their names to the public. Otherwise I would do so.

The fact was, however, that the operations and existence of the Federal Farm Board had for a long time acted as a damper on speculation in the grain markets. Prevailing conditions, as indicated above, would have justified operations for a rise, but the speculative fraternity held aloof in view of the extensive accumulations of wheat held by the Farm Board. Even speculators do not feel strong enough to buck against the United States Government, and it was this absence of buying on the part of the speculative fraternity, at a time when supplies from the new winter wheat crop were coming to market that accounted for the break in the market rather than any extensive short selling.

The Farm Board had the previous month announced its policy of limiting sales of wheat by the Grain Stabilization Corp. to 5,000,000 bushels a month, excluding foreign contracts then under negotiation, and to this policy it adhered notwithstanding the efforts of politicians of both political parties in trying to persuade President Hoover to interfere and have the Farm Board abstain from making any sales at all. The Farm Board was called upon not only to meet the opposition of the politicians who wanted it to refrain from selling at all, but also to deny statements that it was really selling in excess of the quantity it had named as the maximum. On July 17 James C. Stone, Chairman of the Federal Farm Board, deemed it incumbent to issue a statement denying any suggestion that the Farm Board or the Stabilization Corp. was selling wheat in competition with new hard winter wheat that was being marketed in the Southwest. He asserted that "all sales made in that section to meet mill or storage requirements since the new crop began moving had been replaced with purchases of an equal amount of other wheat." In the Northwest spring wheat section, it was stated, some few sales had been made to mills that had to have spring wheat in order to continue their milling operations, but these, it was averred, had been made only after the mill had notified the Stabilization Corp. in writing that it would have to close down unless it got old spring wheat to take care of its milling requirements. These small sales, it was declared, in no way competed with the price of the new hard winter wheat being marketed in the Southwest.

On July 10 the Crop Reporting Board of the United States Department of Agriculture made public its forecasts and estimates of the grain crops of the country based on reports and data furnished by crop correspondents, field statisticians and co-operating State Boards or Departments of Agriculture. This report now placed the probable production of winter wheat at 713,000,000 bushels, which compared with the Department's estimate a month earlier of 649,000,000 bushels and with 612,000,000 bushels the crop harvested in 1930. This, it will be seen, showed an increase over the winter wheat yield of the previous year of no less than 101,000,000 bushels. On the other hand, the production of spring wheat was estimated as of July 1 at only 156,000,000 bushels as against 251,000,000 bushels harvested in 1930, a reduction from last year, it will be observed, of 95,000,000 bushels, and as against a five-year average production of 274,000,000 bushels. The condition of durum wheat for July 1 1931 was placed at 57.9% of normal, and of other spring wheat at 53.4% of normal. The probable production of corn was placed at 2,968,000,000 bushels, which compared with 2,094,000,000 bushels harvested in 1930; 2,614,000,000 bushels harvested in 1929 and a five-year average production of 2,761,000,000 bushels. The oats crop was put at 1,306,267,000 bushels against 1,358,052,000 bushels harvested in 1930, and an average of 1,316,954,000 bushels for the five years from 1925 to 1929.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics issued its report regarding prospects in Canada under date of July 9, and was moved to say that there was nothing comparable with the critical crop situation on the prairies the present season. The concentration of Canadian wheat production in Saskatchewan, where depreciation was most extreme, had caused a drop in the condition of spring wheat in Canada from 80 on May 31 to 58 at June 30, which latter figure compared with a condition of 92% at June 30 1930.

Marketing conditions in Canada the past season appear to have been hardly more satisfactory than those in the United States. At all events, the Toronto "Globe," on July 10, reported that the 13,400 members of the Ontario Grain Pool were to be released from their contract, according to a decision reached by the Executive of the Pool and the directors of the sponsoring organization, the United Farmers' Co-operative Co., Ltd. The Pool contract, which was on a five-year basis, would lapse at the close of the current crop year. In view of the present price levels for wheat it was considered advisable to close down pooling operations at this time, the Farmers' Co-operative Co. reverting to the former position of marketing the farmers' wheat, oats or barley on the open market on a commission basis. The "Globe" went on to say:

> Discontinuance of the Pool was officially announced by the United Farmers' Co-operative Co., Ltd., here yesterday.
> The statement drew attention to the fact that when county representatives of the contract-signers in Ontario met, on May 26, and decided that the Pool should be continued in full operation for the handling of the 1931 crop, it was taken for granted that the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Ltd., at Winnipeg, the Central Selling Agency of all the Canadian Pools, would retain all its branches and be ready to find a market for Ontario wheat.
> The closing of the New York and Toronto offices of the C. S. A., in accordance with the plans of the Winnipeg headquarters, now places the Ontario Pool in the unhappy position of having to set up and maintain its own selling force, or else cease pooling operations altogether.
> Of the two affirmatives, the Executive Board of the Pool and the management of the United Farmers' Co-operative Co., Ltd., which has sponsored and financed the Pool for Ontario growers, selected the latter.

Wheat prices may be said to have almost continuously declined during the month of July, there having been a renewed decline the latter part of the month after a recovery from July 15 to about July 23. The July option for wheat in Chicago, as against 57¼c. July 1, dropped to 50¼ July 15, then recovered to 54⅝ July 21, after which it dropped to 48c. July 31. This was a loss for the month of about 9c. The September option for wheat in Chicago sold down to 97⅛c. July 31 against an opening price on July 1 of 58¾c. At Winnipeg July wheat closed on July 31 at 52⅝c. against 60½@61c. at the opening on July 2. Chicago advices stated that the market had broken afresh on the closing day of the month because of generous rains in the spring wheat belt and a continued small export demand. September wheat at Chicago sold down to 49⅞c., as already noted, which was not only a low for the season, but also the lowest price at which that future option has ever sold on the Chicago Board of Trade.

In July corn, however, a squeeze occurred the last few days of the month, which carried the price of that option up over 14c. a bushel. The course of corn prices was downward, the same as in the case of the other grains, and as a consequence the July option for corn on July 25, as against 51c. July 1, sold at 57¼@58⅛c. As a result, however, of the squeeze referred to, this option sold as high as 72½c. July 30, and again on July 31. The squeeze was attributed to Thomas M. Howell, an operator on the Chicago Board of Trade, who apparently gobbled up all the actual "contract corn" available and thereby created a shortage of contracts to meet necessary deliveries. Reports that the Updike Grain Corp., controlled by the Farmers' National Grain Corp., had been caught short of July corn were denied July 30 by George S. Miller, General Manager, who, according to Associated Press advices, declared his position was "perfect." He said that "rumors to the effect that the Farmers' National, or its subsidiary (the Updike Corp.) is interested in Chicago July corn except for a small amount which was sold for the purpose of making deliveries are unfounded." "We are not short a bushel." That the rise in the July option for corn was just a squeeze, and nothing more, was made evident by the fact that the other corn futures all continued their downward course. September corn, for instance, touched 49½c. July 31 against 59½c. July 1, and December corn sold July 31 at 42¾ against 53¾ July 1.

SUGAR PRICES MOVE HIGHER, BUT COFFEE DECLINES.

As a result of the operation of the Chadbourne plan, sugar prices moved still higher. On June 30 Cuban raw sugar had sold up to 1.42c. But on July 20 some sales were made as high as 1.57c., though the last sale of the month, made on July 29, was at 1.50c. The wholesale price of refined sugar by the leading refineries in the city was marked up July 2 from 4.55c. to 4.65c., and was further raised to 4.75c. on July 21 and July 22. Coffee prices, on the other hand, sharply declined. Elimination of Germany as a buyer because of its unfortunate economic condition was one factor in the decline, and apparently the demoralization of Brazilian exchange was another. Lower ocean freight rates also seem to have cut some figure in the decline. In the New York market No. 7 Rio for spot delivery was quoted at 5⅞@6c. July 31 against 6⅞@7c. June 30; 6⅝c. May 29; 6½@6¾c. April 30; 5½c. March 31; 5½@5⅝c. Feb. 28; 6¾c. Jan. 31, and 7¼@7½c. Dec. 31 1930. No. 7 Santos was 7½@7⅞c. July 31 against 8½@9c. June 30; 8½@8¾c. May 29, and the same on April 30; 7¾@8c. March 31; 7¾@8c. Feb. 28; 8¾@9c. Jan. 31; 8¾@9¼c. Dec. 31 1930, and 11¼c. Oct. 31 1930.

THE STATE OF GENERAL TRADE—THE CONDITION OF THE STEEL INDUSTRY.

The revival of trade so confidently counted upon as a result of the moratorium proposition of President Hoover the previous month was not realized. The slight increase in some lines of business which followed as the first impulse of that moratorium proposition was not maintained. The delay caused by the opposition of France, for political reasons, deprived the Germans of some of the benefits counted upon, and the failure on the part of the Seven Powers to subscribe to other measures of relief for German account, together with the huge withdrawals of short-term credits, brought Germany to the verge of economic ruin. Not only that, but the latter part of the month credits were withdrawn from London in much the same way as had previously happened in the case of Germany, and finally Great Britain was subjected to a drain of gold hardly less serious than that with which the Bank of Germany had to contend. The steel trade suffered most from the continued lack of activity. Steel production continued steadily to decrease, until on July 21 the steel mills of the country were engaged to only 30% of capacity. The "Iron Age" then said that reduced requirements of the automobile business, the completion of rail contracts, and the falling off in large gas and oil line projects, accounted largely for the curtailment. From this low figure, however, a temporary upturn occurred, and under date of July 30 the "Age" noted "an out-of-season gain in ingot production, operations having been increased," though this was tempered by the remark that "the closing of the Ford plants from July 27 through August and the sharply reduced schedules of other motor car makers next month certainly do not augur well for automotive consumption of steel in the immediate future." It was added that "tin plate output, which had been the brightest spot in the iron and steel situation, likewise is an unfavorable factor, having declined further to a 55 to 60% rate, with additional curtailments in sight. Blast furnace operations also still point downward, with three stacks reported out during the week." The "Iron Age" also found some comfort in the recovery in the price of steel scrap, and regarded the action of the directors of the United States Steel Corp. (which submitted an uncommonly poor income exhibit for the June quarter with virtually nothing earned either for the common stock or the preferred stock, and reduced its dividend from a basis of 7% per annum to 4%; the whole furnishing a striking illustration of the depths of depression which had been reached by the steel trade) in not tackling the wage question further than to say that "The board of directors also recommended that an adjustment of salaries of all officers and other salaried employees be made, in varying percentages, depending upon the character of service rendered"—the "Age" construed this to mean that no wage reductions were contemplated and, accordingly, was moved to say that "the conviction that business is slowly, if almost imperceptibly, on the mend, is read into the action of the Steel Corp. directors in maintaining wage rates, after a reduction had been almost universally forecast."

In its issue of Aug. 6, however, the "Age," in reporting conditions down to Aug. 4, was no longer inclined to take a roseate view. It found that production had dropped to 30% and therefore described the state of things as s:

decline in pig iron production to the lowest ebb since following the disappointing revelations of iron and company reports for the second quarter, has dampened ng hopes for business betterment and accentuated con- ver negative market factors in general.

ith half of the country's automobile capacity idle, with nsley and Pittsburgh rail mills shut down, and with dly no branch of the steel industry showing any im- ment aside from temporary fluctuations characteristic ow rate of activity, the outlook for August can hardly lled encouraging. There is the further fact that the steel ingot production of a week ago proved abortive. declines reported at Youngstown, Cleveland, Pitts- and Buffalo, the average for the country has receded 32 to 30% of capacity.

hile too much significance may be attached to the e in operating rate, in view of increasingly frequent larities in steel-making schedules in keeping with tions in mill requirements, the industry is not only ed to another exceedingly dull month but is even more ant than heretofore to estimate the scope of seasonal vement in September. The only favorable development firmer attitude on prices, which is a natural reaction the poor quarterly earnings statements.

g iron production in July was 1,463,220 tons, or 47,201 a day, compared with 1,638,627 tons, or 54,621 tons in Both total output and daily average were the lowest ny month since November 1921. The daily rate com- with 53,732 tons for last December, the previous low his depression. Output for the first seven months of ear, at 12,568,593 tons, is the smallest January-July since 1921, when 10,292,721 tons were produced."

"Age" made the composite price of finished steel 28 2.116c. a pound against 2.137c. a month earlier; the osite price of pig iron it put at $15.54 a gross ton st $15.59 a month earlier, but the composite price of scrap July 28 it figured at $9.42 against $9.17 a month r.

the case of the non-ferrous metals the price of copper nto a state of almost complete demoralization. On 14 offers of copper at 7½c. a pound, a new record low were made by second-hand sellers, although producers ustoms smelters continued to ask 7¾c. a pound. The r offered at 7½c. was for immediate delivery, whereas and sellers offered the metal at 7¾c. up to September. in the month a moderate tonnage sold down to 7.625c., red, Connecticut. That was the lowest at which cop- as ever been sold either by a customs smelter or pro- . It was also 1⅜c. a pound below any price at which r had been sold before 1931. The export price of copper ed to 8c. In the New York market Lake copper sold from 9⅛c. July 1 to 8c. July 22, at which figure the remained until July 29 when the price was marked up ⅛c. which was also the price July 31, while electrolytic r dropped from 8¼c. July 1 to 7½c. July 13, and after g back to 7¾c. July 20 was down to 7⅜c. again on 31. Tin prices also moved lower after some stiffening arly part of the month. The New York price for tin 5.70c. July 1; 26.00c. July 2, and 26.65c. July 3, and then ed a low of 24.00c. July 24, with the quotation July 31 ¼c. It was announced earlier in the month that the nment of Siam had agreed to adopt the international ota scheme, providing its quota should not be less than tons annually, according to an official announcement by the International Tin Committee in London on 9. Siam's decision, effective from Sept. 1, was subject o other but minor reservations. The Siamese Govern- s adoption of restriction brought controlled production, s stated, up to 92% of the world's total and eliminated ne remaining source of danger to the success of the ie. The price of lead in New York remained unchanged ghout the month at 4.40c. Many leading copper pro- s decided to suspend production altogether because of w prices—absolutely unprofitable prices for many pro- s. Thus the Quincy Mining Co. announced on July 31 t would suspend the production of the metal from Aug. 1 pt. 8. The Magma Copper Co. a few days previously nced a shutdown for three months.

the petroleum market further slashing in prices de oil was made early in the month to the lowest s ever recorded. On the other hand, at the close of onth prices were quite generally restored, and there indications that the situation might soon get under ol as a result of the aggressive action of the executives ne of the oil-producing States in taking a firm stand st continuance of the existing low level of prices. The le Oil & Refining Co., a subsidiary of the Standard Oil New Jersey, on July 8 cut crude oil prices in Texas 9 to 17c. a barrel, bringing quotations to the lowest for any large area in the history of the oil industry. ew prices ranged from 10 to 42c. a barrel, depending the gravity and location of the oil. In the North and Central Texas fields a flat reduction of 15c. a barrel was made, the new prices ranging from 10c. a barrel for oil below 29 gravity to 22c. on 40 gravity and above. In Gray County, in the Texas Panhandle, the reduction was 11c. a barrel, making the new prices 13c. on oil below 35 gravity to 19c. on 40 gravity and above. At West Texas and Lea County (N. Mex.) crude oils were reduced 15c. to a flat price of 10c. a barrel. But still worse was to come. What was believed to be the lowest posted price for crude oil in the history of the industry became effective on July 10 in the Toborg-Tippett shallow pool northeast of the Yates area, in Pecos County, where Shell Petroleum Corp. announced it would pay a flat rate of 6c. a barrel. On July 9 the Sinclair Refining Co. and the Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing Co. posted new price schedules for Mid-Continent oil, explaining that the reductions posted the day before by Humble Oil and the Texas Co. in Texas crude oil prices made their action necessary. The new schedule ranged from 10c. a barrel for 29 degrees with a 1c. differential for each degree higher, to 22c. for 40 degrees and above. The Stanolind posting also covered Kansas and North and North Central Texas fields. Following the widespread reductions in the Mid-Continent area and in Texas, the Standard Oil Co. of Louisiana on July 14 lowered its prices for Arkansas and North Louisiana oil, quoting the same schedule that was posted for the Mid-Continent area. The new prices ranged from 10c. to 22c. a barrel. Other reductions followed. For instance, the Ohio Oil Co. on July 13 reduced Wyoming and Central crudes 15c. a barrel, and the same day the Joseph Purchasing Co. posted reductions ranging from 5 to 15c. a barrel in the prices of Pennsylvania crudes.

The latter part of the month, however, the situation changed and prices were now gradually restored. The Continental Oil Co. led the movement for higher prices, and on July 22 posted a flat rate of 40c. a barrel for all grades of crude in Kansas, Oklahoma and North Texas fields. The company had been paying the prevailing scale of from 10 to 22c. on a scaled gravity basis. Following this move the Texas Co. posted advances in the same fields with a price schedule of 35c. for below 36 gravity and 40c. for 36 and above. Other companies in the same and other areas followed in quick succession, and the latter part of the month the upward revision of prices became very general. Simultaneously, active efforts were made to bring about improvement in prices by other methods—by reducing production of oil through proration measures and by the action of some of the Governors of the oil-producing States. On July 29 Acting Governor Clark of Wyoming telegraphed President Hoover requesting that he stop the sale of crude oil on Government lands below $1 a barrel. Governor Clark said in his telegram that the "unreasonably low crude oil prices prevailing in Wyoming" have created a serious problem in financing public schools, the University of Wyoming, and highway construction. Funds for these purposes are obtained from Federal oil royalties, the State receiving 37½%. The telegram also said the leasing act of Feb. 25 1920 gives the Government full power to "insure the sale of the production of its leased lands at reasonable prices." In Oklahoma Governor William H. Murray went further than this and issued an ultimatum on July 28 to petroleum purchasers, saying that unless the price reached a dollar a barrel he would use the militia to stop the further flow of oil by having all the wells except "stripper" wells shut down. The "stripper" wells, of which it was estimated there are about 15,000 in Oklahoma, with a total daily production of about 30,000 barrels, were not included in the order because a shutdown might cause their ruin from salt water. And at the opening of August the Governor proceeded to carry his threat into effect. Martial law was invoked by the Governor on the night of Aug. 4 to choke off the flow from 3,106 oil wells in the prorated fields of Oklahoma. This was his answer to those who refused his demands to post a price of $1 a barrel. The existing top price for oil of the highest gravity was 50c. His executive order, issued after National Guardsmen had entered the Oklahoma City field and brought about the closing of many of its gushers, established martial zones for 50 feet around all but "stripper" wells in the State. It directed that the National Guard maintain military control against all orders whatsoever "except an order from the President or the Supreme Court of the United States."

The following shows the leading price changes of the month, both in the case of crude oil and in the refined products:

CRUDE OIL.

Houston, July 8.—The Humble Oil & Refining Co., effective to-day, posted the following reductions in crude oil prices in Texas and New Mexico, making a flat cut of 15c. a barrel in North and North Central Texas oil. Gray County crude was reduced 11c. a barrel and a cut of 10c. a barrel was made in Carson and Hutchinson counties. West Texas and Lea County, N. Mex., crudes were lowered 10c. a barrel, while Gulf Coast oil was reduced 13c. a barrel. Refugio heavy oil and Mirando crude were cut 9c., while Refugio light crude was cut 13c. Salt Flat and Darst Creek oil were cut 17c. a barrel, and Pettus crude was lowered 15c. The Texas Co. met the reductions immediately.

Tulsa, July 9.—The Sinclair Refining Co. and the Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing Co. posted new price schedules for Mid-Continent oil, explaining that the reductions posted yesterday by Humble Oil and the Texas Co. in Texas crude oil prices made their action necessary. The new schedule ranges from 10c. a barrel for 29 degrees, with a 1c. differential for each degree higher, to 22c. for 40 degrees and above. The Stanolind posting also covered Kansas and North and North Central Texas fields. On July 8 Sinclair withdrew its posting in the East Texas fields.

Tuesday, July 14.—The Standard Oil Co. of Louisiana to-day posted reductions in the prices of Arkansas and North Louisiana crude to conform with the new price schedule in the Mid-Continent and Texas fields. The new prices range from 10c. to 22c. a barrel. Smackover was reduced 15c. a barrel and is now quoted at 10c. a barrel.

Monday, July 13.—The Ohio Oil Co. to-day reduced Wyoming and Central crudes 15c. a barrel.

Monday, July 13.—The Joseph Purchasing Co. to-day posted reductions ranging from 5c. to 15c. a barrel in the prices of Pennsylvania crudes.

Tulsa, July 22.—The Continental Oil Co. announced a flat price of 40c. a barrel for crude oil in the Mid-Continent fields.

Tulsa, July 23.—The Magnolia Petroleum met the advance posted yesterday by the Continental Oil Co.

New York, July 23.—The Texas Co. posted advances in Oklahoma, North Louisiana, North Texas, North Central Texas and Central, with the new price list quoting 35c. for below 36 gravity and a top price of 40c. on 36 and above. Advances ranging from 11 to 17c. a barrel were posted in other fields in Texas.

New York, July 23.—The Humble Oil & Refining Co. met the advances posted by the Texas Co. in the Texas fields.

Tulsa, July 24.—The Carter Oil Co., subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, advanced crude oil prices in Oklahoma and Kansas fields 17 to 20c. a barrel. The new schedule ranges from 27c. for below 28 gravity to 42c. for 40 and above. The Mid-Continent Petroleum Corp. and the Empire Oil & Refining Co. promptly met the advances.

Tulsa, July 24.—The Standard Crude Oil Purchasing Co., subsidiary of Standard Oil of Indiana, announced a new price schedule for Mid-Continent crude ranging from 30c. for below 29 gravity, with a 1c. differential up to 40 gravity and above, making the top price 42c. The Shell Petroleum Corp. announced that it had adopted the Stanolind price list.

July 30.—Effective immediately, Magnolia Petroleum Co. new prices follow: Louisiana-Bayou, 40c.; Haynesville, 32c.; Pine Island, 36c.; Cotton Valley, 30c.; Arkansas-El Dorado, 31c.; Rainbow, 31c.; Eastfield, 30c., and Smackover district, 30c. All prices per barrel at wells.

July 27.—Sinclair Refining Co. posts flat price of 50c. per barrel in Oklahoma.

July 25.—Midwest Refining Co. posts new prices for Salt Creek crude as follows: 30c. per barrel for 29 degrees and below, and 39c. per barrel for 40 degrees and above.

July 25.—Pure Oil Co. posts new price for Michigan crude of 57c. per barrel, an advance of 20c.

GASOLINE AND KEROSENE.

July 3.—Meeting cuts posted by other companies during the week, Pan American Petroleum announced that, effective June 30, tank car gasoline prices had been revised to 5½c. a gallon at New York, with corresponding reductions at other Atlantic Seaboard markets.

New York, July 8.—Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey announced a reduction of 1c. a gallon in the tank wagon price of gasoline throughout its territory, with the exception of Delaware, effective July 7.

Cleveland, July 8.—The standard Oil Co. of Ohio yesterday lowered the price of tank wagon and service station gasoline 1c. a gallon in Cuyahoga and Summit counties.

Dayton, July 6.—Standard Oil Co. of Ohio reduced the price of service station gasoline 2c. a gallon in Dayton and Springfield, and 1c. in Montgomery County, in which Dayton is located. This brought the price of regular gasoline to 14c. and 17c. for high test, including the 4c. State tax. Indian Refining, Cities Service and Shell Petroleum met the cut immediately and Sinclair and Sun Oil officials stated that they would probably bring their prices into line.

Philadelphia, July 17.—The Atlantic Refining Co. announced a reduction of 1c. a gallon in the tank-wagon and service station price of gasoline throughout its territory, effective immediately.

New York, July 15.—The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey announced a reduction of ¼c. a gallon in the tank car price of kerosene at Baltimore, Norfolk, Wilmington and Charleston, S. C., to 4¾c. a gallon, the same price as posted in the New York market, effective immediately.

New York, July 13.—The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey announced a reduction of 5c. a barrel in the price of grade C bunker fuel and Diesel oil at all North Atlantic and Gulf ports, effective immediately.

July 31.—Standard Oil Co. of Ohio advanced gasoline prices 1c. per gallon in Summit County, including Akron. The new prices, bringing this territory in line with the State structure, were 14c. for X70 and 17c. for Sohio Ethyl, tankwagon, and 15c. and 18c. service station.

July 28.—Shell Eastern Petroleum reduces gasoline 1½c. service station, in Philadelphia, making new price 10½c. exclusive of State tax.

July 28.—Sun Oil Co. reduces gasoline in Philadelphia 1c. per gallon, making new service station price 11c. per gallon, tankwagon 10c. per gallon.

THE TEXTILE TRADES—QUIET CONDITIONS.

The textile trades were quiet, like other lines of business, due to seasonal causes, but also owing to the blighting effects of the economic disturbances in Europe. The manufacturing statistics compiled by the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York, covering the month of June, or rather the five weeks ending July 4, were published on July 13 and showed that the production had amounted to 260,163,000 yards, while the shipments had reached 273,871,000 yards, equivalent to 105.3% of production, which latter, however, was at a much lower rate than in May. New business booked amounted to 355,902,000 yards, or 136.8% of production. Stocks on hand at the end of the month amounted to 288-235,000 yards, representing a decrease of 4.5% du ing the month. On the other hand, unfilled orders on June 30 1931 were 330,575,000 yards, representing an increase of 33% during the month. These statistics, on the whole, it will be observed, made a very satisfactory showing, though it is to be remembered that production during June was 7.7% less than the rate of production during May. The U. S. Census Report issued July 14 showed that the quantity of cotton consumed by the mills of the United States during June 1931, comprised 455,388 bales of lint and 61,433 bales of linters, as against 405,236 bales of lint and 59,196 bales of linters in June 1930.

A depressing feature in the cotton goods trade was renewed drop in the price of the raw material, cotton, the early days of the month prices continued to strengt after the downward reaction at the close of June an July 3 middling upland spot cotton in New York was qu at 10.35c. as against 9.85c. on June 30. But the rest of month the price almost continuously declined until on 31 it was quoted at only 8.25c. The price of print cloth Fall River for 28 in. 64x60 was reduced July 9 from 3¾ 3⅝c., on July 17 was marked down to 3½c. and on Jul was further reduced to 3⅜c. On July 8 the Agricult bureau at Washington issued its estimate of the area pla to cotton and put the reduction from the previous yea only 10% or at 41,491,000 acres the present season ag 46,078,000 acres in 1930, which was less than had hoped for, though it nevertheless left the acreage the lo since 1923. Weather conditions during July were, on whole, favorable for the new crop. The probable a of the Federal Farm Board was an uncertain feature. ton held by the Cotton Stabilization Corporation "will be offered for sale," pending issuance of a statemen the Federal Farm Board on its future policy respe cotton, Carl Williams, member of the Board, stated July 20. The "cotton year" ends July 31. Mr. Will pointed out and at the same date the Board's promise stabilization cotton would not be sold in competition the 1930 crop would also expire. The policy of not se however, would continue, he added, until the Board rede its policy. The Stabilization Corporation, it is unders holds about 1,300,000 bales of cotton. THE JULY FINANCING OF THE UNITED STATES TREA

The financing of the United States Government July consisted of the sale of three issues of Treasur offered on a discount basis and the proceeds of which to take up old issues of bills which matured duri month. This was independent of the sale of $100,000 such bills on June 29, but bearing date July 1, and whi been referred to as the first financing operation for th fiscal year of the Government beginning on July 1. offering, it may be recalled, consisted of two series for $50,000,000 each, the first running 91 days and July 1 1931, and maturing Sept. 30 1931, and the $50,000,000 running for 90 days and dated July 2 193 maturing Sept. 30 1931. For the first of the two serie tioned tenders were accepted to a total of $50,026,000 average rate on a bank discount basis of only ⅝ of annum. For the second series the tenders accepted $50,050,000, and the average price realized was the namely, on an average bank discount basis of ⅝ of annum. Yet better prices, however, were to be reali the Government on the sales actually made during Of these there were, as already stated, three separat The first of these occurred on July 15, and consisted day bills dated July 17 1931 (on which date an outst issue of $50,102,000 of Treasury bills was payable maturing on Oct. 15 1931; $50,000,000, "or thereabout offered while the applications reached $200,314,000, which allotments to a total of $51,200,000 were mad average price of 99.878, or an average cost on a bank d

asis of only about 0.49% per annum. This established a ew low record cost in Government borrowing, the best previus price having been at the sale on June 29, already referred o, when allotments were made to an aggregate of $100,-76,000 on a discount basis of ⅝ of 1%.

The second of the sale of Treasury bills in July was made n Friday, July 24, and consisted of an offering of 91-day ills dated July 27 1931 (on which day $53,510,000 of old ills were payable), and maturing Oct. 26 1931. At this sale he cost of borrowing by the Government was still further educed. Tenders for the bills aggregated $179,310,000, out-f which allotments amounting to $51,806,000 were made at n average price of 99.885, or an average rate on a bank liscount basis of only 0.46%. The third sale of Treasury ills during July took place on July 30. This was also for he purpose of meeting maturing old issues of these bills. Tenders were invited to the amount of $60,000,000, "or thereabouts" (according to the usual form), and the offering consisted of 91-day bills dated Aug. 3 1931 and maturing Nov. 2 1931. The applications in this case reached $221,171,000, and the amount accepted was $59,850,000. The result to the Treasury in this instance was not quite so extremely favorable as in the case of the two bill offerings immediately preceding, the average price realized by the Treasury having been 99.871, or an average rate on a bank discount basis of about 0.51% per annum.

While Treasury financing during July was, as noted, confined entirely to these sales of Treasury bills, the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, Ogden L. Mills (Secretary Mellon being in Europe), authorized a statement that the Treasury Department contemplated some permanent financing in the near future. The "United States Daily," in its issue of July 27, said that the following information upon the subject had been made available at the Treasury Department:

Consideration is being given by the Treasury to its general financing program, in view of the fact that $4,631,524,750 in Government securities either mature or are callable before June 30 1932, of which $800,000,000 falls due during the ensuing two months. The major financing is expected in September, when approximately $634,387,000 in certificates and in excess of $100,000,000 in bills fall due entailing new security issues.

Although thought is being given to a sizable bond issue, over a long period, no definite decision has been reached as to that mode of refinancing in the fall. The entire program is being studied, and it is unlikely that a definite decision will be reached as to the character of financing until the latter part of August.

Should there be no bond issue in September, it is considered certain that such an issue will be resorted to in December, at which time maturities will approximate $1,000,000,000. These will include $451,718,950 in 3½% notes called for that month, with the remainder of the total of $995,217,000 consisting of 1⅞% certificates.

Treasury records show that aggregate maturities for the remainder of the year include $444,500,000 in bills, $1,801,777,500 in certificates, and $451,718,950 in notes. The first Liberty Loan of $1,933,528,300 is callable June 15 1932.

It should perhaps be stated that the United States Treasury throughout the month kept issuing calls for repayment of the Government deposits arising out of the sale during June of the $821,116,000 of Treasury bonds bearing 3⅛% interest; $401,006,000 of Government deposits grew out of that sale, of which $143,480,750 represented Government deposits in the New York Federal Reserve District. The first of these calls came on July 1 and required the payment of $20,047,500 of such deposits July 6, and another $20,-047,500 on July 7 ($7,174,050 in each case representing Government deposits held by the depositary institutions in the New York Federal Reserve District). Successive calls for repayment followed, the last of these for the repayment of $17,577,500 on July 30, of which $6,290,400 were on deposit in the New York Federal Reserve District. After this, however, there still remained on deposit with the depositary institutions $233,529,700, of which $83,557,100 remained with the banks in the New York district. On July 30 still another call was made, but this required repayment the next month, that is, Aug. 3 and Aug. 4 ($31,526,500 on each day, of which in each case $11,280,000 represented deposits in the New York Reserve District). Even after these repayments, however, $170,468,700 of Government deposits still remained with the depositary institutions, of which $60,995,900 was in the New York Reserve District. The matter is of importance only inasmuch as the banks are not required to hold any reserves against Government deposits, whereas when these Government deposits become converted into private deposits the customary reserves are required.

NEW SECURITY ISSUES AND DIVIDENDS IN JULY.

Foreign financing in the domestic market in July consisted solely of the $5,000,000 Province of Manitoba issue of 4½% bonds, price not made public. Reoffered as follows: $2,500,000 due 1941 at 97.64 and int., to yield 4.80% and $2,500,000 due in 1951 at 95.75 and int., to yield 4.83%.

The major portion of July financing in the domestic market consisted chiefly of public utility and municipal offerings. The largest issue of the month was the $20,000,-000 offering of the Commonwealth Edison Co. 3½% gold notes at 99.88 and int., to yield 3⅞%. Another utility offering of size was the $15,000,000 Peoples Gas Light & Coke Co., 1st & ref. mtge. 4% gold bonds, series B at 94 and int., to yield about 4.29%. Among the municipal offerings may be mentioned the $15,000,000 issue of the State of Arkansas 5% highway bonds, price paid not divulged, and reoffered at par and int., for all maturities. The month's financing, classified as to nature of business and size of issue, is shown below, the table including only issues of $5,000,000 and above:

THE COURSE OF THE STOCK MARKET DURING JULY 1931.

During July the stock market again reversed its course, and, following the sharp advances established during June, suffered a new downward plunge. The economic disturbances in Europe were the primary factor in this. At the beginning of the month the slow progress made in getting the approval of France to President Hoover's moratorium proposal constituted a depressing agency. Then came the steadily growing intensity of the economic troubles with which the German Republic was struggling, the German economic system suffering an almost complete breakdown, the crisis reaching an acute stage about the middle of the month. Finally, during the last half of the month, the Bank of England became the object of concern. It suffered a severe drain upon its gold holdings, necessitating exports of the metal on a huge scale. This last presented the European situation in an even more disturbing aspect than before, causing grave apprehension as to the outcome and producing a general feeling of uneasiness. At the same time many aspects of the domestic situation, especially the lack of any sign of trade revival, and, indeed, with many indications of further trade setbacks, and with continued poor returns of railroad earnings and unfavorable income statements by industrial concerns, attended by continued dividend reductions and suspensions, furnished an uninviting background, not calculated to act as a stimulus to speculation in the stock market, but rather the reverse. Except for a general upward tendency on the first day of July, the course of prices may be said to have been almost continuously downward. There were occasional days of upward reaction, but they were quickly followed by a new downturn again. As for the extent of the shrinkage in values, the averages of 25 selected railroad stocks and 25 industrial stocks, making 50 stocks altogether, kept by the New York "Times," afford a pretty good indication. The average of the 25 railroad stocks at the close of June stood at 70.41; at the close of July it was 60.95, showing a loss for the month of nearly $10 a share. The average of the 25 industrial stocks was 206.20 June 30 and 186.93 on July 31, registering a decline of almost $20 a share. For the 50 stocks combined the average of 138.30 June 30 compares with 123.94 the closing price July 31, showing a loss in this instance of close to $15 a share. While the tendency of prices was upward on July 1, a downward reaction occurred on July 2, only to be followed by a strong upturn again on July 3, the day before the Independence Day Holiday, on Saturday, July 4.

When, however, business was resumed on Monday, July 6, after the two-day interlude, the market was distinctly weak. Traders appeared to be awaiting the outcome of the negotiations between the American and the French Governments for French approval of President Hoover's proposal for the suspension for the period of a year of German reparations and other intergovernmental debt payments. The outcome of these negotiations appeared to be in doubt. Late on the night of July 6 the negotiations reached a point where Mr. Hoover was able to announce that the French Government had accepted the proposal in principle, though there were technical differences which were to be left for the decision of a committee of experts. The response of the market on Tuesday, July 7, was a severe break all around, considerable selling being in evidence in all parts of the market. On Wednesday, July 8, the market suffered further heavy declines, though, on the other hand, on July 9 and July 10 the tone somewhat improved. Quite a number of adverse circumstances kept the market in a very unsettled state. Steel production continued to shrink, the price of copper further weakened, a new slash in oil prices occurred, the price of wheat dropped to the lowest level in 35 years, and a reduction in the price of rubber tires affected adversely the rubber shares. Developments in Germany continued decidedly depressing, and on Monday, July 13, the market opened with losses of two to three points in the active specialties as compared with the closing figures the previous Saturday, though a good part of these losses was recovered before the end of the day. On Tuesday, July 14, the market continued more or less under pressure, and on Wednesday, July 15, it suffered another severe break. This was the day when things reached an acute stage in Germany, and when the Bank of Germany made its first advance in its discount rate, and in a drastic fashion, too, the rate being raised from 7% to 10%, while the reserve ratio was at the same time lowered from 40% to 30%, and a severe collapse occurred in rates of sterling exchange on London, and, in fact, on almost all the other European exchanges, save only French exchange and Dutch and Swiss. Sterling exchange, however, sharply recovered the next day, and the Bank of England accordingly avoided an advance in its discount rate. For a few days now the stock market maintained a better appearance. The railroad list was under pressure nearly all through the month. The Inter-State Commerce Commission on July 15 began its hearings on the petition of the railroads for a 15% advance in rates, but the indications were that the hearings would be long drawn out and that there would hence be much delay in reaching a decision, thus postponing the advance in rates to a late date in the year, even supposing the decision should be in favor of the carriers. As it happened, too, the local traction properties at about this time weakened because of a decision of the Court of Appeals upholding the five-cent fare.

The last 10 days of the month the market was completely under the dominance of the European situation, which constantly furnished occasion for new anxiety and new apprehension. The Bank of England was subjected to huge withdrawals of gold, and on July 23 raised its rate of discount from 2½% to 3½%, and on July 30 made a further advance to 4½%. The Seven Power Conference for the discussion of means and ways of providing relief for Germany was in session from Monday, July 20, to Thursday, July 23, but appeared to have accomplished nothing tangible in the way of immediate help for Germany, which now seemed doomed to work out its own salvation. The last week of the month a number of adverse domestic events added to the prevailing feeling of gloom and despair. On Saturday, July 25, and again on Monday, July 27, intimations came that at the meeting of the directors of the United States Steel Corp., after the close of business on Tuesday, July 28, the dividend on the common stock would be reduced either to 5% or 4%, and also that action would be taken looking towards a reduction in wages. But the market did not appear to be disturbed by the news, and, in fact, the steel shares themselves were rather strong, with prices for the same showing a rising tendency on a growing volume of transactions. After publication, however, of the income statement of the company, with the exceedingly poor exhibit made by the same, and the announcement that the dividend on the common shares had been reduced to the basis of 4% per annum, the market again plunged downward, in which the steel shares took the leadership. The public had counted upon finding a poor showing, but nothing quite so bad as actually appeared. The general opinion had been that the dividend would be reduced to 5% per annum, instead of to only 4%, and then also the notion had prevailed that definite action would be taken towards reducing railroad wages, thereby curtailing costs and giving the company an opportunity to produce better results. Instead, the only announcement that came said that the board of directors had recommended that an adjustment of salaries of all officers and other salaried employees be made in varying percentages, depending upon the character of the salary.

Disappointed in these different ways, stocks suffered a big decline on Wednesday, July 29. Steel common opened at 87¼ against 92⅜ the final sale the day before, and closed at 84⅝, showing a net loss for the day of 7¾ points. The drop in this stock carried the whole market with it, the steel shares being particularly weak. Bethlehem Steel showed a net loss for the day of 6⅜; American Can of 5¼; J. I. Case of 4⅞; Westinghouse Electric of 3¼; American Tel. & Tel. of 4¾; Vanadium of 2⅜, and American & Foreign Power of 1⅞, and so on down the list. On Thursday, July 30, after further severe losses in the early part of the day, a sharp rally occurred. On Friday, however, the closing day of the month, the course of values was again downward. The European situation showed no improvement, and, in fact, late on Friday, July 31, the Bank of Germany further jumped up its discount rate from 10% to 15%, and its Lombard or security rate from 15% to 20%. Means were also taken for securing a large credit for the Bank of England, though this credit was not officially announced until the next day, Saturday, Aug. 1, when intelligence came that the credit would reach the large sum of $250,000,000, one-half to be supplied by the Bank of France and the other half by the New York Federal Reserve Bank in association with the other Reserve banks in the Federal Reserve System. In the United States the lack of any revival in trade became further apparent in many different ways, while commodity prices in numerous instances touched new low levels, copper dropping to 7½c. a pound, a new all-time low, crude rubber falling to 5½c., also a new all-time low, and wheat likewise continuing its downward course.

Trading was of only moderate volume, the sales on the New York Stock Exchange on many days falling below a million shares a day. For the entire month of July the sales on the New York Stock Exchange aggregated only 33,545,650 shares as against 58,643,847 in June, and comparing with 47,746,090 shares in July 1930. On the New York Curb Exchange the sales for the month were only 6,173,383 shares as against 9,972,998 shares in June, and comparing with 11,367,595 shares in July 1930. As to the course of prices of individual stocks a few illustrations will suffice. United States Steel dropped from 105¾ July 3 to 83½ July 31; Bethlehem Steel fell from 53½ July 3 to 34¼ July 30, and closed at 36⅞ July 31; American Can fell from 114⅜ July 3 to 90⅜ July 31; J. I. Case from 93⅝ July 2 to 54 July 31; Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. from 74 July 3 to 58½ July 31; American Tel. & Tel. from 184⅜ July 3 to 169 July 31; General Elec. from 45 July 1 to 39⅛ July 30, with the close July 31 at 40; American & Foreign Power from 38⅞ July 3 to 25⅝ July 15, with the close July 31 at 27⅛; American Water Works & Elec. from 55¼ July 1 to 44⅞ July 15, with the close July 31 at 47⅞; North American from 73⅛ July 7 to 63¼ July 30, with the close July 31 at 65½; Allied Chemical & Dye from 133 July 3 to 105¼ July 31; American Smelting & Refining from 40⅛ July 1 to 30⅛ July 15, with the close July 31 at 31⅜; Auburn Auto from 192½ July 7 to 137¼ July 31; Standard Oil of N. J. dropped from 40⅝ July 3 to 35¼ July 15, but with the restoration of oil prices the latter part of the month closed July 31 at 37¼. In the railroad list New York Central declined from 96 July 3 to 73½ July 31; Delaware & Hudson from 134½ July 1 to 117⅝ July 29; Atchison from 170 July 3 to 150½ July 31; Baltimore & Ohio from 64⅞ July 3 to 48½ July 31; Union Pacific from 172 July 3 to 152 July 30; Southern Pacific from 86⅞ July 1 to 75½ July 31, and Southern Railway from 39 July 2 to 27⅛ July 30.

Bond prices also moved lower, and in the case of foreign issues, particularly those of Germany and the South American countries, the declines were heavy in the extreme. As illustrations, the German international 5½s opening July 1 at 71¼, reached 76¼ July 3, but then fell to 55 July 24, and closed July 31 at 56¼; Brazil external 8s advanced from 78¼ July 1 to 80½ July 3, and then dropped to 58 July 25, with the close July 31 at 64½. In the following we bring together quite an extended list of domestic and foreign bond issues, to indicate the trend of the bond market during July:

THE MONEY MARKET DURING JULY 1931.

Notwithstanding the financial upheaval in Europe, with Germany on the verge of economic collapse, and with con current advances in the discount rates by so many of the other European central banks—the Bank of England rate having been twice advanced during the month, first from 2½% to 3½%, and then to 4½%, and the Bank of Germany having on June 15 raised its rate first from 7% to 10%, and on July 31 to 15%, and the Lombard rate (or rate on securities) having been jumped first to 15% and then to 20%—and with many other central bank rates on the European continent also marked up, either as a precautionary move or because of the promptings of distress, as related in detail in our discussion of the foreign exchange market—notwithstanding all this, the New York money market remained wholly unaffected, and there was not the least modification of the condition of extreme ease which had been maintained for so long. This is the more noteworthy, since, as related in our discussion of United States Treasury financing for the month of July, Government deposits growing out of the allotment of the new Treasury bonds disposed of the previous month were heavily reduced, by successive calls for the repayment of such deposits. The total of Government deposits growing out of the sale referred to was $401,006,000, of which $143,480,750 were in the New York Reserve District. The calls made during July requiring repayment during that month reduced the amount of these Government deposits to $233,529,700, of which $83,557,100 remained credited to the depositary institutions in the New York Federal Reserve District. The bearing of this on the money market consists in the fact, often dwelt upon in these columns, that against Government deposits the depositary institutions are not obliged to maintain any reserves while to the extent that such deposits are converted into private deposits the customary reserves are, of course, obligatory. However, at a time of such great redundancy of loanable funds as has been characterizing the money market, and with the discount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York standing at only 1½%, and the bill buying rate of the Reserve institution down to only 1%, this obviously was not a circumstance of any great consequence. Perhaps the same remark should be made with reference to the repatriation of short-term credits previously extended to Germany and other continental powers, but which were now being recalled owing to the l feeling of distrust created by the distressing devel-ts abroad. No information is, of course, so far avails to the extent of such repatriation, if any. The matter tioned here simply because any repatriation of Amerunds previously employed abroad must have served entuate the prevailing ease here. As it was, all ies of the money market remained exceedingly quiet holly devoid of special features in face of the sensa-happenings in Europe.

"Monthly Review" of the Federal Reserve Bank of ork, issued under date of Aug. 1, points out that one d characteristic of the money market has been a dis-on on the part of the banks "to maintain the most liquid le position." It ascribes the weakness in the bond
t. domestic bonds as well as foreign bonds, as due in o this circumstance, and then observes:

is tendency is indicated by the nature of the employ-ent of funds in these banks in recent weeks. For the wo months the member banks in principal cities have eserves substantially in excess of the amounts they are ed by law to maintain. This excess has been larger ore continuously present than at any time since the sion began. In ordinary times banks seek to employ tly any excess of reserves beyond legal requirements.
g recent weeks, however, the reporting member banks incipal cities have as a whole decreased their total and investments despite large excess reserves. This se is due to reductions in their less liquid assets, y, their loans on securities and their holdings of securi-ther than governments. On the other hand, they ind their holdings of bankers' acceptances, which are led in the reported item of "all other loans," and their gs of United States Government securities. As be-
New York City and other centers New York City banks sponsible for the entire increase in these two items, as the out-of-town banks show decreases in all classi-ns of their assets. This present conservative attitude banks and their desire to maintain their funds in an dingly liquid form operates as a limitation to the put-into active use of additional funds which become ble."

illustrating the great quietude of the money market
g July, it may be noted that virtually no changes red in interest or loaning rates in any branch of the et. The call loan rate on the New York Stock Exchange showed no deviation whatever from the 1½% rate has remained unchanged so long, this having been variable rate, both for day-to-day renewals, as also w loans. This, however, was simply because by com-understanding the banks have shown a determination accept less than that figure on loans made within the cts of the Exchange. Outside the Stock Exchange were obtainable nearly every day at some concession the 1½% rate, the outside rate having usually been
, though on several occasions day-to-day money was nable in the outside market at as low as 1%. This ure of loanable funds in the so-called outside market ted merely the overflow of funds for which no employ-could be found on the Stock Exchange, and with brok-oans showing still further contraction to the lowest e in seven years, as noted further below in our detailed ary regarding these brokers' loans, the difficulty ding the maintaining of the 1½% Stock Exchange rate ell be imagined. The time loan branch of the money et, however, was equally quiescent, also at virtually ered rates. As a matter of fact, the time loan branch dull to the point of almost absolute stagnation. Occa-l loans for three months and for four months repre-
d the bulk of the business done, and prevailing quota-for time loans were almost wholly nominal. Moreover, quoted rates extremely low, nearly every loan was at some concession from quoted figures in the absence of any demand of consequence for time accommodation. The quoted rate for six months' loans on security collateral never changed from 1¾@2% during the month, while 60-day loans remained unchanged at 1¼@1½%. For periods in between these two extremes rates varied a trifle occasionally, sometimes in the direction of slightly lower figures, and sometimes in the direction of slightly higher figures. Thirty-day money was often not quoted at all.

In the case of commercial paper there was a repetition of previous experience in the fact that there was always a good demand for paper of a satisfactory kind and that the trading was limited owing to the absence of adequate supplies of the grade of paper desired. Rates for choice names of paper of four to six months' maturity ruled at 2%, though some paper was placed at as low as 1¾% in the case of very exceptional grades. The "Monthly Review" of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, in discussing the paper market, says that the bank investment demand for open market commercial paper considerably exceeded the supply of high-grade paper that came into dealers' lists as a result of the borrowings of commercial and industrial concerns. It also says that according to reports to the Reserve Bank from 20 dealers the volume of commercial paper outstanding declined 4½% further between the end of May and the end of June, and that outstandings of $292,000,000 on June 30 1931 were 45% under those of a year ago.

The market for bank acceptances was without special feature during the month. The inquiry for acceptances was always good and business was restricted wholly because of the shortage of supplies of paper. In its discussion of the bill market the Federal Reserve Bank of New York makes the following interesting comments and observations:

"In the first week of July, a period that included the mid-year and holiday requirements for funds, the discount market was quiet, with dealers' purchases of bills slightly in excess of their sales. The second week of July, however, was a period of heavy buying by the New York banks, apparently in an effort to utilize excess reserves which were accumulating at that time, and, as the supply of bills offered to the market was not large, the amount of dealers' holdings was reduced nearly one-half. Although the bill market became less active subsequently, dealers' portfolios declined somewhat further in the third week of July to the smallest volume since mid-March, after which there was little change in their holdings, accompanying rather quiet conditions in the market. Throughout the month of July few bills were offered to the Reserve Bank, in view of the investment demand on the part of the commercial banks which not only took the form of purchases from the dealers but was also reflected in the withholding of newly created bills from the discount market. The total bill holdings of the Reserve Banks consequently declined from $103,000,000 on July 1 to $67,000,000 on the 29th, and the decline in holdings of domestic bills alone was even larger than is indicated by the figures for total bill holdings, which include purchases of bills drawn in foreign currencies, largely those acquired in connection with the utilization of the $25.000.000 credit to the Reichsbank that was announced last month. In addition, the amount of bills held by the Federal Reserve Banks for account of foreign correspondents showed a net reduction of $81,000.000 during July, following a smaller decrease in the second half of June."

The New York Reserve Bank also points out that as a reflection of the strong investment demand for bills from domestic sources the report of the American Acceptance Council showed that the group of accepting banks and banking institutions, which report their outstandings to the Council, held in their own portfolios on June 30 $89,000,000 more bills than a month earlier, and that their total holdings at $554.000,000 were only slightly below the previous high figure of January of this year. The total amount of acceptances outstanding, however, showed a reduction of $44,000.000 to $1,368,000,000 on June 30. Small decreases occurred in all the principal classes of acceptances, but the total continued to be larger than at the corresponding period of last year.

Rates for bankers' acceptances remained wholly unchanged. On Friday, July 10, late in the day, one dealer reduced his quotations by ⅛ of 1%, but the move met with no response from other dealers, and the following Monday this dealer again fell into line and quoted the same rates as the other dealers. The American Acceptance Council made absolutely no change in rates throughout the month in any of the maturities, quoting 1% bid and ⅞ of 1% asked for bills running 30, 60 and 90 days; 1⅛% bid and 1% asked for bills running 120 days, and 1⅜% bid and 1¼% asked for bills with a maturity of 150 days and 180 days, as will be seen by the following:

Again there were no changes during July in the rediscount rates of any of the Federal Reserve Banks, this being a repetition of the record for the month of June.

THE RETURNS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE AND MEMBER BANKS—BROKERS' LOANS.

Brokers' loans during July suffered further contraction and dropped to the lowest figure reached since June 4 1924. The total of these loans, as shown in the weekly statements of the reporting member banks in New York City to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York had recorded a steady shrinkage week by week from April 15 to June 24. During this period the amount of these loans declined from $1,849,000,000 to $1,406,000,000. In the last week of June, however, there came an interruption to the downward movement, and the amount of these loans once more ran up from $1,406,000,000 June 24 to $1,479,000,000 July 1. This was in reflection of the revival of activity on the Stock Exchange occasioned by President Hoover's action in proposing a suspension for a year on all intergovernmental payments, including German reparations. But Stock Exchange speculation soon died out, and after a $73,000,000 increase in the total of these brokers' loans in the week ending July 1, the amount thereafter was again reduced week by week until in the week ending July 29 the amount was down to $1,390,000,000 and making a reduction for the four weeks of $89,000,000, or the lowest figure recorded, as already stated, since June 4, 1924. In the different categories of loaning the loans made by the reporting member banks in New York City fell from $1,129,000,000 July 1 to $1,002,000,000 July 29, while the loans made for account of out-of-town banks increased from $181,000,000 to $219,000,000, and the loans "for account of others" remained unchanged at $169,000,000.

The Stock Exchange monthly compilation also showed a further contraction in Stock Exchange borrowing. For July 31 the amount of such borrowing is given as $1,344,092,754 against $1,391,324,922 June 30; $1,434,683,650 May 29; $1,651,128,124 April 30, and $1,908,810,494 on March 31. This establishes another new low record, the latest figure being smaller than that recorded in any previous monthly compilation since the Stock Exchange undertook the compilation of the figures—in other words, since January 1926.

In the condition statement of the Federal Reserve Banks the feature was the great increase in the amount of deposits of foreign banks held by the Reserve Banks. The total of these foreign bank deposits in the 12 Reserve institutions ran in the last statement of the month (July 29) in excess of $100,000,000, the exact amount of the item being $100,435,000; $42,000,000, roughly, of this increase occurred in the last week of the month, when these foreign bank deposits mounted up from $58,481,000 July 22 to $100,435,000 July 29. Only six weeks before, that is, on June 17, the aggregate of the deposits of the foreign banks stood at only $5,676,000. The increase has not been explained, but is understood to be due to the action of the Bank of France in disposing of its holdings of bankers' acceptances and turning the cash proceeds over to the Federal Reserve Bank. Many of these acceptances, it is believed, were German bills. And apparent confirmation of this explanation was found in the fact that the Federal Reserve System's holdings of acceptances purchased for foreign correspondents declined from $298,111,000 July 22 to $253,578,000 July 29, and since June 17, when the amount was $378,717,000, had fallen over $125,000
Other features of the condition statements of the Re
Banks were a further reduction in the holdings of ac ances, the Reserve Banks being unable to add to their ings of acceptances notwithstanding their purchasing for acceptances is down to 1%. These holdings of ac ances July 29 were down to $66,536,000 against $103,341
The shrinkage is even greater than indicated by the fa
the figures. This appears from a remark in the "Mo Review" of the New York Federal Reserve Bank whic quoted further above, notes that the "decline in holdin domestic bills alone was even larger than is indicate the figures for total bill holdings, which include purch of bills drawn in foreign currencies, largely those acq in connection with the utilization of the $25,000,000 c to the Reichsbank that was announced last month."

Two other features of the Reserve statements were increase in the discount holdings and a further additi their holdings of Government securities. The discount flect direct borrowing by the member banks. In the ending July 1 these discount holdings were reduced

COURSE OF STERLING EXCHANGE DURING JULY.

The course of sterling exchange, and, in fact, of a the foreign exchanges, reflected in full measure the f cial disturbances that held the whole of Europe in grip. These disturbances, be it remembered, were no l confined to Germany. The conference of the Seven Po which had been convened in London on July 20, as the Ge economic situation became more and more desperate, fo purpose of devising measures of relief to help German of its dire dilemma, adjourned July 23 without having accomplished anything for the immediate relief of Ger though having made a diagnosis of German ailments needs, abounding in excellent suggestions and recomm tions, but otherwise not fruitful in practical results.
Germans, as a consequence, were thrown back upon own resources, and hence were left, for the time bei least, to work out their own salvation. In the mean however, financial London was subjected to an exper hardly less harrowing than that through which Ger was passing. France was the cause. Whether it wa cause it was felt that London was in danger of impa its own position owing to the free way in which plans being devised for the benefit of Germany, or whether was a real attempt on the part of France to bring, for cal reasons, pressure against London, just as had been in the case of Germany, the effect in either case was to to huge withdrawals of short-term credits from Britain in the same way that there had previously withdrawals from Germany. The result was that Bank of England lost enormous amounts of gold.
loss of gold begot further distrust, and in the end a critical state of things developed. The Bank of En return for the week ending Wednesday, July 22, show loss in the bank's holdings of gold in the huge sum of 155,310, and in the following week there was a furthe in amount of £16,734,921, making £31,890,231 for the weeks combined, or, roughly, $160,000,000, and reducin total holdings of the Bank to £133,309,663, or far belo Cunliffe minimum of £150,000,000; further losses, t in somewhat diminished amount, followed on July 3 July 31. Sterling exchange at the same time badly, and, as a matter of fact, all the foreig changes became completely disorganized and fell i state of general demoralization. On Wednesday, Ju in a wild market, sterling exchange completely coll

of the early part of the month. It was supposed, then, that the Bank of England discount rate would be raised the next day, but developments overnight regarding Germany appeared to have taken a more reassuring tone. Apparently also the Bank of England directors wanted to allay public apprehension, and, accordingly, the Bank rate was left unchanged at 2½% at the regular meeting on Thursday July 16. The pressure of bills on the market then was suddenly relieved and cable transfers here recovered to 4.85⅜. On the day referred to, namely Thursday July 16, gold withdrawals from the Bank of England now reached enormous proportions, and continued day after day without interruption. The following, Thursday, therefore, July 23, an advance in the Bank rate became imperative, and the rate was marked up from 2½% to 3½%. Cable transfers on that day once more dropped back to 4.84. The succeeding Thursday the Bank of England rate was raised still higher, this time to 4½%, it having now become evident that heroic measures alone would suffice, and the Bank of Germany having in the meantime put its rate up from 7 to 10%. The latter on Friday, July 31, jumped its rate up still further, or from 10% to 15% (not to speak of the marking up of the Lombard rate, first from 10% to 15%, and then to 20%). At the same time bank rates at many other Continental centers were also sharply moved up, indicating the extreme gravity of the situation.

Sterling was at its weakest, as already indicated, on July 15, when cable transfers on London touched a low of 4.83¼, from which, however, a quick recovery to 4.85⅜ occurred, only to be followed by another downward dip on July 23, this time to 4.84. The latter part of the month, however, sterling rates were fairly well maintained at somewhat higher levels, and sales on July 31 were at 4.85¼@ 4.85⅜, which latter compares with a range of 4.86⅜@ 4.86 13/32 on July 1. The gold import point for shipments of the metal to New York from London was estimated at 4.85¼, and hence there were many occasions during the last half of the month, when gold imports from London to this country could have been made at a profit, and as a matter of fact a large shipment of gold was reported to have been engaged for export to New York, soon after the middle of the month, but which was subsequently cancelled. Cancellation was believed to have been the result of moral suasion on the part of banking authorities here, who made every endeavor to relieve the world financial tension. Leading bankers on this side were strongly averse to gold leaving London, regardless of the actual price of foreign exchange. The sharp break in sterling on July 15 was the result of heavy withdrawals by European centers of their short-term balances generally kept in London. Everywhere there appeared to be a flight of funds to the dollar and the franc and to such countries as Switzerland and Holland.

The Bank of England worked in co-operation with the banks and acceptance houses in London to prevent difficulties in consequence of these large foreign withdrawals of the metal. By far the greater part of the gold, as already stated, went to France, though Switzerland, Holland and Belgium also took some amounts of the metal. The MacMillan Committee, which on July 13 published its report on British finance and industry, estimated that foreign deposits in London three months ago totaled more than £400,000,000, leaving London debtor, after deducting foreign acceptances of about £150,000,000, in the amount of about £250,000,000. The New York Federal Reserve Bank, in its "Monthly Review," notes that while the exchanges of both Germany and England declined to points at which it was profitable for gold to be moved from those two centers to the United States, no gold was so moved. An occasional amount, however, nevertheless slipped through, as is evident from the fact that on Aug. 4 the daily statement of the Reserve Bank reported the receipt of $1,500,000 in gold from London. In the case of Germany, the Bank says, shipments were prevented by the restrictive measures in force in that country, though late in the month a shipment of $11,000,000 was reported to be en route. This $11,000,000 gold from Germany arrived here on Saturday, Aug. 1, and on the same day the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported an increase of earmarked gold for foreign account in amount of $9,000,000. Local bankers claimed that the shipment could not have represented a straight exchange transaction, because though mark exchange fell far below the gold point, the German exchange market was highly nominal, with only occasional individual transactions in Reichsmarks. Beginning July 14 the German banks were closed, while the subsequent decrees forbidding the export of capital in any form prevented any dealing in the foreign exchange market. Accordingly, bankers claimed that this German shipment of gold must have been an official transaction by the Reichsbank to set up a dollar credit in this market, possibly to enable German business to reach external obligations such as payment for imports. From the time the German decrees went into effect the German Government did its utmost to provide exchange for legitimate business purposes, although of necessity on a much reduced basis.

Sterling was really below the gold export point of London not only with respect to the United States (where, however, exchange rates stiffened in the closing days of the month), but also with respect to France, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland and some other countries, and all the countries named except New York took gold from the Bank of England and from the London open market. It deserves to be noted that in harmony with the higher Bank of England rate of discount, bill rates in the open market London also moved upward, thereby enabling the Bank of England to make its higher discount rates effective. Discounts in the London open market July 31 for short bills were quoted at 4⅛@ 4 3/16, and for three months' bills at 4¼@4 5/16, as against 1⅞@1 15/16 for short bills and 1 15/16 for three months bills at the beginning of the month. The contrast between these figures indicates the complete transformation which occurred in the London financial outlook within the brief space of two or three weeks. Indeed, at the opening of the month there was still some talk of the possibility that the Bank of England rate might be reduced to accord with the low bill rates then ruling in the open market. When the first advance of 1% in the Bank of England rate, to 3½%, was made on July 23 it had remained unchanged at 26% since May 14 1931. The advance to 4½% occurred on Thursday, July 30. These advances played their part in stiffening sterling rates at New York in the closing days of the month, but in the meantime the Bank of England, recognizing the gravity and urgency of the situation, was not idle in arranging other measures of protection and relief. The nature of these arrangements appeared on Aug. 1 when announcement came that a credit for $250,000,000 in favor of the Bank of England had been established, $125,000,000 to be provided by the Bank of France and the other $125,000,000 by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in association with the other Reserve Banks in the Federal Reserve System. In the early weeks of the month the Bank of England was still able to add to its stock of the metal. In its return for the week ending July 8 the Bank reported a gain of £1,389,838, bringing its stock of the metal up to the handsome figure of £165,810,946; even in the week ending July 15, while the return showed a loss, it was relatively small, amounting to only £611,052. But this was followed, as already related, by a loss of £15,155,310 in the week ending July 22 and of £16,734,921 in the week ending July 29. The New York Federal Reserve Bank, under date of Aug. 1, discusses London gold movements quite at length as follows:

"Of particular interest abroad during July were the heavy withdrawals of gold from the Bank of England, the net loss amounting to over $150,000,000. Beginning on July 13 and continuing almost daily a total of over $175,000,000 in bars was withdrawn, mainly for shipment to France, with Belgium, Holland and Switzerland also participating. In addition to these losses a total of over $30,000,000 in sovereigns was withdrawn for export or "set aside." Receipts at the Bank of England during July totaled about $40,000,000, of which $15,000,000 in sovereigns was reported to have been received from Argentina, Australia and South Africa; $7,500,000 was obtained in the market, and $13,750,000 in sovereigns was released from earmark. The bulk of the gold offered in the market, amounting to $15,000,000, was obtained by France. During July the Reichsbank also lost over $27,000,000 of gold, which was taken mainly for export to France, Holland, Switzerland and the United States. This includes $11,000,000 which was withdrawn from the Reichsbank for shipment to the United States late in the month. A shipment of $4,800,000 was received at Berlin from Russia."

As to the gold movements to and from the United States, the New York Federal Reserve Bank's "Monthly Review" had the following to say:

"Gold movements at New York during July were much smaller than in the previous month. The principal imports were $8,250,000 from Argentina, $2,000,000 from Peru, and $2,000,000 from Canada. In addition to these imports, the receipt at San Francisco of $1,250,000 from Japan and $1,500,000 from China was reported. These gains of gold were more than offset by an export of $1,000,000 from New York to Italy and by a net increase of $30,000,000 in the amount of gold held under earmark for foreign account. A preliminary estimate indicates that there has been a net loss to the country's monetary gold stock during July of about $18,000,000, the first monthly reduction in the gold stock since August 1930. Consequently, the net gain of gold for the elapsed part of the year stands at about $355,000,000."

THE CONTINENTAL AND OTHER FOREIGN EXCHANGES.

In the case of the Continental exchanges the distressing economic and financial situation of Germany was again the controlling feature. Conditions in Germany became truly desperate. Things reached an acute stage about the middle of July, and the result was to produce utter demoralization of the foreign exchanges all over Europe, with the French franc, the Swiss franc, and the Dutch guilder about the only exceptions. It was not alone that the German mark suffered, but that the sterling rate also collapsed, as already noted above in our discussion of the Course of Sterling, but that all the other leading Continental exchanges also for the time being fell into a state of collapse. At the close of June the German situation appeared to have assumed a somewhat more reassuring look owing to the action of President Hoover in getting the nations of the world to agree to a one-year moratorium on intergovernmental debt payments, including German reparations, though it was not as yet entirely certain that France would give unqualified assent. As further aid, a short-time credit for $100,000,000 in favor of Germany had been extended as a result of the joint action of the Bank for International Settlements, the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the American Federal Reserve Banks. President Hoover's plans looked to still larger aid for the benefit of Germany, but the French Government stood in the way. It gave only grudging assent to Mr. Hoover's moratorium proposal and declined all suggestions for extension of long-term credits, which was what Germany especially needed, and the Seven Power Conference for dealing with the German situation served mainly to demonstrate how futile all efforts along that line were certain to be. This Conference was in session at London from July 20 to Thursday, July 23, and was extremely disappointing in showing that Germany could depend on nothing more than the renewal of the existing short-term credits, which renewal the Conference enjoined upon the financial community of the whole world, and the renewal or extension of the short term credit for $100,000,000 granted to the Bank of Germany in June, but which originally was a credit for only a period of three weeks.

All this was a gradual development, during the course of which it became more and more apparent that Germany would be thrown back on her own resources for working out her salvation. Self help was the slogan recommended both inside of Germany and outside. The crisis was intensely aggravated by the failure of the Darmstaedter und Nationalbank, the fourth largest Bank of Germany, which closed its doors on Monday, July 13. This bank failure started runs on all the German banks on the same day, and the resulting rush to withdraw further foreign funds from Germany compelled the German Government to declare a bank holiday on Tuesday, July 14, and Wednesday, July 15, pending the formulation of plans for establishing dictatorial bank control as well as foreign exchange control and the adoption also of numerous other restrictive and regulative measures, the final effect of all of which was to completely upset the ordinary normal course of affairs.

In the earlier part of this article we have outlined the numerous measures of the kind referred to, put into effect by decree under the dictatorial power vested by the German Constitution in President von Hindenburg, and there is no need of enumerating them again here. Suffice it to say that on Wednesday, July 15, the Bank of Germany moved its rate of discount up at one jump from 7% to 10%. The Lombard, or security rate, was advanced from 10% to 15%. On the closing day of the month, namely, Friday, July 31, as a further desperate expedient, the discount rate was raised to 15%, and the Lombard rate to 20%. It was on July 15 that the acute stage of the crisis was reached. On that day, as noted above, sterling exchange suddenly collapsed, cable transfers dropping to 4.83¼ against 4.85¾ the day before, 4.86 on July 13, and 4.86 11/16 on Saturday, July 11. This was a new and wholly unexpected development, and was like a stunning blow from a wholly unlooked for quarter. Most of the other European exchanges, however, suffered a similar breakdown, though exception is to be made of several of the centers of the countries which were neutral during the war, more particularly Swiss francs and Amsterdam guilders, and also, of course, excepting the French franc. This was a startling demonstration going to show that the circle of the disturbance was widening, and, worst of all, that it had extended so as to include Great Britain, the world's great financial power. Sterling exchange showed quick recovery the next day, Thursday, July 16, the day of the weekly meeting of the Bank of England board, and in view of this recovery the Bank did not deem it incumbent to advance its discount rate from 2½%. But London now became the subject of gold withdrawals of the same intense severity as the Bank of Germany had previously experienced, and it became apparent that a deep feeling of distrust had grown up and was rapidly spreading—a feeling of distrust so deep that there was danger that it might involve all in ruin. It was no longer Germany alone that needed safeguarding and protecting, but England as well. The steps taken by Great Britain for dealing with this critical state of affairs have been enumerated further above in the proper place.

Germany, now left dependent largely upon herself, had resort to restrictive measures, one after another, the last of which was the advance of the Bank of Germany rate to 15% and the Lombard rate to 20%, followed early in August by a step closely suggestive of a moratorium on private debts. In the great and general slump in the exchange market on July 15 the German mark dropped to 20.00c. for checks and to 20.75c. for cable transfers, but there was quick recovery the next day to 23½c. for both checks and cable transfers, and the rest of the month the rate ruled above 23c., with the quotation for cable transfers on July 31 at 23.50@23.70c. These, however, as already related further above, were merely nominal quotations, there being few transactions of consequence in this market, exchange on Berlin being completely in the control of the Bank of Germany. In its return for the first quarter of the month the Bank of Germany showed a gain in its gold holdings in amount of 661,000 marks, but in the second quarter recorded a loss of 55,664,000 marks, and in the third quarter of 13,289,000 marks, with an increase of 10,495,000 marks in the final quarter of the month. Gold exports from Germany being now forbidden, the Bank of Germany could suffer only the reductions due to its own volition. It should be stated that with the total of the Bank's gold holdings so enormously reduced, they fell below the legal minimum of 40%. Thus the return of the Bank for July 15 showed a decline in the ratio of reserves of gold and foreign exchange from 43.8% to only 35.8%. The minimum was then changed by decree of President von Hindenburg and reduced to 30%.

As indicating the generally disturbed state of things all over Europe the numerous advances in central bank rates form the best illustration. The changes made by the Bank of England and the Bank of Germany have already been referred to. On Monday, July 6, the Bank of Spain raised its rate of discount for commercial bills from 6% to 6½%. On July 13 the Bank of Danzig raised its rate from 5 %to 6%; on July 17 it made an advance to 7%, and on July 28 a further advance to 10%. The Bank of Ireland moved its rate up on July 23 from 3½% to 4½%. This was the day when the Bank of England made its first advance of 1%. On Friday, July 31, the day after the second advance by the Bank of England, the Bank of Ireland further raised its rate from 4½% to 5½%. On Thursday, July 30, the National Bank of Sweden marked its rate up from 3% to 4%, effective July 31. On July 23 the Austrian National Bank advanced its discount rate from 7½% to 10%, and on July 24 the Hungarian National Bank moved up from 7% to 9%. On July 20 the National Bank of Yugoslavia increased from 6½% to 7½%.

French exchange kept rising while exchange on Germany and Great Britain and so many other countries was falling. As against 3.91 7/16c. on July 1 cable transfers on Paris advanced to 3.94½ on July 15, the day of the great crisis in the exchange markets. It then reached the point at which gold might have been exported at a profit from the United States to Paris, but no shipments were actually made. By July 24 French cable transfers were back to 3.91¾, and the close July 31 was at 3.92⅛@3.92 3/16. The Bank of France showed some loss of gold in the first two weeks of the month, but more than made it up in the remaining weeks. For the week ending July 4 it reported a loss of 196,930,680 francs, and for the week ending July 11 a loss of 1,459,819 francs, but in the week ending July 18 had a gain to its credit of 419,348,893; in the week ending July 25 a further gain of 1,246,483,172 francs, and in the week ending Aug. 1 a still further gain of 514,000,000 francs. The Italian lira showed no great change during the month except that it participated in the general tumble on July 15. Cable transfers on Italy sold down to 5.21 3/16 on July 15 as against 5.23 9/16 on July 1; the range Jan. 31 was from 5.23⅛ to 5.23¼.

In the exchanges on the countries neutral during the war, the feature as far as the Swiss franc and the Amsterdam guilder are concerned was that rates moved up when those on other centers except France kept declining. This indicated that the credits being withdrawn in such huge amounts from Great Britain, after the similar withdrawals from Germany, were finding lodgment largely in Switzerland and in Holland, apart, of course, from the huge amounts that were being recalled by French lenders and which found their way into the Bank of France. Cable transfers on Switzerland, as against 19.34 July 2, sold as high as 19.51¼ July 29, with the range July 31 at 19.50½@19.51. Cable transfers on Amsterdam, as against 40.22¼ on July 1, touched 40.33 on July 15, the day of the general collapse in exchange rates, and sold again at the same figure on July 25, with the range July 31 at 40.30@40.32. The Scandinavian exchanges, however, did not share in the rise, but rather moved downward in the general decline. The Danish crown for cable transfers was at its high figure for the month at 26.79½ on July 7, and at its low figure July 28 at 26.65, but recovered the latter part of the month and sold July 31 at 26.75. The Swedish crown was at its highest on July 7 at 26.82½, and at its lowest at 26.67 on July 22, with the range July 31 at 26.77@26.77½. The Norwegian crown was at its highest at 26.79½ July 7 and at its lowest, 26.66, on July 16, with the range July 31 at 26.75@26.76. The Spanish peseta followed a course all its own and moved almost continuously downward. The internal political disturbances were one reason for this, and the failure of the Bank of Catalonia on July 7 (a 430,000,000 peseta institution with 28 branches scattered throughout Spain) was another. The peseta for cable transfers on July 31 was down to 9.01@9.06 against 9.65@9.70 on July 1.

Exchange on South America during July was generally weak and lower. The numerous political upheavals, with successive changes, as in Chile, in the head of the government, explains this in part, but in addition the low prices ruling for the products of these South American countries were a further depressing agency. Impending defaults in interest payments on foreign loan obligations constituted still another untoward development. Chile announced her inability to meet her foreign exchange coupons due Aug. 1, and the City of Rio de Janeiro was another unit similarly affected. This last followed from the announcement which came on Monday, July 13, that the provisional government of Argentina had decided not to withdraw further gold from the conversion office for payment of interest and service charges on provincial loans. Accordingly, the provinces have to meet such payments out of their own resources, suffering the loss by exchange consequent upon the low exchange value of the peso. The National Government will continue to ship gold, however, for payments on the republic's own obligations. The German situation was reflected in Brazil by heavy withdrawals from two large German banks, the Banco Alleman Transatlantico and the Banco Germanico do Americo do Sol. The market was much interested in the report submitted by Sir Otto Niemeyer on the condition of Brazil. The Argentine peso for cables was quoted at only 29.65@29¾ July 31 against 31¾@31.95 on July 1. The Brazilian milreis moved irregularly, but was down to 6.90@7.05 July 31 against 7.70 July 1. The Chilean peso for checks was quoted at 11.99@12⅛ July 31 against 12.07@12.10 July 1. The Uruguayan peso went all to pieces; it was down to 44.62@46¾ July 31 against 58.02@58¼ July 1. When at par this unit has a value of $1.04. All the country's wool, it was stated, has been exported and meat shipments are very light, with the result that there are no exports to sustain the exchange value of the peso.

Exchange on the Far East was dull during July, the Chinese currencies moving strictly in accordance with prices for silver. The Japanese yen continued relatively steady, although Japanese business has been badly affected by world conditions and especially the unfortunate European developments during July. The price of silver in London, after moving up from 13 9/16 pence per ounce on July 1 to 13¾ pence July 3, later in the month weakened, and July 25 was 12 11/16 pence, with the price July 31 at 13c. The Japanese yen for checks was quoted at 49.33@49½ July 31 against 49.34@49½ July 1. The Hong Kong dollar for checks, after moving up from 25½@25⅞ July 1 to 26⅛@26 3/16 July 3, closed at 24½@24⅞ on July 31, and the Shanghai tael for checks, after moving up from 32⅜@32 11/16 July 1 to 33 1/16@33⅛ July 3, sold July 31 at 30⅝@30¾.

The tables on pages 16 to 38 furnish a complete record of the transactions on the New York Stock Exchange during July and range since January 1. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. The black-faced letters in the column headed "Interest Period" indicate in each case the month when the bonds mature.

In accordance with the rule adopted by the New York Stock Exchange in 1909, all quotations for interest-paying bond are at a price to which accrued interest must be added. The exceptions to the rule are income bonds and bonds on which interest is in default. A few other bonds, like the Holland-American Line 6s, for special reasons, are also quoted "flat," but where this is the case the quotation "flat" will be found against the name of the issue. This method of quoting bonds became effective Jan. 2 1909.

For footnotes to tables see last page of bonds and last page of stocks.

General Quotations

OF BONDS AND STOCKS

In the earlier part of this publication complete records of the dealings on the leading stock exchanges of the country, for the latest month and for the calendar year to date, are furnished. In this department of General Quotations we combine in one comprehensive whole, securities of all classes and descriptions, not only those dealt in on the exchanges but also leading unlisted and inactive securities. The following is an index to the different classes of securities quoted:

Quotations from all Stock Exchanges are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding the date of issue. As the New York Stock Exchange began with Jan. 2 1909 to quote all bond prices "and interest," we have adopted the same method and no longer employ a designating mark to indicate the fact except where there is a deviation from this rule. The reader will understand, therefore, that unless the letter "f" is prefixed to the price, he must pay accrued interest in addition to the price. This, however, does not apply to income bonds or bonds in default, in which cases the price includes the interest, should there be any.

The letter "f" prefixed to bond prices denotes that the quotation is a flat price—that is, that the accrued interest forms part of the price, and therefore the purchaser does not have to provide for it separately in making payment. As already stated in the case of income bonds and bonds in default, the price is always "flat," and no designating mark is employed to indicate the fact.

Quotations for guaranteed stocks are "and dividend"; that is, the accrued dividend must be paid in addition to the price. Stock prices marked thus (d) are per share. All others are per cent except bank stock prices, which are quoted per share unless otherwise stated.

It should be borne in mind in the use of these tables that the quotations for many inactive and unlisted securities are merely nominal, but in all cases the figures are obtained from sources which are considered reliable.

The following abbreviations are often used, viz.; "M" for mortgage, "g" for gold, "gu" for guaranteed, "end" for endorsed, "cons" for consolidated conv" for convertible, "s f" for sinking fund, "l g" for land grant, "op" for optional.

The black-faced type in the letters showing the interest period indicates the month when the bonds mature.

NOTICE.—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities

Under the heading "Industrial and Miscellaneous Securities" we include all issues which do not appear under the previous two headings, namely "Railroads (Steam)" and "Public Utilities." In the case of stocks, however, we put "Textile Manufacturing," "Insurance," "Mining," "Real Estate and Land," "Title Guarantee and Safe Deposit Companies" under separate heads, then follow with the rest of the "Industrial and Miscellaneous."

NOTICE.—All bond prices are "and interest" except where marked "f" and income and defaulted bonds.

United States and Municipal Bonds

In reporting below prices for State and municipal securities, we give bid and asked quotations wherever they can be obtained. The custo however, is to quote municipal securities on the basis of the return they yield per annum. Therefore in most cases it will be found that instead of acti prices we have inserted in the column headed "To Net" certain figures to indicate the interest rate at which business in the bonds is being do Thus 4.35% means that the particular security can be bought or sold at a price that will yield the purchaser or seller 4.35% per annum to the matur of the issue. Where two figures appear, as for instance "4.25% to 4.35%," the rate of return varies according to the maturity—the shorter maturities yie ing the lowest rate, and the longer maturities yielding the highest return.

In State and municipal bonds the custom has always been to quote them "and interest." That is, the accrued interest must in all cases be add on. There are a very few which form exceptions to the rule—that is, where the prices given are flat prices, the accrued interest having been taken i account in making them. These are indicated by a special mark, thus (f).

STATE AND NATIONAL BANK STATEMENTS

Quotations in this department are given per share, not per cent, except for stocks of Canadian Institutions, and are as near as possible for the closing day of the month preceding date of issue, though often are nominal. An asterisk (*) denotes sales

Figures of deposits, capital and profits for the national banks are from the Comptroller's last call; for all other institutions they are the latest obtainable, direct returns being procured by us where no periodic statements are required. For the Clearing House banks of New York, Philadelphia and Boston, deposits are taken from the latest weekly statement.

REVIEW OF AUGUST—COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL EVENTS.

The financial crisis which caused havoc in Central Europe in July swept across the English Channel in August and led to one of the most acute crises with which British finance has ever been confronted, ending in the downfall of the Labor Government headed by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and the establishment of a coalition or National Ministry with Mr. MacDonald still the leader. The gravity of the British crisis can be judged from the fact that credits aggregating $650,000,000 were arranged in the course of the month in Paris and New York to protect sterling exchange and avert utter collapse. British experience in this instance may be looked upon as the natural outgrowth of the financial and economic troubles that have been spreading all over the world during the last eighteen months. Virtually the entire continent of South America has been a seething cauldron of revolution because of the economic maladjustments. Cabinets have fallen in Europe like ninepins, and the entire international scheme of things altered profoundly. Now that British finances also have become so profoundly disturbed, it is to be hoped that the worst of the upheaval has been seen.

While it is not easy to trace the difficulties of the London financial markets in detail, some factors stand out with conconspicuous prominence. Foremost among them, of course, was the effect on Britain of the Central European crisis and the freezing of the extensive short term advances by London to Berlin, Vienna and other centres. This made London vulnerable, but there were, of course, many other contributing factors. The fact that England was governed by a Socialist Government with a tendency to toy, occasionally, with the thought of a capital levy was also disquieting to capital, and it has been recognized by authorities for many months that funds have tended to leave the London market for this reason. Important also are the heavy income and other taxes, which tend to drive capital away. Especially disquieting was the great strain occasioned on the National exchequer by the continued growth of the outlay for unemployment relief. To all these factors was added, in July, the wave of uncertainty that ran like a prairie fire through Europe, affecting market after market. Withdrawals of funds began on an unprecedented scale immediately after the German crisis reached its peak. London lost $175,000,000 gold during the last two weeks of July, chiefly to Paris. The Bank of England discount rate was raised from 2½ to 4½% in the same period, but still the flow of funds to the Continent continued.

On the last day in July a new blow fell, when the special Governmental economy committee, headed by Sir George May, rendered a report which Prime Minister MacDonald submitted to the House of Commons. This document disclosed a prospective budgetary deficit in Britain of £120,000,000, and of course the incident aggravated the troubles of the London market. The situation was already very serious, however, and Aug. 1 saw the announcement by the Bank of England of a £50,000,000 credit, extended in equal parts by our Federal Reserve Banks and the Bank of France. No indication of the period of the credit or other terms was given in London or in New York. It was authoritatively reported from Paris, however, that the credit was for a period of three months and that the interest rate had been fixed at 3⅜%. All accounts agreed that the credit would be renewed, if required. Emphasis was laid everywhere on the "psychological effects" of the credit, and it was assumed that this huge contribution would be ample to allay all fears and prevent any further heavy withdrawals from London. There were indications throughout August, however, that the credit was being employed liberally in order to bolster sterling and apprehensions were not lessened by the knowledge.

Simultaneously with the announcement of this credit in London, statements were issued by the Bank of England indicating that authorization for an increase of £15,000,000 in the "fiduciary" note issue had been granted by the Treasury to the Bank. This step was for a period of three weeks, and it was confidently stated by observers that the issue would quickly be retired when the heavy demands of the British holiday period ceased. At the expiration of the three-weeks' period, however, an extension was granted. The increase in the authorized fiduciary issue from £260,000,000 to £275,000,000 thus is seen to have been a step more easily taken than retraced.

The report of the special governmental economy committee was laid before the House of Commons on July 31, the final day of the session before adjournment for the summer. In order to forestall questioning, Mr. MacDonald announced that a Cabinet committee headed by himself would study the report during the summer and lay definite corrective proposals before the legislative body when sessions were resumed in October. The Cabinet leaders began this task promptly enough, but the results were again unfortunate. It appeared almost immediately that grave dissension existed within the Labor Government regarding the measures to be taken. The proposals under discussion in the Cabinet committee meetings included, it is understood, a 10% tariff on manufactured goods, temporary suspension of the sinking fund on the national debt, a special tax on fixed income securities, voluntary conversion of the 5% war loan into lower interest issues, and lessened contributions by the Exchequer to the unemployment fund. There were indications that the important Trades Union Council, to which the Labor Government looked for support, would object to a lessening of the social expenditures, and a rift in the Cabinet followed. This rift deepened rapidly, with the discussion centering altogether on the unemployment insurance benefits, which some members wished to reduce, while others wanted maintained. The reduction, it was pointed out, would affect the 2,719,376 unemployed directly, and probably 6,000,000 people indirectly. In the attempt to find a way out of the impasse, Mr. MacDonald sought the counsel of leading Liberal and Conservative party leaders. Such consultations were started Aug. 20, and a Cabinet crisis became hourly more imminent as they proceeded.

It became fairly obvious on Aug. 22 that a Cabinet change was impending, not the least important indication being the sudden curtailment by King George of his annual holiday at Balmoral, Scotland. The King returned to Buckingham Palace early Sunday, Aug. 23, in order to receive his Ministers in the event that the Cabinet should decide to resign. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservative party, returned to London from Paris Aug. 22, obviously in preparation for eventualities. An emergency Cabinet meeting was held the same day and announcement made that the "finishing touches" had been put to a scheme designed to meet the situation. Consultations continued all of Aug. 23, not only within the Cabinet but also with other party heads and with the King. It was authoritatively reported that the Cabinet was hopelessly split on the proposal to reduce unemployment insurance benefits 10%. Members were said to have voted 12 in favor of the reduction and 8 against, with Mr. MacDonald and Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden the leading proponents of the measure, while Foreign Secretary Henderson and First Lord of the Admiralty Alexander headed the opposition. Especial importance also was attached to the fact that Sir Josiah Stamp, a director of the Bank of England, met King George on the latter's return from Balmoral, with a lengthy conversation following on the financial situation. It also appeared, on the authority of the London "Times," that the £50,000,000 credit extended the Bank of England had been nearly exhausted, the Conservative mouthpiece adding that British credit is in "very grave danger" as a consequence. The acuteness of the political crisis was admitted by the "Daily Herald," which frequently voiced the opinions of the Labor Government. It was stated that a further Cabinet meeting would be held Aug. 24, but the journal added it "is the last."

Resignations of the entire Labor Cabinet on Aug. 24 at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, was thus accepted more or less as a foregone conclusion. King George immediately accepted the resignations and as promptly commissioned Mr. MacDonald to form a national government of all parties to deal with the emergency. The Prime Minister returned to 10 Downing Street, the official residence of the Government head, and began final conferences with Conservative and Liberal leaders looking to the formation of a suitable Cabinet. A Court circular, issued at the Palace, announced the fall of the Labor regime after its 25 months in office. Later in the day an official statement on the aims of the new Government was issued by the Prime Minister. This document contained the information that the House of Commons would be summoned to meet Sept. 8 in order to enact legislation designed to balance the budget. The new Government, it was said, would not be a coalition in the usual sense of the term, but a government of co-operation for the one purpose of achieving a balanced budget. The statement concluded with the observation that "as the commerce and well-being not only of the British nation, but of a large part of the civilized world, has been built up and rests upon well-founded confidence in sterling, the new Government will take whatever steps are necessary to justify the maintenance of that credit unimpaired."

Charges made on Aug. 24 by the Laborite "Daily Herald" of London, in connection with the fall of the Labor Government, attracted much interest both in England and the United States. The paper attributed the collapse to a "startling and apparently successful attempt by United United States bankers to dictate an internal policy of Britain." Behind the reports of the willingness of bankers in New York to extend credits to the new regime, it was further said, lies the "amazing fact that the Federal Reserve informed the late Government that such credits would only be granted provided specific and considerable economies were immediately made in administration and in the actual benefits paid under the unemployment insurance scheme." This account was most emphatically denied in official quarters in Washington, where it was stated that neither the United States Government, nor any agency even remotely connected with it, had "dictated" or had anything to do with the fall of the Labor regime. It was added that the credit extended the Bank of England by the Federal Reserve banks had not been exhausted up to that time, and that no appeal for additional financial assistance had been received from Great Britain.

It was made immediately apparent in London that the decisions of Prime Minister MacDonald, Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden and their associates in the old Labor Cabinet who intended to join the new Government had sacrificed their political careers. The Trade Union group of the Labor party, which is the backbone of the movement, promptly signified its intention of reading Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Snowden out of the party. Mr. MacDonald thus assumed the position of a leader without a definite following, as there will be no means of telling how many of his former supporters in the House of Commons will vote for his policies until Parliament convenes. Arthur Henderson, Foreign Secretary in the Labor Cabinet, led the revolt against Mr. MacDonald. It was conservatively estimated in London that fully 200 out of the 280 Labor M. P.'s would follow Mr. Henderson and oppose the policies of the new Government of co-operation. The economy program, however, is assured of the support of all the 261 Conservatives, 55 Liberals, and most of the 18 independent members, so that no difficulty is likely to arise in the enactment. Mr. MacDonald sent a personal letter to all members of the Labor group in the Commons, Aug. 26, urging them to think over the situation without prejudice before deciding on their attitude. He justified his own action on the score of the emergency, stating that he placed national interests above those of his party. At a joint meeting of the national Labor groups, Aug. 26 and 27, however, official action was taken to constitute the Labor adherents in Parliament the "Opposition" party. A manifesto, issued Aug. 27, stated that the Labor movement repudiated all responsibility for the actions of the new regime headed by the former Labor leader. A. J. Cook, who read the manifesto, said: "This means war. In my opinion the real crisis has not yet begun."

The personnel of the new emergency Cabinet was announced by Prime Minister MacDonald, Aug. 25, after protracted consultations with the other party leaders. A departure from usual practice is the constitution of an "inner Cabinet" of 10 members, who are expected to be most active in fostering the emergency measures and legislative enactments. Mr. Snowden remains as Chancellor of the Exchequer, owing to the great confidence felt in him throughout Great Britain. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservatives, is named President of the Council. In his position he will have no active administrative duties, and will thus be able to devote himself to the task of marshaling the Parliamentary forces. Laborite members, in addition to the Prime Minister and Mr. Snowden, who remain in the new regime, are J. H. Thomas as Secretary for the Dominions and Lord Sankey as Lord Chancellor. The important post of Foreign Secretary is filled by the Marquess of Reading Liberal. The 10 active members of the new Cabinet, as officially announced, are:

Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury—J. Ramsay MacDonald (Labor).
Chancellor of the Exchequer—Philip Snowden (Labor).
Lord President of the Council—Stanley Baldwin (Conservative).
Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs—Marquess of Reading (Liberal).
Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs and Colonies—J. H. Thomas (Labor).
Lord Chancellor—Lord Sankey (Labor).
Secretary of State for Home Affairs—Sir Herbert Samuel (Liberal).
Secretary of State for India—Sir Samuel Hoare (Conservative).
Minister of Health—Neville Chamberlain (Conservative).
President of the Board of Trade—Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister (Conservative).

Remaining governmental posts will be filled during the period of the Cabinet's activity, as follows:

First Lord of the Admiralty—Sir Austen Chamberlain (Conservative).
Secretary of State for Air—Lord Amulree (Labor).
President of the Board of Education—Sir Donald MacLean (Liberal).
Secretary for Scotland—Sir Archibald Sinclair (Liberal).
Minister of Labor—Sir Henry Betterton (Conservative).
First Commissioner of Works—Marquess of Londonderry (Conservative).
Chancellor of Duchy of Lancaster—Marquess of Lothian (Liberal).
Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries—Sir John Gilmour (Conservative).
Secretary of State for War—Marquess of Crewe (Liberal).

In a radio speech broadcast to his countrymen, Aug. 25 Prime Minister MacDonald explained the circumstances which led to the fall of the Labor Government and appealed for the support of the nation in the emergency faced by the new regime. The speech was widely regarded as his swan song as a political leader, and the Prime Minister's own comments appeared to bear out this interpretation. "To speak to-night under unusual, and, to me, rather sorrowful circumstances," he said, "I have given my life to the building up of a political party. I was present at its birth. I was its nurse when it emerged from infancy and had attained adult years. At this moment I have changed none of my beliefs and none of my ideals. I see it is said I have no Labor credentials for what I am doing. It is true; I do not claim to have them, although I am certain that in the interests of the working classes I ought to have them. But that as it may, I have the credentials of an even higher authority. My credentials are those of national duty, as I conceive it, and I obey them irrespective of the consequences."

Mr. MacDonald continued with a summary of the causes that led up to the financial crisis in England, attributing the difficulties entirely to withdrawals of balances from London by other nationals. "In a sentence," he said, "foreigners who had been in our financial trust have listened to ghost stories in a gloomy atmosphere and have become rather nervous." The need for immediate measures to dispel the difficulties was emphasized repeatedly in the speech, the Prime Minister stating that "things are happening which, if allowed to go on, will speedily produce a crisis." In these circumstances, he added, "action swift, decisive and effective, is asked for, and that we propose to give." The need for economies of a rather drastic nature was admitted, he pointed out, even the Labor Cabinet members being in agreement on this requirement although not on the means of effecting them. A 10% reduction of the unemployment insurance benefits will be one of the first aims of the new Government, he continued, and in justification Mr. MacDonald remarked that the cost of living in Britain has been reduced 11½% in the last two years, so that the proposed reduction will still leave the recipients 1½% better off than they were in 1929.

"There is one obstacle I should like to remove from the minds of my hearers," the Prime Minister said. "We are told that this is a bankers' ramp or conspiracy, or something of the kind against the Labor Government. The Chancellor of the Exchequer and myself were chosen by the Labor Government to be a contact between it and the Bank of England. From our knowledge and experience I can give you all the most emphatic assurance that this is not true. We were never presented with any political ultimatum. We never found in the attitude or conversation of those with whom we were negotiating any political bias, one way or the other. They told us when we put up proposals to them whether, in their opinion, those proposals would meet the circumstances to give confidence. When they were doubtful, they were perfectly willing test should be imposed. I wish to assure you that the attitude which they will observe toward the new Government will be precisely the same in character as was their attitude to the old, and if the Government succeeds in getting the loan, the old would have succeeded also, had conditions been the same. The situation is a financial one. It belongs to the world of finance. The only way to secure necessary money is to afford those who have money to lend a security that it will be paid back when required. That we would have to borrow and that people should have to lend may be against the laws that some of us have in our hearts. But we are living in a real and not in an ideal world, and the problem which Governments have to face arises from the real world at present and not from an ideal one of the future. One thing, and one only, will put British credit in a position of security at this moment, and that is a scheme consisting in economies on the one side and further revenue on the other."

The reference in the address to "the loan" was widely commented on as an indication that further aid would be sought by the British in the New York and Paris capital markets. Indeed, the reason for the comment appeared before the month was out, as the change in the British Cabinet bore immediate fruit in this direction. Arrangements for huge credits in favor of Great Britain were completed late Aug. 28, announcements being made in New York and Paris that $400,000,000 had been placed at the disposal of the British Treasury in equal parts by private bankers in the two markets. The credit is for a period of one year, with the rate undisclosed. The announcement issued here by J. P. Morgan & Co. stated: "We have arranged, in association with a group of American banks and banking houses, to extend a one-year credit of $200,000,000 to the British Government. We are informed by the British authorities that they are arranging in the French market for one-year credits and loans in the aggregate of approximately $200,000,000." It is understood that about 100 banks and investment banking firms in the United States will participate in the American share of the transaction, and that there will be no public offering of the securities. In the Paris market, it is reported, public offering of part of the French participation will be made at a figure to yield 4¼%. The funds thus placed at the disposal of the British Treasury are to be used, through the Bank of England, for the defense of sterling. There are said to be no provisions in the agreements for renewal of the credits or for refunding into long-term loans, but it is suggested that refunding of any portion utilized may take place.

Negotiations leading to the credit arrangements were opened in the two capital markets only on Aug. 27 so that the transaction was concluded with great speed. Paris dispatches of Aug. 27 stated that a British financial mission had arrived by airplane early in the day and immediately started conferring with officials of the Bank of France and representative French bankers. Sir Frederick Leith Ross, of the British Treasury, and H. R. Siepmann, of the Bank of England, conducted the Paris negotiations in behalf of the borrower. So far as the American portion is concerned, it is understood the form of the credit will be exactly similar to that of the $100,000,000 credit extended the British Treasury in 1925 by J. P. Morgan & Co. and associates. The earlier credit, extended for two years, was never utilized. Under the agreement the British Treasury was to issue its bills in the amounts that might be required. It is understood the funds now made available are not to be utilized for the liquidation of the $250,000,000 credit extended the Bank of England for three months on Aug. 1 by the Federal Reserve banks and the Bank of France in equal portions.

The new compact Cabinet of 10 members settled down to work at 10 Downing Street, Aug. 26, prepared to rush the measures necessary to restore international confidence in sterling. It was generally understood that no time would be wasted on controversial measures or party politics. Although there were many rumors of reductions in expenditures in almost all departments of the Government, the only definite item of the program was that announced by Mr. MacDonald in his radio address—the 10% cut in the unemployment insurance benefits.

Hardly less important than the British credit and political crisis was the procedure adopted in Germany to overcome the credit crisis that swept that country in July, reaching its height on the 13th of that month. Resumption of full domestic payments by German commercial banks was accomplished Aug. 5 with an ease and tranquillity that astonished all observers. This step followed the issuance of approximately 100 emergency decrees by the German Government in the three weeks that the crisis was at its worst. The greatest problem was that of reopening the banks which were closed July 13 by special decree. The restrictions were gradually lifted, but there were nevertheless fears of extensive runs on the banks in the event of the removal of the last restrictions. Elaborate preparations for the event were therefore made by Chancellor Bruening and his Cabinet. Such apprehensions proved groundless, as there were no runs on the banks in any of the important centres, while deposits exceeded withdrawals in almost all cases. After a meeting July 31, the Cabinet announced its proposals for the resumption of normal banking payments. Beginning Aug. 3, restrictions on payments by checks were partially removed, and unlimited transfers were permitted among the institutions belonging to a special clearing house of Prussian banks, formed for the purpose. Restrictions on check payments were completely removed Aug. 4, while unlimited cash payments were started Aug. 5.

One of the most important measures taken by the German Government to consolidate the position was the issuance of an emergency decree Aug. 1 regulating all dealings in foreign exchange. This was regarded as a precautionary measure, designed to make possible the working of the agreement reached by the more important creditors of German nationals for extension of the advances still remaining in the Reich. Some difficulties were experienced, according to Berlin reports, with creditors in Holland and Switzerland, while some of the smaller American banks also were said to have attempted further withdrawals. Under the emergency decree, all payments to foreign creditors were put under the supervision of the Reichsbank, which was understood to have placed a partial moratorium in effect. It was stipulated in the decree, however, that exchange must always be provided when desired for the payment of interest or amortization of debts. An announcement by the German Government Aug. 1 said: "In the freezing negotiations concerning short-term indebtedness which are now pending between foreign creditors and German debtors, the wish has been expressed that foreign creditors standing outside the negotiating groups should by no means be given a preferred position as compared to the groups which are ready, in principle, to submit themselves to voluntary limitations. This consideration and the economic necessity of foreign exchange control in Germany have resulted in the Reich issuing a general ruling on foreign exchange. As a result of the decree, not only is the independent freezing consortium made secure, but it is obvious that payment of interest and of redemption sums on the dates of maturity will be subjected to no restrictions."

Restrictions upon banking with in Germany were completely removed Aug. 8 when withdrawals from the savings banks up to 300 marks were permitted without notification. The institutions were prepared to exercise their right of requesting 30 days' written notice for larger withdrawals, but this procedure proved unnecessary. Resumption of normal savings bank payments was accompanied by rather larger withdrawals at some Berlin institutions than were noted when the commercial banks again made full payments, but banks in the provinces reported good results and began to ship currency to the Reichsbank. Encouraged by these developments and by a steady improvement in the position of the Reichsbank, the central council of the German central bank decided, Aug. 11, to lower the discount rate from 15% to 10%, and the rate on collateral loans from 20% to 15%. A statement issued at the time by the Reichsbank authorities indicated that the new rates were still regarded as excessive and that every effort would be made to reduce them further. Restrictions on foreign exchange dealings by the importers and exporters of the Reich, applied Aug. 6 under an emergency decree, were removed Aug. 7 owing to numerous protests against application of the rigorous rules. Complete freedom for the foreign trade of the country was restored by a decree of the Bruening Government.

Something of a political sensation was provided Aug.19 by the Basle committee of bankers from 10 leading nations, called together by the B. I. S. at the behest of the London conference of Governments to inquire into the immediate further credit needs of Germany and to study the possibilities of converting a portion of the short-term credits extended that country into long-term credits. After 10 days of deliberation this committee announced not only an agreement for a six months' extension of more than $1,000,000,000 of the short-term credits still outstanding in Germany, but also made public a summary of a separate "report" which recommended in diplomatic language a number of far-reaching steps for the economic recovery of Germany in particular and of the world in general. The need for extension of the Reich credits was obvious and the action of the bankers in that regard was expected. All attention was concentrated, accordingly, on the report, which Basle press correspondents stated "authoritatively" contained an unequivocal recommendation for revision of German reparations payments, but examination of the report failed to bear out that interpretation.

The committee met Aug. 8 under the chairmanship of Albert H. Wiggin, Chairman of the Board of the Chase National Bank of New York. It included also eminent bankers from Britain, Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Switzerland, Sweden, Holland and Japan. As the discussions proceeded, some difficulties apparently arose regarding the scope of the credit extension, but a substantial accord among the bankers was reported in Basle dispatches early in the deliberations. The agreement for prolongation of the private credits was said to be dependent on a similar extension to a period of six months of the $100,000,000 credit extended the Reichsbank June 25 by the Federal Reserve Banks, the Bank of England, the Bank of France, and the B. I. S.

A material divergence of views was reported on the question of the mark balances in German banks for account of foreign institutions, and the agreement was modified on this point. Such deposits, estimated at 700,000,000 marks, are to be released gradually during the term of the agreement. The total foreign short-term credits outstanding in Germany on July 31 were given as 7,400,000,000 marks, and this figure apparently includes the 700,000,000 of mark balances, leaving at 6,700,000,000 marks the credits actually extended for the full six months' period. Not all the press reports agree on this figure, some placing the short-term credits involved in the extension at 5,000,000,000 marks.

The report which aroused so much interest because of its political implications is understood to have been drafted chiefly by Sir Walter Layton, of Great Britain. It is a 5,000-word document, of which the essence is said to lie in its final paragraph, which states: "We therefore conclude by urging most earnestly upon all governments concerned that they lose no time in taking necessary measures for bringing about such conditions as will allow financial operations to bring to Germany—and therefore to the world—sorely needed assistance." The Young plan of reparations payments is not mentioned by name in the report, and the bankers' committee only goes so far as to say: "We think it essential that before the period of prolongation of credits recommended by the London conference comes to an end that the governments concerned should give to the world the assurance that international political relations are established on a basis of mutual confidence, which is the sine qua non of economic recovery, and that international payments to be made by Germany will not be such as to imperil the maintenance of her financial stability."

The report pointed out that the weakness in the German financial situation at the end of 1930 arose out of the fact that whereas Germany's foreign short-term indebtedness was no less than 10,300,000,000 marks, having increased to that figure from 4,100,000,000 marks at the end of 1926, Germany's short-term investments abroad, including foreign exchange holdings of the Reichsbank, amounted only to 5,300,000,000 marks. "The increase in short-term debt was quite out of proportion to the growth of foreign trade," it is said, "and there is little doubt that it was used to a large extent to replace working capital when long-term money proved not available. While it would have been better if these short-term credits could have been converted into a long-term debt, it was probably not possible, and, in any event, was not done. When, therefore, an outflow of capital occurred, it found Germany in a very vulnerable position, which, in spite of an export surplus existing during the first six months of 1931, produced a serious crisis. It is estimated that the withdrawal from abroad of short-term funds in the first six months of 1931 amounted to 2,900,000,000 marks, in addition to which there was a certain amount of selling by foreigners of long-term investments in Germany and purchases by Germans of long and short term investments abroad. In all, the outflow appears to have been about 3,500,000,000 marks.

"The committee expresses no view regarding the capacity of Germany to provide her capital needs out of internal savings, but emphasizes that the piling up of her obligations is no ultimate solution of her problem. The immediate credit needs involve the cessation of withdrawals, for which purpose the committee has been in touch with the bankers regarding the so-called 'standstill' agreements with foreign countries whereby existing credits will be maintained. The committee concludes that unless part of the capital withdrawn can be replaced the economy of Germany will continue in a condition of severe strain." Mobilization of German assets abroad was not considered a remedy for the situation by the committee, while the alternative of heavily reduced imports and greatly increased exports by Germans also is viewed unfavorably, owing not merely to the dislocation this would occasion in German economic life, but also the serious effects on other markets. It was held advisable from all viewpoints, accordingly, that the existing volume of Germany's foreign credits be maintained and that part of the capital recently withdrawn be replaced from foreign sources, rather in the form of long-term credits than of short-term loans.

Proceeding in the second part of the report to a consideration of conversion possibilities, the committee stated that the German economic position did not appear unfavorable for a transformation of a portion of the short-term debt into long-term obligations. It was remarked, significantly, that there has been a rapid recovery of Germany's export trade in recent years. The authorities of the Reich, moreover, are said to have given proof of their determination to put the public finances on a sound basis. At present, however, conversion possibilities are ruled out on the sufficient basis of the low prices now prevalent for German securities on foreign securities markets.

"Two fundamental difficulties remain to be overcome," the report added. "Until the relations between Germany and other European powers are established on a basis of mutual confidence there can be no assurance of continued economic progress. The second condition relates to the external obligations of Germany. So long as these obligations, both private and public, are such as to involve either a continuous increase in snowball fashion of the foreign debt of Germany, or, alternatively, a disproportion between her exports and imports on such a scale as to threaten economic prosperity of other countries, prospective investors are unlikely to regard the situation as stable." The committee recommended, accordingly, as quoted above, that the powers represented at the London conference take measures for the restoration of world confidence in political relations and provide assurances that payments by Germany will not imperil her financial stability.

COTTON AND COTTON GOODS—AGRICULTURAL BUREAU'S ESTIMATE OF UNEXPECTEDLY LARGE CROP BRINGS PROPOSAL FROM FEDERAL FARM BOARD THAT PLANTERS PLOW UNDER EVERY THIRD ROW OF THE GROWING CROP.

Agricultural prices suffered further severe breaks during August, and the market value of cotton in particular underwent complete collapse. On Saturday, Aug. 8, the Agricultural Department at Washington made public its estimate of the probable size of the growing crop and put the yield at 15,584,000 bales, or 1,500,000 bales more than the average of private estimates, and comparing with an actual production in 1930 of 13,932,000 bales, in 1929 of 14,828,000 bales, in 1928 of 14,478,000 bales, and in 1927 of 12,955,000 bales, all of these figures referring to the growth of lint cotton and taking no account of the production of linters. The condition of the crop, too, as of Aug. 1, was put at 74.9% of normal, this comparing with the condition of 62.2% at the same date in 1930, of 69.6% in 1929, and a 10-year average condition of 67.5%. The 1931 condition of 74.9% was the highest Aug. 1 condition since 1915, and the indicated yield per acre of 185.8 pounds was the highest yield secured since 1914, when the yield was 209.2 pounds per acre. The bulk of the great increase in the expected size of the 1931 crop was found in the three big Southwestern States, the prospective yield in Texas being put at 5,018,000 bales, against an actual crop in that State in 1930 of 4,038,000 bales, while the probable production in Oklahoma was put at 1,200,000 bales against 854,000 bales in 1930, and the crop in Arkansas at 1,614,000 bales against 874,000 bales.

As a result of this high estimate for the growing crop, market prices of the staple were badly smashed all around. The Government's estimate was put out at noon on Saturday, Aug. 8, and as a consequence prices of cotton futures plunged down 122 to 142 points, or about $7 a bale, at the opening of the New York Cotton Exchange on Monday, Aug. 10. The decline brought the October delivery down to 6.70c. a pound, the lowest price for any cotton future since January 1905; later in that day's session there was a moderate recovery, and closing prices were from 109 to 114 points, or a little more than a cent a pound, lower. The decline at New York had been preceded by a slump on Saturday on the Chicago Board of Trade, which, on account of the difference in time, was still open when the Government report was issued. In view of the fact that the price at Chicago had declined 150 points, on relatively light trading, there was much misgiving concerning the opening at New York on Monday, Aug. 10. Some authorities predicted that the decline here might reach 2c. a pound, the limit for a single day, under the rules of the New York Cotton Exchange, and that it was not improbable that ultimately cotton might touch 5c. a pound. Before the New York market opened on Monday, Aug. 10, attention was centered on the principal foreign markets at Bremen and Liverpool. Bremen opened 150 points, or 1½c. a pound, lower, while the Liverpool market was virtually demoralized, with prices nearly 2c. a pound lower. Later, however, these markets recovered in sympathy with a firmer tone at New York. At the lowest prices on Monday, Aug. 10, the October delivery, it was pointed out, was exactly 4c. a pound lower than the high point reached on the rally at the end of June, which accompanied President Hoover's suggestion for a moratorium on war debts. Prices, however, were destined to reach still lower figures, and the October delivery on Aug. 20 sold down to 6.57c., with the close Aug. 31 for this option at 6.94@6.96c. Spot cotton here in New York on Aug. 19 touched 6.50c. and after a recovery the latter part of the month, to 7.25c. Aug. 29, closed Aug. 31 at 7.00c.

The collapse in the market prices of the staple brought from the Federal Farm Board, on Aug. 12, the extraordinary proposition that Southern planters destroy one-third the prospective crop by plowing under every third row of growing cotton. A telegram signed by Chairman James C. Stone was sent to the Governors of Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas. The telegram stated that the Government's estimate of the probable yield of 15,584,000 bales, if realized, provided a total crop and carryover supply of American cotton of more than 24,500,000 bales, against a probable world consumption of American cotton in "this fiscal year" of 13,000,000, or possibly 14,000,000 bales, leaving a probable carryover one year hence of around 11,000,000 bales. This prospect, it was urged, had already resulted in drastic declines in cotton prices, "which, if allowed to continue, may bring direct disaster to the cotton producing States and indirect distress to the nation." The telegram also said that "through serious world depression of the last two years Federal Farm Board has steadfastly attempted to protect cotton farmers and all who deal with them from price declines such as have affected all industries, first by 16c loans to cotton co-operatives, second by removal from market by Cotton Stabilization Corp. of 1,300,000 bales, third by 90% loans to co-operatives last year." These efforts, it was stated, had some measure of success, but had been outweighed by continual excess production and continually increasing surplus. The Board believed that the time had now come when cotton producers themselves must be called ion for immediate and drastic action. The problem to be lved was to secure abandonment in an organized and derly fashion, which would give farmers a better return the remainder. The Board was convinced that "such ganized reduction, immediately done, will be more than paid by increased price received by growers, on this nd future crops, entirely aside from savings by reason of o picking and ginning costs on that part of crop plowed nder."

The Board, on its part, promised that "if the 10 largest otton producing States accept and carry out this program his Board will do all in its power to support the program nd will pledge itself to permit no sales by the Cotton tabilization Corp. of its present holdings before July 31 932, and will urge upon the cotton co-operatives financed y the Board the desirability of similar action by them on heir stocks of 1930 cotton now held." It was added that this program, if fully carried out by Southern farmers, as vell as by ourselves, will mean reduction of total supply by at least 4,000,000 bales, and withholding from this year's narket of 3,000,000 bales more"—this last presumably meaning the Farm Board's own holdings of 1,300,000 bales plus holdings of cotton co-operatives financed by the Farm Board.

This proposal was very coldly received by the planters and ridiculed by many others. It was not strange that it was not hailed with enthusiasm by the Southern growers of cotton. In compliance with the request of the Farm Board they had already reduced their acreage (as compared with the year preceding) to the extent of 10%. And now, after having gone to the labor, the trouble, and the expense of planting the remaining 90%, bought the seed and perhaps added fertilizing material, too, they were asked to throw one-third of this 90% away by plowing under every third row planted. The whole thing had the appearance of wanton waste and destruction. Chairman James C. Stone, on Aug. 22, according to advices from Washington to the New York "Times," in which it was stated that the Farm Board was evolving some new plan for dealing with the situation, was quoted as having said that the plan to destroy one-third of the growing crop had been rejected by 10 of the 14 Governors of the cotton growing States, whose co-operation had been asked.

Counter proposals in great number were now offered. The one of these proposals which attracted most attention came from Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana, who announced on Aug. 16 that he was sending telegrams to all Governors, United States Senators, Congressmen and Lieutenant-Governors of the cotton growing States asking them to meet at New Orleans on Friday, Aug. 21, to lay plans for enacting State legislation prohibiting "the raising of a single bale of cotton in all cotton growing States during the year 1932." The telegrams predicted a return of prosperity to the South within two weeks if such action was taken immediately, and added: "The farmers will get more money for this year's crop alone than they will get for this and the next two cotton crops they raise." Governor Long advised those to whom he addressed his telegrams to "issue notice to your farmers to gather their cotton and sell none of it until the result of this meeting is accomplished, because we want the benefit to go to the farmer. When that is accomplished, all business prospers." At the conference on Aug. 21 a resolution was adopted by which it was resolved "that this conference does hereby go on record as indorsing the so-called 'Long plan' by which all Legislatures in the cotton growing States are urged to pass legislation to forbid and prohibit the planting and gathering of cotton in the year 1932, subject to the proviso that the statute of any one State shall not be binding unless and until similar legislation shall be adopted by States producing not less than three-fourths of the cotton grown in the United States."

The conference went further and also adopted a suggestion made by Senator T. H. Caraway, of Arkansas, that the Federal Farm Board be urged to acquire 8,000,000 bales from cotton growers at a price above the present market, to be allocated among the farmers in proportion to the number of bales they have been accustomed to growing. This proposal or suggestion read as follows:

"Be it resolved, That this convention recognizes the immediate urgency and necessity of action being taken by the Federal Farm Board, by purchase and otherwise, to relieve the distress created by the overproduction of cotton, and we suggest that the Farm Board shall acquire from the farmers 8,000,000 bales of cotton at a price above the present market and hold the same to be allocated among the farmers in proportion to the number of bales they have been accustomed to grow, conditioned upon their signing a contract not to grow any cotton in the year 1932: this allocated cotton to be held until the farmer to whom it shall be allocated shall order its sale sometime during the year 1932."

Governor Long acted with great expedition and called the Louisiana Legislature in special session for the purpose of enacting the necessary legislation. The result was that on Aug. 27 a bill prohibiting the planting, gathering and ginning of cotton in Louisiana in 1932 was passed unanimously by the Louisiana House of Representatives and sent immediately to the Senate, where the measure was passed with similar unanimity. The measure is contingent on similar action by States having 75% of the cotton acreage of the United States in 1930. The bill makes it a misdemeanor for any person, firm or corporation to "plant cotton seed, to raise cotton, to gather cotton, and to gin cotton in Louisiana in 1932." The penalty provided for violation of the Act is a fine not less than $100 or more than $500, or imprisonment of not less than 10 days or more than 60 days for each offense. The Act also empowers the State Commissioner of Agriculture to cause to be destroyed any cotton found growing in 1932. Governor Long, who was a spectator during the debate in the House, called the action taken "a complete adoption of the resolution of the Conference of the Cotton Growing States of America held in New Orleans last Friday" (Aug. 21). He declared that if other Governors and Legislatures of cotton States take similar action within the next two weeks cotton will soon be selling at from 15 to 20c. a pound throughout the world, and stated that it would be a crime for the Legislatures of the cotton growing States to let pass this opportunity to restore prosperity to their people.

The Federal Farm Board announced on Aug. 19 that it had completed arrangements with the American Cotton Co-operative Association for supplemental final financing on a basis of which the cotton co-operatives will be able at present price levels to advance to their grower members, for deliveries of the 1931 crop, an amount equal to 1c. per pound less than the market price at point of delivery. Newspaper dispatches pointed out that the decision represented a departure by the Board, which in 1930 had granted loans on a basis of 90% of the value of spot cotton, and in 1929 had made a flat advance of 16c. a pound.

Two Atlanta banks—the First National Bank and the Citizens' & Southern National Bank—announced on Aug. 22 that they would make available long-term loans to growers up to 80% of the value of their 1931 crops. At the same time it was noted in the Atlanta "Constitution" that Eugene Talmadge, Commissioner of Agriculture, had appeared before the Georgia House of Representatives to recommend legislation to prevent planting or cultivation of cotton within the State during 1932.

Alexander Legge, President of the International Harvester Co., and former Chairman of the Federal Farm Board, was on Aug. 12 elected to the Board of Directors of the Cotton Stabilization Corp. The Stabilization Corp. is the Farm Board holding agency controlling 1,300,000 bales of Government owned cotton and held its annual Board of Directors' meeting with members of the Government agency. Following this meeting the American Cotton Co-operative Association, farmer-owned marketing organization financed by the Farm Board, went into a conference with the Board.

It deserves to be noted that Associated Press advices, Aug. 7, stated that Frank Evans, of Salt Lake City, former Executive Secretary of the American Farm Bureau Federation, had been appointed to the Farm Board by President Hoover, to fill the vacancy created by the retirement of C. C. Teague, Vice-Chairman and fruits and vegetables member. This left one other vacancy on the board to be filled. It was pointed out that in making the appointment Mr. Hoover selected a second official of the Farm Bureau Federation, "a nationally known farm organization with thousands of members. Sam H. Thompson, named when Alexander Legge, former Chairman, retired the previous March, was President of the Federation until his appointment and served with Evans. It was also pointed out that the Federation has consistently supported the Farm Board and the Agricultural Marketing Act. "Only yesterday Edward A. O'Neal, the President who succeeded Thompson, announced in Lawrence, Kans., that his organization will 'fight to the last ditch' in defense of the Board and the Act."

An offer from the German Government to purchase 600,000 bales of the Federal Farm Board's holdings of cotton, with an option on an additional 200,000 bales on easy credit terms, failed to go through. Germany's proposal, which was transmitted to the State Department at Washington by United States Ambassador Sackett, and immediately referred to the Farm Board, provided, it is understood, that three years be allowed to pay for the 600,000 bales, with interest at 4½%. The price of the cotton was to be based on the monthly average prices of the New York Cotton Exchange or upon the monthly average prices of the Cotton Exchanges at New York, Bremen, and Liverpool. In its reply to the State Department the Farm Board pointed out that the original suggestion of Ambassador Sackett, five weeks before, provided for a minimum price, but that since that time the price of cotton had fallen and the German Government had necessarily eliminated the minimum price feature from its offer. Then the Board stated that "an alternative" course had been offered by a "new possibility" in the effort now being made by the United States Treasury to expedite the payment to German nationals of amounts due them under awards made during the past few years by the Mixed Claims Commission on claims growing out of the World War. The Farm Board, in its communication to the State Department, on Aug. 7, said that it had given careful consideration to the German offer to purchase cotton. The Board was desirous of facilitating assistance to Germany and to the American cotton producer by expanding his immediate markets. Many conditions of the German offer were beyond the ability of the Board to comply with. It was therefore unable to accept the offer under the present proposed terms. It was noted in the press that this was the second time the Board had turned down propositions to take over some of its holdings of cotton. Early in July the Board refused to sell cotton to the Soviet Government. At that time the Amtorg Trading Corp., the Soviet mercantile agency in the United States, offered to buy 250,000 bales on credit. In rejecting the Soviet offer a different reason was given from that in the German case, Carl Williams, of the Board, stating that the Federal Farm Board did not feel that it could authorize credit relations with an agency of a government which the Government of the United States had not recognized.

Naturally the further great decline in the price of the raw material had an unsettling effect upon the cotton goods trade, which in the prevailing period of great industrial depression had been giving a somewhat better account of itself than most other lines of business. The cotton goods trade, however, as also some of the other textile trades, were in better shape chiefly because of the plan pursued of rigidly restricting production to somewhere near the prevailing demand for the consumption of goods. The collapse in the price of cotton, however, introduced a new disturbing element. The monthly report of the United States Census, issued Aug. 15, showed that the quantity of cotton consumed in the United States during July 1931 had aggregated 450,518 bales of lint and 64,351 of linters, which while not greatly different from the consumption shown for the month preceding, compared with 379,029 bales of lint and 59,302 bales of linters in July 1930. The increase, as compared with the preceding year in the total of lint and linters combined, it will be seen, was 76,545 bales, or 17.46%. The statistical reports covering the month of July made on Aug. 10 by the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York also displayed some encouraging features. The figures were for a period of four weeks, and production during these four weeks of July, it was found, amounted to 192,545,000 yards, or at the rate of 48,136,000 yards a week. This was 7½% less than the rate of production during June. Shipments, however, during July were 211,331,000 yards, equivalent to 109.8% of production. New business booked during the month amounted to 158,353,000 yards, or 82.2% of production. Stocks on hand at the end of the month were 269,449,000 yards, representing a decrease of 6.5% during the month. This, it was stated, established a new low figure for stocks since these statistics became comparable on Jan. 1 1928. Stocks on hand reached their peak at the end of June 1930, and since then the trend has been steadily downward, with a reduction of nearly 200,000,000 yards since July 1 1930. Unfilled orders on July 31 1931 were 277,597,000 yards, representing a decrease of 16% during the month but leaving them still in excess of stocks on hand. It was pointed out that in past years unfilled orders have increased sharply during August and September, and with unusually low stocks and a production rate below the average of recent years the view taken was that the statistical position of the industry was exceptionally strong on the eve of the seasonal buying which is due during the third quarter of the year. Goods prices, nevertheless, influenced by the decline in the raw material, tended downward. Print cloths at Fall River for 28-inch 64x60 were marked down Aug. 10 from 3⅜c. a yard to 3⅛c., and were further reduced to 3c. on Aug. 12. Similar reductions occurred in other standard grades.

THE SILK AND RUBBER MARKETS.

Raw silk prices showed considerable recovery during August. It was reported Aug. 12 that T. Soyeshima, who had been in this country several months as a representative of the Imperial Raw Silk Co., was leaving for Japan on Aug. 15 via Europe, having received word from Japanese officials that the silk held under the compensation law by the Japanese Government would not be exported as raw silk. As a result his stay here was no longer necessary. News of the withdrawal of the 107,000 bales of silk held in the custody of the Japanese Government for many months for the purpose of stabilizing the silk decline, and the contemplated use of this silk at home, had a stiffening effect on silk prices. On Aug. 31 Japanese double extra 13-15 deniers were quoted at $2.50@$2.55 against $2.30@$2.40 on July 31; $2.35@$2.40 June 30; $2.22½@$2.27½ May 29; $2.35@$2.40 April 30; $2.55@$2.65 March 31; $2.70@$2.75 Feb. 28; $2.85@$2.95 Jan. 31; $2.60@$2.70 Dec. 31 1930; $2.35@$2.45 the previous Sept. 30, and $4.70@$4.75 on Jan. 31 1930. In the 20-22 deniers Japanese crack double extra were quoted Aug. 31 at $2.45@$2.55 against $2.25@$2.30 July 31; $2.40@$2.50 June 30; $2.07½@$2.12½ May 29; $2.25@$2.30 April 30; $2.50@$2.60 March 31; $2.65@$2.70 Feb. 28; $2.85@$2.90 Jan. 31; $2.70@$2.75 Dec. 31 1930; $2.25@$2.30 Oct. 31 1930, but comparing with $4.60@$4.65 on Jan. 31 1930.

Crude rubber suffered a further severe collapse, and on Aug. 10, for the first time in the history of the rubber industry, was quoted at 5c. a pound, the old August contracts touching that level in a general decline that carried all deliveries to new low records. As the month advanced, however, the price dropped to still lower figures, and on Aug. 31 No. 1 standard contract for September delivery sold as low as 4.87, and on Aug. 28 the New A contract sold at 4.86, with the closing quotation for the former, Aug. 31, 4.93c., and for the latter 4.92c. An effort on the part of the British rubber interests in Ceylon to engage the Dutch authorities in a conference on a proposed rubber stabilization plan was refused by the new Governor-General of the Dutch East Indies, cable to the Rubber Exchange of New York reported Aug. 30. The Governor-General, who was due at Colombo, Ceylon, on Sept. 6, en route to Batavia, Dutch East Indies, stated that he would prefer to hear the Dutch version of the question first. The request was made by the Ceylon Rubber Committee. In the New York market ribbed smoked sheets for spot delivery were quoted at 5c. bid and 5⅛c. asked Aug. 31 against 5⅝c. bid and 5¾c. asked July 31; 6 13/16c. bid and 6 15/16c. asked June 30; 6½c. bid May 29; 5⅞c. bid and 6c. asked on April 30; 6⅞c. bid and 7c. asked on March 31; 7⅝c. bid and 7¾c. asked on Feb. 28; 7¾@8c. on Jan. 31; 8⅜@8½c. on Dec. 31 1930, and 15¾@15⅞c. on Feb. 28 1930.

THE GRAIN MARKETS—FURTHER DECLINE TO NEW LOW FIGURES—FEDERAL FARM BOARD SELLS WHEAT TO BRAZIL IN EXCHANGE FOR COFFEE.

Grain prices, and particularly wheat prices, suffered further declines no less severe than those experienced in cotton and further new low records in a long period of years, and perhaps in all time, were established. Most unfortunate of all, the lowest points were reached on the closing day of the month, after successive declines from week to week and from day to day, indicating a complete absence of rallying power. September wheat in Chicago, which in the early part of August was still selling at 50c. a bushel, on Aug. 31 sold down to 45c., the lowest price reached since 1852. The December wheat option in Chicago sold at 49c. Aug. 31 down from 55c. Aug. 11. In Winnipeg the October option sold at 53⅜c. Aug. 31 against 55¾c. on Aug. 1 and 58⅛c. on Aug. 11. Other grains also suffered further severe decline. The September option for corn in Chicago, as against 54½c. Aug. 3, sold as low as 39⅜c. Aug. 25, with the close Aug. 31 at 42½c. The December corn option at Chicago, against 44c. on Aug. 3, sold at 36⅞c. Aug. 25, and was 39⅜c. at the close on Aug. 31. September oats in Chicago, as against 24c. Aug. 1, were down to 18¾c. Aug. 24, and closed Aug. 31 at 21⅛c. December oats in Chicago sold down from 26¼c. Aug. 1 to 20⅝c. Aug. 24, and closed Aug. 31 at 22⅝c. The chief depressing influence, as heretofore, was the large holdings of the Federal Farm Board, but in addition there was the promise of an unusually large yield of winter wheat in the Southwest, though this was almost entirely offset by further deterioration of the spring wheat condition in the Northwest owing to extreme heat and prolonged drouth.

The Agricultural Bureau at Washington, in its forecasts and estimates of the grain crops of the United States as of Aug. 1 made public Aug. 10, showed that the production of winter wheat was now placed at 775,000,000 bushels, which compared with the Department's estimate of 713,000,000 bushels a month earlier and with 612,000,000 bushels the crop harvested in 1930. The estimate of the production of spring wheat was reduced from 156,000,000 bushels July 1 to only 118,000,000 bushels on Aug. 1; this last compares with 251,000,000 bushels harvested in 1930 and a five-year average production of 274,000,000 bushels. For winter wheat and spring wheat combined, it will be seen, the estimate was of a crop of 894,000,000 bushels against the 1930 harvest of 863,000,000 bushels. The probable production of corn was placed at 2,775,000,000 bushels, or 193,000,000 bushels less than the estimate of 2,968,000,000 bushels for July 1, but comparing with a production of 2,094,000,000 bushels in 1930 when the crop was seriously short as a result of damage done by drouth and heat. The estimate of the oats crop was reduced by 137,000,000 bushels, and put at 1,169,657,000 bushels, compared with the crop in 1930 of 1,358,052,000 bushels.

A circumstance which was entirely overlooked in connection with the wheat outlook was that the Canadian wheat crop had been reduced in even greater degree than the spring wheat crop in the United States and for the same reason, namely, unparalleled and prolonged drouth and extremely high temperatures. In Canada the spring wheat crop is the important crop, the winter wheat production being relatively small. This latter crop in 1930 reached only 21,022,000 bushels, and for 1931 was estimated only a little larger, or 23,341,000 bushels. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics from which these figures of the winter wheat yield in Canada are derived, made no attempt to estimate the probable yield of spring wheat, which, as already stated, is the main crop in Canada, and yet put the condition extremely low, saying the grain crops of the Prairie Provinces showed the lowest condition since the dry years of 1918, 1919 and 1920. The state of spring wheat in Manitoba, it said, closely approximated that of the disastrous year 1910, and Saskatchewan never had, we are told, such low prospects as the present year. Alberta Province had changed very little during the previous month, it was stated, improvement in the North and West having been offset by deterioration in the South and East. The wheat condition for all the Prairie Provinces combined was given as only 54, as against 86 on Aug. 1 1930. It seemed, hence, no exaggeration to say that the Dominion crop of winter and spring wheat combined would be from 150,000,000 to 175,000,000 bushels below that of 1930.

Here, then, there was the prospect of a loss in the spring eat yield of the United States and Canada in the pro- ious figure of 300,000,000 bushels. Ordinarily any such s would have sufficed to start a gigantic speculation, der the influence of which a sharp rise in wheat prices uld have been a certainty, even though, as in this instance, happened, the loss was tempered by the increase of 163,- 0,000 bushels in the winter wheat crop of the United ates. Unfortunately the Federal Farm Board had accumu- ted 200,000,000 bushels or more of wheat, which everyone iew must sooner or later come upon the market. This erated as an ever-present depressing influence, and in a uble way, first because it was an accumulated stock of heat, in sight of the whole world, and secondly, and per- ips still more, because it acted as a deterrent on specula- on, no one caring to engage in trades for a rise while it mained uncertain when and how the Government meant dispose of its large holdings of the grain.

In the meantime the Federal Farm Board did not relax s energies, though it was unable to do anything very service- ble and not unlikely its constant iteration and reiteration the point that there was overproduction of wheat, with rge surplus supplies, and that the real remedy for this sted with the farmers themselves in reducing their acreage id more than anything else to weaken the grain markets ust as the same situation served to bring about a collapse the cotton market. The Farm Board did succeed towards ne close of the month in trading 25,000,000 bushels of wheat or 1,050,000 bags of coffee with Brazil, but this simply erved to create a new line of difficulties in making the Farm Board a factor in both the wheat market and the coffee market, apparently pleasing nobody, and failing in the least o check the steady decline in the market values of the grain. On Aug. 21 the Grain Stabilization Corp. announced that, with the approval of the Federal Farm Board, it had sold 5,000,000 bushels of wheat to the Brazilian Government, the wheat to be paid for by the delivery of 1,050,000 bags of offee. By the terms of the agreement the coffee is to be withheld from consumption until the fall of 1932, in accord- nce with requirements of the Brazilian Government now n effect which regulate the amount of the coffee exports of that country. It was stated that when the coffee is offered for sale it will be through established channels and for delivery in cumulative monthly allotments of 62,500 bags to avoid disturbance to the coffee trade. The wheat s to be shipped in monthly installments, beginning in Sep- tember or October, and to come from the stocks of the Grain Stabilization Corp. It was pointed out that normally Brazil imports little wheat from the United States, but the United States imports a large part of its coffee requirements from Brazil.

The New York "Herald Tribune," in a Washington dispatch, Aug. 21, noted that the agreement for barter was signed at the Brazilian Embassy by Ambassador R. de Lima de Silva, for his Government, and by George Milnor, as head of the Grain Stabilization Corp. The dispatch said it was explained at the Farm Board that 1,050,000 bags of coffee would amount to 138,600,000 pounds, a bag weighing 132 pounds. Imports of coffee by the United States for the year ended June 30 amounted to 1,728,569,297 pounds, and approximately 70% of this was from Brazil. American exports of wheat to Brazil in the same year ending June 30 1931 were only 4,037,000 bushels, of which a large part was in the form of flour. Chairman Stone, of the Farm Board, said the exchange was on the basis of current market prices for the two commodities. The wheat, he asserted, would go directly to the Brazilian Government. He also said that while Brazil has an export tax on coffee that tax will not be imposed on the coffee bought by the Grain Stabilization Corp. Mr. Stone is also represented as having pointed out that this interchange of commodities "does away with any exchange rates, which are out of line, and hence in this respect the transaction is better for Brazil than a fiduciary transaction." Heretofore Argentina has been the chief source of supply of wheat used by Brazil.

In Washington advices to the New York "Times" on the same date (Aug. 21), it was pointed out that the Farm Board, through this scheme, had succeeded in arranging for the sending out of the country of between one-tenth and one-eighth of its estimated holdings of stabilization wheat, thereby saving $370,000 a month, which otherwise would have been paid for storage over an indefinite period. It was also stated that the agreement to hold the coffee for a year was made in deference to coffee stabilization plans of the Brazilian Government. This dispatch also said: "Another item of gain for the United States, and, according to Chairman Stone, probably the most important, is the fact that for the first time wheat from the United States will be consumed in Brazil in large quantities, our exports to that country never having exceeded 1,000,000 bushels annually. Argentina has been the customary granary of Brazil. Brazil's gain is seen in the fact that she has been enabled to get wheat in exchange for a commodity which overproduction has made almost worthless to her, as more than 19,000,000 bags of coffee were being held in 'dead storage' there in July, with no market in sight."

In a Washington dispatch, Aug. 22, to the New York "Times," it was stated that "reaction to the announcement by the Farm Board yesterday (Aug. 21) of one of the greatest international commodity trades in history was pronounced most favorable by Chairman Stone, although he did not make public any message received." "One discordant note in the deal," it was added, "was a reported protest to the White House by the American Steamship Association over the fact that Brazil controls the shipping both of the coffee and the wheat, and there is no guaranty that any of it will be carried in American vessels. Brazilian control of the shipping comes through a stipulation in the trade contract that the South American country shall deliver the coffee to the Bush Terminal Corp. in New York City and pick up the American wheat at seaboard points in the United States. Brazil also will pay for the storing of the coffee for one year, during which time it will not be sold." The coffee to be delivered by Brazil, Chairman Stone said, would be composed of equal parts of grades Santos 3s and Santos 4s, which was termed a high quality of coffee. The Farm Board is to deliver No. 2 wheat to Brazil.

Objections and protests quickly developed against the arrangement. Surprise that American coffee roasters were not consulted before the Federal Farm Board decided to exchange wheat for Brazilian coffee was expressed by W. F. Williamson, Secretary-Manager of the National Coffee Roasters' Association, 11 Water Street, New York, in identical telegrams to Chairman Stone of the Board and to George S. Milnor of the Grain Stabilization Corp. in Chicago. One part of Mr. Williamson's telegram read as follows:

"As a result of the arrangement between the Farm Board and Brazil, the United States Government, through the Farm Board, becomes the largest single owner of coffee in the United States and controls a total of 1,275,000 bags of coffee, or about 10% of the total annual consumption of coffee in this country. Out of this amount, 225,000 bags will be set aside to pay the carrying charges, but will be under the control of the Farm Board and will be marketed in the same way as the balance of the coffee.

"This amount of coffee, it is pointed out, is sufficient to supply three cups of coffee daily to every man and woman in the United States for more than a month."

Associated Press advices from Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 22, stated that the 25,000,000 bushels of American wheat acquired by Brazil would be sold to local millers on from three to 12 months' time, according to an agreement reached on that day between the finance ministry and representatives of the millers. On Aug. 26 a Washington dispatch to the New York "Times" said that reports that the Farm Board had contracted to sell the coffee it obtained from Brazil in exchange for wheat to a chain store company were denied at the Board's offices. "It has agreed to hold the coffee until the fall of 1932, so as not to upset plans made by Brazil for stabilizing the world market." United Press advices from Washington, Aug. 25, stated that the Federal Farm Board's barter of surplus wheat for Brazilian coffee had aroused the keen resentment of Argentina, which previously had enjoyed a virtual monopoly of Brazil's wheat market. Argentine observers, it was stated, believed the deal would virtually destroy their Brazilian wheat market, at least for a year. It was added that "Argentina has just been called on by the New York banks to ship $50,000,000 worth of gold here to meet short-term credit obligations. Banks declined to transfer them into long-term credits." These advices also stated that "Argentine circles consider that the Farm Board arrangement marks an invasion of Argentina's wheat market in Brazil which private agencies never could have accomplished in open competition. They believe further that it constitutes 'dumping.'" United Press advices from St. Louis, Aug. 25, also stated that the Farm Board's plan had brought a protest from St. Louis coffee companies. A telegram sent to Chairman Stone of the Board, in behalf of coffee interests at St. Louis, by David Evans, President of the David Evans Coffee Co., said: "Feel coffee business to-day demoralized enough without adding additional burdens and uncertainty that this exchange will surely cause." A few days earlier, that is, on Aug. 22, the Green Coffee Association of New Orleans telegraphed the Farm Board for additional information about the arrangement. "Our entire membership, at a meeting held to-day, expressed great concern because of meager details made public," the telegram said. "We believe it very important that we be fully advised immediately all details of this transaction, for unless the plan of distribution be made public, the entire trade is very likely to become demoralized. We join with the New York Green Coffee Association in viewing with disfavor similar exchanges of commodities."

On Aug. 17 it became known, through press dispatches from Washington, that the Chinese Government had laid before the United States Government an informal inquiry respecting the amount of this country's wheat, available on credit terms for flood stricken areas in China. The inquiry, which came to the State Department through the American consulate at Nanking, was turned over to the Federal Farm Board; that body, on Aug. 20, through the State Department, advised the Chinese Nationalist Government of its willingness to negotiate for the sale to it of wheat holdings of the Grain Stabilization Corp. According to the "United States

Daily" of Aug. 21 China proposed a purchase "up to 15,000,000 bushels" on credit. "The public probably does not fully realize the gravity of the situation in the Yangtze Valley. A valley 40 to 80 miles wide, consisting of perfectly flat lands, is under water as a result of the floods, and 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 persons are understood to be destitute. The present situation is regarded as a major disaster even in this region, where the people are used to great floods. The Yangtze River has reached a stage three feet higher than the previous high record of 1877." Incidentally it was observed by the New York "Times," in a Washington dispatch, Aug. 14, that the frequently heard suggestion that the Farm Board divest itself of some of its huge wheat holdings, estimated as in excess of 200,000,000 bushels, through the sale of 100,000,000 bushels to China, was made again on that day, this time by Senator Nye. Senator Nye said that he would introduce a bill in the next Congress providing for the sale of 100,000,000 bushels of wheat to the Chinese Government on a long-term credit basis. On Aug. 18 Samuel R. McKelvie, former wheat representative of the Federal Farm Board, proposed at Lincoln, Neb., that the Government owned wheat be made available for flood relief. The plan, Mr. McKelvie said, would effect economy in relief expenditures and at the same time help dispose of the 200,000,000 bushels surplus. "I have insisted all along," he said "that for the good of all parties, most of all the farmer, the sooner stabilization supplies of wheat are disposed of the better. The opportunity is at hand." Mr. McKelvie urged that Congress should authorize disposal of the wheat in this manner and the Farm Board should be reimbursed for the amount involved.

Sugar prices moved somewhat lower. Possibly the revolutionary uprising in Cuba had something to do with this, even though the Cuban Government quickly got the upper hand in the outbreak. Cuban raw rugar, as against 1.50c. at the end of July, sold down to 1.38c. at the end of August. The wholesale price of refined sugar in New York, which the latter part of July was quoted at 4.75c. by all the leading refineries, was marked down on Aug. 25 to 4.60c. Coffee prices during August further declined, reflecting the weakness of Brazilian exchange, besides which the taking over by the Federal Farm Board of 1,050,000 bags of coffee in exchange for 25,000,000 bushels of wheat introduced a new element of uncertainty, though the Farm Board agreed not to dispose of any of the coffee acquired until the fall of 1932. Then also official announcement came from Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 30, that a partial moratorium had been established on foreign debt payments. The Government, it was stated, had decided to suspend temporarily foreign debt payments, with the exception of two funding loans and the 1922 coffee loans. In the New York market No. 7 Rio for spot delivery was quoted at 5½@5¾c. Aug. 31 against 5⅞@6c. July 31; 6⅞@7c. June 30; 6⅝c. May 29; 6½@6¾c. April 30; 5½c. March 31; 5½@5⅝c. Feb. 28; 6¾c. Jan. 31, and 7¼@7½c. Dec. 31 1930. No. 7 Santos was 6⅝@6⅞c. Aug. 31 against 7½@7⅞c. July 31; 8½@9c. June 30; 8½@8¾c. May 29, and the same figures on April 30; 7¾@8c. March 31; 7¾@8c. Feb. 28; 8¾@9c. Jan. 31; 8¾@9¼c. Dec. 31 1930, and 11¼c. Oct. 31 1930.

THE STATE OF GENERAL TRADE—THE CONDITION OF THE STEEL INDUSTRY AND THE COURSE OF THE NON-FERROUS METALS.

Signs of any revival in trade continued entirely lacking, though the textile trades and the boot and shoe industry gave a better account of themselves than most others. And the financial crisis in Great Britain, with the uneasiness that it created in this country and throughout the world, was not calculated to cause any revival of activity. All the so-called heavy industries, of course, continued severely depressed, in particular the iron and steel industry. In its issue of Aug. 13 the "Iron Age" said that the industry presented a confused picture because of mixed tendencies in production and irregularities in the flow of specifications. Line pipe releases had increased, it stated, demands on the mills for structural steel and reinforcing bars were holding up, and railroad demand appeared to have passed its low ebb, but specifications for sheets and tin plate were still tapering. Losses and gains, however, virtually counterbalanced, and total raw steel requirements remained substantially unchanged. Slight increases in steel ingot output had been made at Pittsburgh and Youngstown, and declines were reported in the Wheeling district and at Cleveland, but the average for the country at large was estimated at 30%, the same rate as in the previous week. In its issue of Aug. 20 the "Age" reported a slight gain in steel demand, mainly as the result of specifications of the automobile industry, while prospective increases in pipe line booking, structural steel awards, and rail releases had strengthened the hopes of iron and steel producers for a seasonal upturn in business. The average rate of production for the country at large in that week was estimated at 32%, compared with 30% in the previous two weeks. But the hopes then held out failed of realization and in its issue of Aug. 27 the "Age" stated that with August drawing to a close iron and steel demand still failed to foreshadow a seasonable rise in production. Evidences of improvement in business to date had been little more than ripples on a sea which remained at ebb tide. The recent upturn in specifications from the automobile industry had not been followed by gains of sufficient magnitude to indicate a measurable expansion of motor car output in September. The requirements of other leading outlets for iron and steel showed both increases and decreases, large offsetting each other, while releases from miscellaneous consumers disclosed almost no significant changes. The "Age" estimated that the average rate of steel production for the country at large was now 31% compared with 32% in the previous week. In its issue of Sept. 4, bringing conditions down to and including Sept. 1, the "Iron Age," reviewing the iron and steel situation during the month of August, commented as follows:

With autumn close at hand, hopes for seasonal recovery in the iron and steel trade are waning. In neither production nor demand are current tendencies of such a character as to point to an impending expansion in activity. Pig iron output in August showed a decline of 12% from July, continuing the recession that began in May. Steel ingot production, unchanged from last week at 31%, remains at close to the lowest rate for the year to date.

Iron and steel specifications, instead of improving, are barely holding their own. Operations in the motor car industry are still on a diminishing scale, and betterment in railroad demand is apparently contingent on the outcome of the freight rate case now before the Inter-State Commerce Commission. Action on considerable pending line pipe tonnage has been deferred, and prospects for business in wire products and agricultural machinery are clouded by the abnormally low level of prices for farm products. The extent of possible increases in miscellaneous industrial requirements in iron and steel is still undetermined, since so many "plant vacations" will not terminate until after Labor Day.

Pig iron production in August was 1,280,526 tons, or 41,308 tons a day, compared with 1,463,220 tons, or 47,201 tons daily, in July. The daily average was the lowest since October 1921. Seventy-six furnaces were in blast Sept. 1, or six fewer than one month previous, 12 having been blown out and six lighted. Production in the first eight months of this year was 13,849,119 tons, was 41% smaller than in the corresponding period in 1930.

Automobile production, which declined to the lowest rate of the year in August, seems to be headed for a further recession in September. Last month's output of motor vehicles in the United States and Canada is estimated at 175,000 to 180,000 cars, as compared with 223,181 in July, and indications are that the September total will not exceed 160,000. The Chevrolet and Plymouth schedules have been sharply curtailed, and manufacturing operations at the Ford Rouge plant are not likely to get into full swing until late in the month.

The "Age" made the composite price of finished steel Sept. 1 2.116c. a pound against 2.116c. a month earlier, and comparing with 2.142c. on Jan. 13, the high figure of the year, and 2.102c. June 2, the low point of the year. The composite price of pig iron Sept. 1 is given as $15.50 a gross ton, against $15.54 a month earlier, this being the low figure of the year, and comparing with $15.90 Jan. 6, which, in this case, was the high figure. The composite price of steel scrap Sept. 1 was given as 9.08, the same as June 23, the low point of the year, and comparing with $11.33 Jan. 6, the high of the year. In the non-ferrous metals, copper prices continued extremely depressed. The large copper producers held aloof from trading in the hope for some seasonal improvement in the actual consumption of the metal, which, however, did not materialize. Customs smelters continued to sell for 7½c. delivered in Connecticut. Electrolitic copper ruled unchanged through the whole month at 7¼c., the same comparing with 7⅜c. at the close of July. Lake copper in New York was marked down on Aug. 12 from 8⅛c. to 7⅞c. and remained unchanged the rest of the month. Tin fluctuated in the usual erratic way, but closed at 27⅛c. Aug. 31 against 24¼c. on July 31. Associated Press advices from London, Aug. 24, stated that the formation of an international tin pool by Bolivia, Malaya, Nigeria, and the Dutch East Indies had been announced on that day. These countries agreed that tin acquired by the pool would be released in accordance with a sliding scale of prices provided for in the international agreement signed in June. An initial release of 5% of the pool's holding of the metal will become effective if and when the average price of spot tin on the London metal exchange shall during any completed calendar month have exceeded £150 per ton. The pool will work in close co-operation with the International Tin Committee whose Chairman will act as Chairman ex-officio of the Committee of Control of the International Tin Pool. In order to facilitate the formation of the pool the four governments have given reciprocal guarantees by which they undertake to continue unconditionally the international tin quota agreement until the date fixed for its exportation Feb. 28 1933. If at that date the international tin pool shall not have been liquidated the agreement is to be extended for a period not to exceed three years from Aug. 12 1931, the date of the official formation of the pool.

PETROLEUM AND ITS PRODUCTS.

In the petroleum market the feature was the action of Governor Ross Sterling, of Texas, in emulating the example of Governor Murray, of Oklahoma, in declaring martial law in the flush East Texas oil fields, thereby cutting off about 700,000 barrels of crude oil production from the daily supply. This production, plus the Oklahoma output stifled in like manner by Governor Murray, should bring the total crude supply of the country down 1,000,000 barrels daily. Even Texas operators were taken by surprise by the Governor's move, although it had been freely predicted that he would take this action. However, the troops who were moved throughout the 800-acre area of the field experienced fficulty in carrying out their orders. The martial law dict embraces four counties, Rusk, Gregg, Upshur and mith. Governor Murray, appreciative of the sympathetic ndorsement given his action, refused to consider any com-romise with refiners, standing pat upon his demand that ne price be established on a basis of $1 per barrel before e would lift his martial law edict and permit the opening f the flush Oklahoma fields. On the other hand, Governor terling did not take the same stand as to price, but rather ased his action upon a desire to permit the Railroad Com-ission sufficient time to work out its proration orders. It s believed that it will be several weeks at the earliest efore the East Texas fields will be permitted to resume perations. The immediate result of the shutdown was a trengthening of Pennsylvania crude prices, while advances vere also announced by the Ohio Oil Co. The Pennsylvania ncrease was 5c. per barrel, while Ohio advanced all quota-ions 15c. per barrel. Later prices quite generally advanced.)ne major company capitulated to Governor Murray's de-nands for $1 a barrel for Oklahoma crude, the Philips Pe-roleum Co. announcing on Aug. 24 that it would post a price)f $1 a barrel rather than draw oil from storage that cost far more than that price. Governor Murray insists that he will keep the fields closed until all major companies post a price of $1 and agree to maintain that price if he opens the State oil fields again. Many different companies posted increases during the month, although none approached the dollar mark for Texas crude. No company posted a price for East Texas, preferring to buy in the open market. Price advances were posted for practically all major producing centers throughout the country and will be found in full detail further below.

The result of the drastic curtailment in production was not reflected to any great extent until the last week of the month, and then only in part. However, for the week ending Aug. 29 the daily average of production for the whole country was reported by the American Petroleum Institute at only 1,751,550 barrels, against 2,608,250 barrels per day in the preceding week. Gasoline prices were also quite generally marked up. The following shows the leading price changes of the month, both in the case of crude oil and in the refined products:

CRUDE OIL.

Aug. 3.—Tide Water Pipe Co., Ltd., advances Bradford and Allegheny crude 15c. per barrel to $1.95 per barrel.

Aug. 3.—South Penn Oil Co. posts 15c. per barrel advance in other Pennsylvania grade oils, quoting as follows: In National Transit Co. lines, $1.70; South West Pennsylvania Pipe Lines Co. lines, $1.55; Eureka lines, $1.45; Buckeye lines, $1.30.

Aug. 13.—Magnolia Petroleum Co. posts price of 25c. per barrel for East Texas crude.

Aug. 12.—Cushing Refining & Gasoline Co. announces willingness to meet demand of Governor Murray of Oklahoma and offers $1 per barrel for Oklahoma crude.

Aug. 17.—Ohio Oil Co. advances price on crude 15c. a barrel, all grades. New prices are: Lima, 85c.; Indiana, 50c.; Illinois, 70c.; Princeton, 70c.; Western Kentucky, 65c.; Elk Basin, 80c.; Grass Creek, 80c.; Lance Creek, 95c.; Big Muddy, 60c.; Rock Creek, 65c.; Sunburst, Mont., unchanged at 80c.

Aug. 17.—South Penn Oil Co. advanced all grades of Pennsylvania crude oil 5c. per barrel, with exception of Corning, which remains unchanged. New prices follow: Oil in National Transit Co. lines, $1.75; South West Pa. Pipe Line Co. lines, $1.60; Eureka lines, $1.50; Buckeye lines, $1.35.

Aug. 17.—Stoll Oil Refining Co. advances all grades Kentucky oil 15c. per barrel to 65c., meeting advance of Ohio Oil Co.

Monday, Aug. 24.—The Philips Petroleum Co. posted a price of $1 a barrel for Oklahoma crude, top-grades.

Monday, Aug. 24.—The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana met the advances posted by the Texas Co. the previous week and is now posting 70 cents for top-grade Oklahoma crudes.

Monday, Aug. 24.—Standard Oil of Louisiana posted advances ranging from 16 cents a barrel on low-grade oil and 28 cents on top grades in the price of Louisiana and Arkansas crudes. The company discontinued the posting for Urbana crude, which was 20 cents a barrel.

Monday, Aug. 24.—The Magnolia Petroleum Co., subsidiary of the Standard Oil Co. of New York, posted advances ranging from 10 to 24 cents a barrel for Central Texas crude; increases of 28 cents a barrel in the price of North and North Central Texas crudes and advances ranging from 12 to 28 cents a barrel in the price of Oklahoma crude with 68 cents a barrel top price for Oklahoma City crude. All prices were effective as of Aug. 22.

Monday, Aug. 24.—The Humble Oil & Refining Co., subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, met the price advances posted by the Texas Co. last week. The company also posted a flat price of 35 cents a barrel for Glasscock crude, the latter not being posted by the Texas Co.

Monday, Aug. 24.—The Carter Oil Co., subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, has met the advances posted by the Texas Co. in Oklahoma and Texas crude oil prices.

Monday, Aug. 24.—The Ohio Oil Co. advanced crude oil prices in the Central States from 5 to 10 cents a barrel. The company also posted 5 to 10 cent advances in crude oil prices in its Western territory.

Tuesday, Aug. 25.—The Magnolia Petroleum Co. posted prices meeting those announced the previous day by Standard Oil of Louisiana, with but few cents difference in the price ranges.

Wednesday, Aug. 26.—The Midwest Refining Co., subsidiary of Standard Oil of Indiana, posted advances from 8 to 25 cents a barrel in the price of crude produced in the Rocky Mountain States. Salt Creek was posted at 70 cents a barrel for top grade, against a top price of 39 cents a barrel previously.

Saturday, Aug. 29.—The South Penn Oil Co. advanced Pennsylvania grade crude oil in the following districts 5 cents a barrel, while the Tide Water Pipe Line Co., Ltd., posted an advance of 10 cents a barrel for Bradford crude. The new prices are as follows: for crude oil in National Transit Co. lines, $1.80; Southwest Pennsylvania Pipe Lines, $1.65; Eureka lines, $1.55 and in the lines of the Buckeye Pipe Line Co., $1.40. The new price in the Bradford district is $2.10 a barrel.

GASOLINE AND KEROSENE.

Aug. 3.—The following price changes announced in Philadelphia, resulting from local competitive conditions:

Sun Oil Co. reduces service station price 1c. to 10c. per gallon, Philadelphia district only. Tank wagon unchanged at 10c.

Atlantic Refining Co. reduces tank wagon and service station price 1c. to 10c. per gallon.

Sinclair Refining Co. reduces service station price ½c. to 10c.; Sinclair Green gasoline reduced ½c. per gallon to 8c.

Shell Eastern reduces service station price ½c. to 10c.

Gulf Refining Co. reduces service station ½c. to 10c. per gallon.

Aug. 3.—Standard Oil Co. of Ohio reduces gasoline 1c. per gallon in Cuyahoga County, including Cleveland. New price, 15c. tank wagon, 16c. service station. This is 1c. under State-wide structure.

Aug. 3.—Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey reduces Grade C bunker fuel oil 5c. per barrel to 75c., New York Harbor Refinery, and Diesel oil 5c. per barrel to $1.45.

Aug. 13.—Standard Oil Co. of Indiana reduces tank-wagon and service-station gasoline price 2c. per gallon, in Chicago and St. Louis.

Aug. 14.—Standard Oil Co. of Indiana reduces tank-wagon and service-station gasoline prices 1c. per gallon in Chicago and St. Louis, new prices being: service station, 11c. Chicago and 9.9c. St. Louis, tank-wagon prices 1c. higher in each instance. Prices include State tax.

Aug. 20.—Effective to-day, Warner-Quinlan advances tank car gasoline ¼c. per gallon to new basis of 6c.

Aug. 20.—Effective to-day, Standard Oil Co. of New York advances tank car gasoline ½c. per gallon to new basis of 6c.

Aug. 20.—Effective to-day Shell Eastern advances tank car gasoline ½c. to 6c. at north Atlantic seaboard terminals with exception of Portland, Maine, where price of 6½c. was established.

Aug. 20.—Continental Oil Co. advances tank car gasoline ¼c. to 5½c., effective to-day.

Aug. 19.—Standard Oil Co. of Ohio advances gasoline 1c. per gallon at service stations in Ashtabula, Lake and Cuyahoga Counties, bringing service station and tank wagon prices to 15c. for x70 and 18c. for Sohio Ethyl. New prices are 1c. below statewide structure.

Monday, Aug. 24.—All major distributors in the Gulf port area have advanced domestic and export prices on gasoline approximately 1½c. a gallon as an average. U. S. Motor gasoline is now quoted at 5 to 5¼c. a gallon, with other prices advanced proportionately.

Tuesday, Aug. 25.—The Shell Petroleum Corp. and the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana raised the retail prices of gasoline 4½c. in Detroit to 14.8c. for the regular grade and 17.8c. for ethyl grade, including the State tax of 3c. Standard of Indiana also posted an advance in the price of its "blue" grade which now sells at 12.8c. a gallon, up 2c. Other major companies met this cut.

Tuesday, Aug. 25.—Standard of Indiana and the Shell Petroleum Corp. advanced the price of service station gasoline from 2 to 3c. a gallon in the Chicago and St. Louis areas, making the new price for the regular grade gasoline 14c. in Chicago and 12.9c. in St. Louis.

Tuesday, Aug. 25.—The Republic Oil Co. posted an advance of ½c. a gallon in the New York harbor tank car market price, making the new quotation 6c. a gallon.

Tuesday, Aug. 25.—Advances of 1½c. a gallon in the Eastern territory and 2½c. a gallon in the tank car prices of all grades of gasoline and kerosene in the Western territory of Canada were made by all major refiners. Service station prices of gasoline were also advanced 1½c. a gallon in the same area. No changes were posted in either tank car or service station prices in Ontario, west of the Great Lakes, and no changes in British Columbia.

Wednesday, Aug. 26.—The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey posted an advance of ¼c. a gallon in the Atlantic Seabord tank car gasoline market, making the new price 5½c. a gallon.

Wednesday, Aug. 26.—All major distributors in Minneapolis advanced the price of third-grade gasoline 3.3c. a gallon to 10.2c. a gallon, tax not included. Independent dealers raised their prices on these grades 2c. a gallon or more. Quotations on the regular grades remained unchanged at 12.2c. a gallon for the regular and 15.2c. a gallon for the premium grade, tax not included.

Thursday, Aug. 27.—All major distributors have advanced the service station price of gasoline in Houston, Texas, 1c. a gallon, making the new price for regular grade 14c. a gallon, including the State tax of 4c. a gallon.

Monday, Aug. 31.—The retail price of regular grade gasoline in Detroit was reduced to 13.1 cents a gallon from 14.8 cents, and the premium grades to 16.1 cents from 17.8 cents a gallon, including the 3 cent State tax, by the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. All major distributors in the area met the cuts immediately. The previous week an increase of 4.5 cents a gallon on all grades was posted by all major companies operating in Detroit.

THE AUGUST FINANCING OF THE U. S. TREASURY.

During August the financing of the United States Government was confined to the sale of several separate issues of Treasury bills offered on a discount basis, and the proceeds of which (except the last) went to take up maturing issues of bills. All of them were disposed of on extremely favorable terms; that is, at very low interest cost to the Government. Nevertheless, there was some slight increase in the cost of such borrowing as the new issues appeared one after another, a separate offering coming with each succeeding week. As a matter of fact, some very slight increase in such cost was already recorded in the last sale made in July, which took place on July 30, when $59,850,000 of 91-day bills were allotted at an average rate on a bank discount basis of about 0.51% per annum. This was not quite as good as the price obtained at the sale immediately preceding, which was also of 91-day bills and which was made on July 24, and when the Treasury accepted bids amounting to $51,806,000 at an average rate on a bank discount basis of only 0.46%.

On Aug. 6 tenders were opened on an offering of $60,000,000 of 91-day bills; the total applied for was $200,798,000, of which $60,005,000 were accepted at an average price of 99.058, equivalent to a rate of about 0.56% on a bank discount basis. On Aug. 13 tenders were opened for another $60,000,000 offering of 91-day bills. The subscriptions in this instance aggregated $211,160,000, and the amount accepted was $60,280,000, the average price realized by the Government being 99.841 and the average rate on a bank discount basis being about 0.63%. On Aug. 20 tenders were received for still another $60,000,000 issue of 91-day Treasury bills. The subscriptions totaled $224,974,000, and the allotments out of the subscriptions aggregated exactly $60,000,000, the average price realized by the Government being 99.852, the yield to the purchasers averaging the equivalent of an annual interest rate of 0.59%. On Aug. 27 subscriptions were opened on an offering of $80,000,000 of 91-day Treasury bills; the bids aggregated $269,021,000, and the amount accepted was $80,019,000. The average price to the Governmnet in this case was 99.844, making the average rate on a bank discount basis about 0.62% per annum.

In addition to these weekly sales of Treasury bills, preliminary notice was given Aug. 21 of a forthcoming offering of Treasury obligations of another kind, presumably long-term financing, the offering of which, it was stated, might "be expected on or about Aug. 31 1931." Promptly on the night of Sunday, Aug. 30, the nature of the new financing was made public. The Treasury offered for subscription at par and accrued interest, through the Federal Reserve banks, $800,000,000, "or thereabouts," or 3% 24-year Treasury bonds and $300,000,000, "or thereabouts," of 1⅛% 12-month certificates of indebtedness. The Treasury bonds will be dated and bear interest from Sept. 15 1931, will mature on Sept. 15 1955, and will be redeemable at the option of the United States on and after Sept. 15 1951. The certificates of indebtedness will be a single series, TS-1932, and will be for twelve months, dated and bearing interest from Sept. 15 1931, and will mature on Sept. 15 1932. The low rates of interest in both cases attracted attention—only 3% for the bonds and but 1⅛% for the certificates. At the June sale of $821,116,000 of Treasury bonds the rate was 3½%, and at the sale of eight months' certificates in April the rate was 1⅞%. Of the new issue of bonds and certificates for a combined total of $1,100,000,000, $634,387,000 goes to take up outstanding obligations of the United States in the shape of certificates of indebtedness, leaving $465,000,000 of free money at command of the Treasury. Books for the certificates of indebtedness were closed the very next day (Sept. 1), the issue having been subscribed for four times.

NEW SECURITY ISSUES AND DIVIDENDS IN AUGUST.

There was a total absence of foreign financing in the domestic market during August.

Domestic financing during August was on a greatly diminished scale with offerings small in size and few in number. Aside from the $30,000,000 offering of the City of Detroit 4½% ref. bonds the only other offering of size was the $10,000,000 issue of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Ry. 1-yr. 5% secured notes which were placed in part privately. The month's financing, classified as to nature of business and size of issue, is shown below, the table including only issues of $5,000,000 and above:

RAILROAD FINANCING.

$10,000,000 Minneapolis St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Ry.—1-yr. 5% secured notes due Aug. 1 1932. A part of the issue has been placed privately. Offered by Dillon, Read & Co. and the National City Co.

PUBLIC UTILITY FINANCING.

100,000 shs.—Electric Bond & Share Co.—$5 cumul. pref. (no par value) at $89.75 a sh. and div. to yield 5.57%, by Bonbright & Co., Inc.

$5,000,000 Houston Lighting & Power Co.—1st lien & ref. mtge. gold bonds, series E, 4½% at 98½ and int. to yield over 4.57% and due in 1981. By Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc.

5,000,000 Interstate Power Company (of Del.).—1st mtge. 5% series gold bonds at 88 and int., yielding over 5.90% and due Jan. 1 1957. By the Chase Harris Forbes Corp., Central Republic Company, Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., Bancamerica-Blair Corporation and The N. W. Harris Co., Inc.

INDUSTRIAL AND MISCELLANEOUS FINANCING.

$5,000,000 Bridgeport Hydraulic Co.—Addt'l issue of 1st mtge. 4½% series "D" gold bonds at 104½ and int., to yield 4.23% and due Oct. 1 1961. By Lee, Higginson & Co., Estabrook & Co., The Bridgeport-City Co., Hincks Bros. & Co., Putnam & Co., Chas. W. Scranton & Co., Stevenson, Gregory & Co., T. L. Watson & Co., and The First National Co. of Bridgeport.

MUNICIPAL FINANCING.

$30,000,000 Detroit, Wayne County, Mich.—Consisting of $22,000,000 4½% ref. bonds, due $1,400,000 on Aug. 15 from 1932 to 1936 incl., at a price of 96.15, or a basis of about 5.91%, and $8,000,000 emergency 4½% bonds of which $2,666,000 become due in 1932 and 1933 and $2,668,000 in 1934 at a price of 100.11 or a basis of about 4.44%. Reoffered at prices to yield 4% for the $7,066,000 due in 1932, 4.30% for $7,066,000 due in 1933, 4.60% for $7,068,000 due in 1934 and 4.75% for $4,400,000 due in 1935 and a like amount due in 1936. By a syndicate composed of the Bankers Co. of New York.

21,000,000 Metropolitan Transit District (P. O. Boston), Mass., District notes awarded to bear int. at 2¾%, at par plus a premium of $2,500, equal to 100.01, an int. cost basis of about 2.73% and due April 14 1932, by a syndicate headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc. Re-offered at a price to yield 2.10% (accrued interest to be added).

Changes in dividend declarations in August were again numerous and again included many of an unfavorable nature. The following table, divided into two sections, namely, "Favorable Changes" and "Unfavorable Changes," gives the more important of the changes:

THE COURSE OF THE STOCK MARKET DURING AUGUST 1931.

The stock market during August was a dull affair, with trading limited and with the fluctuations in prices narrow except in the case of a few active specialties which were under pressure and some of which suffered further declines The trend of prices was by no means uniform and many stocks show net gains for the month. The volume of trading on most of the days was less than a million shares. Indeed there were only nine days (all between Aug. 10 and Aug. 22) when the sales ran above that figure and on none of these days did the aggregate reach 2,000,000 shares. Total sales for the month on the New York Stock Exchange were only 24,828,522 shares, as against 33,545,650 shares in the preceding month (July) and comparing with 39,869,500 shares in August 1930 and 95,704,890 shares in August 1929. On the New York Curb Exchange the sales for the month reached 4,779,515 shares, against 9,179,800 shares in August last year and 50,192,030 shares in August 1929. Railroad stocks were almost continuously weak and the average of the 25 railroads shares which form the basis of the records kept by the New York "Times" closed Aug. 31 at 56.54 as against 60.95 the average at the close on July 31. In the case of the 25 industrial stocks the close Aug. 31 was 189.08 as against 186.93 on July 31. For the 50 stocks combined the average at the close on Aug. 31 stood at 122.81 as compared with 123.94 on July 31. The net change, it will be seen, was very slight.

The course of prices throughout the month as already indicated was very irregular, with no very strong trend either up or down. There were periods when a rallying tendency was observable, only to be followed by recessions in prices. Liquidation on a large scale was absent. On the other hand, however, little buying was in evidence. Absence of all signs on any change for the better from the long continued depression in the industrial world militated against that. The long drawn out hearings before the Inter-State Commerce Commission on the petition of the railroads for a 15% advance in freight rates and the uncertainty as to the final outcome of the petition—whether in the end the railroads will, after all, be permitted to make any increase at all—naturally operated adversely to the railroad list, besides which returns of railroad earnings for current periods continued extremely poor, making investors and speculators alike reluctant to acquire large lines of stocks, even at the current low levels. The financial crisis in England, a duplicate of that experienced by Germany but vastly more important because of London's position as a world banking center, also acted as a severe restraint on speculation for higher prices, in addition to which the bond market was almost continuously weak, thereby discouraging the buying of stocks, it being almost an axiom among the speculative fraternity that the bond market must show sustained strength before the time can be considered right for entering upon a bull campaign, or for accumulating stocks in anticipation of a bull market.

The continued decline in bonds appeared ascribable to the great shrinkage in the earnings and profits of both the railroads and the industrial concerns and to the fear to which this gave rise, at least in the case of the railroads, that bond issues now constituting legal investments for savings bank may not remain legal. Further reductions in dividends on the stocks of many companies tended to increase apprehension on that score. Then also selling of bonds followed as result of the bank failures which continued unpleasantly frequent in many different parts of the country. In Ohio they were on a large scale and even in New York City quite a number of banks of moderate size went to the wall. On top of it all both the grain markets and the cotton market, as described elsewhere in the proper place, suffered staggering further declines in prices, and not only lessened still further the purchasing power of the agricultural classes, but brought many of them close to the verge of absolute distress.

There were a few favoring circumstances which now and then served temporarily to strengthen the market, but only temporarily. Thus on Monday, Aug. 10, the victory achieved by the Bruening Government of Germany over radicalism in the Prussian elections, the day before (Sunday), was a development calculated to revive confidence, though as against this the great break in the cotton market caused by the large crop estimate of the Agricultural Bureau at Washington, given out the previous Saturday, Aug. 8, worked in the opposite direction and neutralized the good effects. Consequently, instead of the rise in prices that might have been expected, quite extensive declines occurred. Still, the next day the market sharply recovered, as it appeared that the German situation was unquestionably improving, besides which news of the signing by the powers of the Protocol officially proclaiming the Hoover moratorium and of the reduction in the discount rate of the Bank of Germany from 15% to 10% and the Lombard rate from 20% to 15% (later in the month the latter rate was still further reduced, as noted elsewhere), proved stimulating factors and caused the list to move up in substantial fashion. However, rallies like this all proved short-lived. On Monday, Aug. 17, the market suffered a severe break due to news regarding the banking troubles in Ohio, more particularly in Toledo, where four banking institutions with aggregate resources in excess of $100,000,000 and aggregate deposits in excess of $80,000,000, were forced over the week end to close down, after some strenuous efforts to keep agoing in conferences during Saturday and Sunday. A shortage of cash for retail trade resulted from the closing down, but while this was relieved with the aid of the other banks and the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, on the other hand the building and loan associations deemed it incumbent to impose limits upon withdrawals. This happened, not only at Toledo, but the loan associations at othe points in northwestern Ohio found it necessary to take similar action. On the whole the situation assumed a serious aspect, at least locally, and the stock market reflected apprehension by turning sharply downward after it had been showing an improving tendency for about a week or more. On Tuesday, Aug. 18, however, the market enjoyed a sharp recovery as it appeared that the Ohio troubles had been effectively dealt with and were not likely to extend beyond the local territory directly involved. Of a different character were the drastic measures taken by the Governors of Oklahoma and of Texas in stopping the excessive flow of oil in their respective States. This gave a reassuring aspect to the oil situation in that regard. A depressing feature all the time, however, was the fast-growing anxiety regarding the seriousness of the financial crisis in Great Britain. This last, fortunately, was changed for the better over the week-end on Sunday, Aug. 23, and accordingly on Monday, Aug. 24, and Tuesday, Aug. 25, the stock market registered improvement in a moderate kind of way, reflecting the change in the British Ministry and also making it evident that all the different political parties had through reconstruction of the Cabinet united in defense of the pound sterling, thereby restoring confidence in the stability of the British unit and removing anxiety on that score which had been more or less a depressing feature, as already stated, all through the month of August or ever since the issuance on July 31 of the report of the committee headed by Sir George May, which announced that the British budget would show a deficiency of £120,000,000 unless drastic economies were introduced. From now on the London financial outlook improved and on Friday, Aug. 28, came the announcement that the British Government itself had concluded arrangements with American and French bankers for negotiating a $400,000,000 one-year credit in favor of Great Britain, supplied one-half by New York bankers headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. and the other half by French bankers and the French public.

This was a favorable development of large importance. On Monday, Aug. 31, however, as it happened, the announcement by Secretary Mellon of new financing by the U. S. Government to an aggregate of $1,100,000,000 unexpectedly gave the market a new setback. The financing had its favorable aspects in the low rates at which Government borrowing was being done, namely, only 3% interest in the case of the $800,000,000 of long-term bonds to be put out and but 1⅛% in the case of the issuance of the $300,000,000 of one-year certificates of indebtedness. Nervousness was caused, however, by the size of the new financing, especially as it was intended in considerable part to make good budget deficits, and it was clear that additional funds would have to be raised in December. The market as a result recorded quite general declines on the closing day of the month, even if not very large declines.

As showing the course of fluctuations in the case of the active stocks, it may be noted that United States Steel, after opening Aug. 1 at 85⅝, sold down to 83¾ Aug. 6, then advanced to 93¼ Aug. 15 and closed ex-div. Aug. 31 at 87½; American Tel. & Tel., after opening Aug. 1 at 169⅛, declined to 164¼ Aug. 6, then recovered to 176⅝ Aug. 15 and closed Aug. 31 at 171⅜; J. I. Case opened Aug. 1 at 55½, dropped to 51¼ Aug. 5, recovered to 70 Aug. 15 and closed Aug. 31 at 62¼; Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. opened Aug. 1 at 59½, got down to 57½ Aug. 5, sold up to 66¼ Aug. 15 and closed Aug. 31 at 63⅜; General Electric opened Aug. 1 at 40⅛, touched 38⅝ Aug. 10, sold up to 42⅜ Aug. 15 and closed Aug. 31 at 40⅝; American & Foreign Power opened Aug. 1 at 27½, sold at 25⅝ Aug. 7 and at 31 Aug. 15 and closed Aug. 31 at 28¼; American Water Works & Elec. opened Aug. 1 at 48¼, sold Aug. 10 at 46, touched 51 Aug. 15 and was 47 bid and 48 asked Aug. 31; North American opened Aug. 1 at 65½, sold at 63⅝ Aug. 6 and at 70 Aug. 29 and closed at 68¾ Aug. 31; Allied Chemical & Dye opened at 107¼ Aug. 1, sold at 105¼ Aug. 6 and at 119 Aug. 15 and closed Aug. 31 at 111¼; American Smelting & Refining opened Aug. 1 at 31⅛, sold at 32⅞ Aug. 14, dropped to 29⅝ Aug. 26 and closed Aug. 31 at 31⅜; Auburn Automobile opened Aug. 1 at 142½, advanced to 148½ Aug. 3, dropped to 125 Aug. 10 and closed Aug. 31 at 134½; Standard Oil of N. J. opened at 37⅛ Aug. 1, touched 36⅝ Aug. 11, rose to 42½ Aug. 20 and closed Aug. 31 at 40½. These are all illustrations going to show how decidedly irregular was the course of prices in the case of some of the active stocks. In the railroad list New York Central opened Aug. 1 at 73⅝, advanced to 76½ Aug. 3, dropped back to 67½ Aug. 24 and closed Aug. 31 at 69⅜; Atchison sold at 153 Aug. 1, reached a high of 155¼ Aug. 3, dropped to 133½ Aug. 26 and closed Aug. 31 at 135¼; Baltimore & Ohio opened Aug. 1 at 48, touched a high of 50⅜ Aug. 3, dropped to 43 Aug. 24 and closed Aug. 31 at 45; Union Pacific from a high of 155 Aug. 3 dropped to 136 Aug. 11 and closed Aug. 31 at 144; Southern Pacific opened Aug. 1 at 76⅛, touched 78¾ Aug. 3, sold down to 70½ Aug. 25 and closed Aug. 31 at 73⅝, and Southern Ry., after opening Aug. 1 at 28 and selling at 28½ Aug. 3, dropped to 23¾ Aug. 26 and closed Aug. 31 at 25¼. New lows for the year were reached by 224 stocks.

We have already indicated that the course of bond prices was again lower. This is true quite generally except in the case of a few gilt-edged issues of the highest type. In the following we give the record for quite an extended list of domestic and foreign bond issues to furnish a sort of indication of the trend of the bond market during the month:

THE MONEY MARKET DURING AUGUST 1931.

There was no modification during August of the state of extreme ease in the money market which has existed for so long. This was in face of the financial crisis which overwhelmed London, and when Great Britain was obliged to deal with the most critical financial situation which has confronted it since the World War. The magnitude of this crisis can be judged from the fact that it involved obtaining a credit of $250,000,000 by the Bank of England on the first of August, supplied in equal amounts of $125,000,000 each by our Federal Reserve System and by the Bank of France, and that in addition it became necessary on Aug. 28 for the British Government itself to negotiate another credit for the huge sum of $400,000,000 and running for a year, one-half in the United States and one-half in France. But all this was without influence upon the New York money market. Ease, extreme ease, continued the dominant characteristic, and there was absolutely no change in the low rates prevailing in any branch of loaning. Funds were available in the same immense amounts as before. On the New York Stock Exchange there was again no change in the rate for call loan accommodation, this remaining at 1½% as the charge for both renewals and for new loans. As a matter of fact, the Stock Exchange rate has been virtually pegged since May 12 (with the rate on the New York Curb Exchange ½% higher, or at 2%, as has long been the rule). There was also during the month a constant overflow of funds, beyond the needs of Stock Exchange borrowers, into the outside or Street market, where the rate varied between 1% and 1¼%.

The time loan branch of the market was also free of any change. Rates were virtually unaltered throughout the entire month, with the quotations 1¼@1½% per annum for 30- and 60-day loans, 1½@1¾% for loans running 90 days and four months, and 1¾@2% for five and six months, though the first few days of the month quotations for five months were 1½@1¾% instead of 1¾@2%. It is to be said, however, that all these quotations were, as previously, virtually nominal rates, absolutely no interest being shown in this class of accommodation. Transactions in time loans were few and far between, and nearly always at a concession from the quoted figures. In the case of commercial paper rates also remained unchanged at 1¾@2% for choice names of four to six months' maturity, and at 2¼@2½% for names less well known. There was at all times a brisk demand for commercial paper of prime type, and all available paper (which was all the time insufficient to meet the requirements) was quickly absorbed. The New York Federal Reserve Bank, in its "Monthly Review," dated Sept. 1, in discussing the supply of commercial paper, remarks:

"Reports from leading commercial paper dealers indicated the continuance of a quiet market during August, due primarily to the dearth of open market paper available. Investment demand on the part of the commercial banks throughout the country remained of substantial volume, and prime paper was quickly absorbed at the prevailing rate of 2%, with extra choice names taken at slightly below that level whenever they came into dealers' offering lists. A further decline of about 1% occurred during July in the amount of commercial paper outstanding through 20 reporting dealers. The outstandings of $289,000,000 on July 31 continued to be about 45% smaller than at the corresponding time a year ago."

Rates for bankers' acceptances were also without change throughout the entire month at 1% bid and ⅞% asked for 30-, 60- and 90-day maturities; 1⅛% bid and 1% asked for maturities of 120 days, and 1⅜% bid and 1¼% asked for maturities of 150 and 180 days. The market for bank acceptances at times quieted down, and occasionally the supply exceeded the demand. There was a big increase in the holdings of acceptances by the Federal Reserve banks, the total held by the 12 Reserve institutions rising from $66,536,000 July 29 to $180,518,000 Aug. 26, and to $197,868,000 on Sept. 2, but it is believed that the increase consisted mainly of foreign bills acquired by the Reserve banks in pursuance of the $25,000,000 credit extended to the Bank of Germany and the $125,000,000 credit extended to the Bank of England. According to the report of the American Acceptance Council, released Aug. 14, covering the results of its survey as of July 31, the total volume of bankers' acceptances was $1,228,202,179, or $140,170,808 less than was outstanding on June 30. This was the largest reduction for a single month since these statistics have first been compiled, and brought the grand total $121,493,127 below the figure for July 31 1930. The report issued by Robert H. Bean, Executive Secretary of the Council, in explaining this, said:

Almost exactly 50% of the reduction came through the contraction of credits based on goods stored in or shipped between foreign countries and the maturity of many credits that were not renewed.

The total of this classification dropped during July from $493,643,884 to $423,293,070, due principally to disturbed conditions in Europe which have recently brought about a temporary check on any new credits.

Other important divisions of our dollar acceptance business also show a substantial change in this report.

Import acceptances went off $16,000,000, export acceptances went off $19,000,000, domestic warehouse acceptances $22,000,000, and dollar exchange $17,000,000. The only type of acceptance business that showed an increase for the month was that based on domestic shipment credits which advanced in amount from $29,000,000 to $35,000,000.

Of the reduction of $140,000,000 during July, 88% came out of the reports of New York City banks and bankers. A month ago—June 30—New York institutions reported $1,090,000,000, whereas on July 31 they had only $967,000,000, which was $20,000,000 less than they had on the same date in 1930.

The heavy buying of bankers' acceptances by accepting banks, which has been so noticeable during several months, continues unabated.

This volume increased $80,000,000 during July, and if added to the volume of the banks' own bills which they hold, it is seen that the accepting banks and bankers had on hand at the end of July a total of $668,033,890, or more than 54% of the whole volume of available bills.

While this was the greatest total of bills which the accepting institutions had ever held at one time, the Federal Reserve System carried for its own account, on the same date, close to the lowest amount on record.

On July 29 the combined holdings of the Reserve banks for own or foreign account amounted to only $320,000,000 as compared with $600,000,000 as recently as three months ago.

Notwithstanding some seasonal demand for strictly American credits, it is now believed the total volume of dollar acceptances will be considerably lower for the succeeding several months and will continue to fall steadily below the figures for 1930.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank, in reviewing the bill market during August, discourses as follows:

"During the first week of August the volume of business in the bill market was light and dealers' portfolios were little changed. In the succeeding week the reserve position of the New York City banks became unfavorable, and in an effort to correct this position the banks sold a substantial volume of bills to the dealers, whose portfolios more than doubled. These bills were temporarily sold by the dealers to the Reserve bank under repurchase agreement, in addition to which the Reserve System's bill portfolio was increased by purchases of a smaller amount of bills directly from the New York banks. In the week ended the 19th, a return of funds to the New York market placed the banks in the position of again being buyers of bills, with the result that dealers' portfolios were considerably reduced and bills sold to the Reserve bank during the previous week were repurchased by the dealers. During the balance of the month dealers' purchases and sales of bills were light, with some tendency toward a reduction in dealers' stocks. Federal Reserve holdings of bills for own account were increased $114,000,000 between July 29 and Aug. 26, due in part to net purchases of domestic bills and in part to acquisition of foreign currency bills abroad. On the other hand, the volume of dollar acceptances held by the Reserve banks for foreign correspondents was reduced further in August."

Rates of rediscount maintained by the different Federal Reserve banks still continued unchanged, the rate at New York being 1½%, at Boston 2%, at Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco 2½%, at Philadelphia, Richmond, Atlanta, Kansas City and Dallas 3%, and at Minneapolis 3½%.

THE RETURNS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE AND MEMBER BANKS—BROKERS' LOANS.

The condition statements of the Federal Reserve banks again showed some important and significant changes. Foreign bank deposits held by the 12 Reserve institutions, which had so greatly increased during July, were further enlarged during August. Then also the volume of Reserve credit outstanding was increased in amount of nearly $255,000,000. The foreign bank deposits, which had mounted up from $5,676,000 June 17 to $100,435,000 July 29, increased further to $182,921,000 Aug. 26, and were $178,136.000 Sept. 2. But while the earlier rise in that item was concurrent with a big contraction in the amount of the bill holdings purchased by the Federal Reserve banks for foreign correspondents, (the total of these purchases of bills for foreign correspondents having dropped from $378,717,000 June 17 to $253,578,000 July 29), the further reduction in the amount of the bill holdings for foreign banks during August was relatively small alongside the further addition of $77,701,000 to the foreign bank deposits. In other words, the further reduction in the bills held for foreign correspondents was only from $253,578,000 July 29 to $229,970,000 Aug. 26, and $230,004,000 Sept. 2. This absence of accord between the variations in these two items is important because in the absence of definite information with regard to the phenomenal growth in the foreign bank deposits it was taken for granted that the Bank of France was simply disposing of its bill holdings here and depositing the proceeds with the Federal Reserve banks. The explanation, however, as already stated, is not sufficient to cover the further large addition to the foreign bank deposits in August, and therefore the matter remains more or less a mystery. In the week ending Aug. 19 these foreign bank deposits, which had reached $180,483,000 on Aug. 12, fell to $168,408,000 Aug. 19, and it was then thought that the Bank of France had utilized a portion of its foreign balances here in maintaining sterling exchange, but that was purely a conjecture, and the following week (on Aug. 26) the total rose even higher than before, reaching $182,921,000. The Reserve banks' own holdings of acceptances increased from $66,536,000 July 29 to $180,518,000 Aug. 26, and still further to $197,868,000 Sept. 2. This, as already stated, was construed to be due mainly to purchases of foreign bills in the carrying out of the acceptance credits extended to the Bank of England and the Bank of Germany.

These foreign bill purchases clearly meant an increase in Federal Reserve credit outstanding. The discount holdings of the 12 Reserve banks, as it happened, also further increased, rising from $183,036,000 July 29 to $241,718,000 Aug. 26, and $257,285,000 Sept. 2. The holdings of United States Government securities were also further enlarged, the amount increasing from $677,977,000 July 29 to $727,998,000 Aug. 26, and to $728,108,000 Sept. 2. The increase in all these different items—in the acceptance holdings, in discounts, and in Government securities—accounts for the great expansion during the month in the total of Reserve credit outstanding, as measured by the bill and security holdings, and which item rose from $934,795,000 July 29 to $1,156,636,000 Aug. 26, still further to $1,184,513,000 Sept. 2, giving the increase of $255,000,000 in Reserve credit outstanding, to which reference has already been made. As part also of the story of inflation, the volume of Reserve notes in circulation increased from $1,735,501,000 July 29 to $1,945,507,000 Aug. 26, and to $1,958,203,000 Sept. 2. Gold reserves in the same interval rose from $3,443,554,000 July 29 to $3,485,546,000 Aug. 26, with the amount Sept. 2 $3,464,960,000.

It remains to say that United States Government deposits also showed a large increase, the amount of the additions being especially heavy in the week from Aug. 19 to Aug. 26, when the aggregate of these Government deposits ran up from $28,923,000 to $82,604.000. It has since been explained that this was due to the sale of $60,000,000 of Treasury bills on a date when there were no maturing securities, an operation which had the effect of transferring $60,000,000 from the commercial banks to Government deposits in the Reserve banks pending their disbursement. On Sept. 2 the amount of these Government deposits with the Federal Reserve banks had fallen back to $39,857,000, which compares with $1,385,000 on July 29.

There is very little to be said about the changes in brokers' loans, as shown by the figures of the reporting member banks in this city. The variations from week to week were slight and of little importance. From $1,390,000,000 July 29 there was a reduction to $1,346,000,000 Aug. 5, and to $1,329,000,000 Aug. 12, this being in continuation of the long preceding contraction, but this was followed by an increase to $1,349,000,000 Aug. 19, to $1,349,000,000 Aug. 26, and then to $1,360,000,000 on September 2. In the different categories of loaning the loans made for own account by the reporting member banks were $983,000,000 Sept. 2 against $1,000,000,000 July 29; the loans for account of out-of-town banks $220.000,000 Sept. 2 against $219,000,000 July 29, and the loans for account of others $163,000,000 against $169,000,000.

In the case of the monthly figures prepared by the New York Stock Exchange the changes are also relatively slight but with an increase in this instance from $1,344,092,700 July 31 to $1,354,067,358 Aug. 31. On June 30 the amount of this Stock Exchange borrowing was put at $1,391,324,920, on May 29, $1,434,683,650; on April 30, $1,651,128,124, and on March 31 $1,908,810,494.

COURSE OF STERLING EXCHANGE DURING AUGUST.

August was a momentous period for sterling exchange. Great Britain had to deal with a financial crisis more serious than any it had encountered since the close of the World War, and perhaps the most serious in its entire history, since so much was at stake. The point at issue was nothing less than the integrity and stability of the value of the pound sterling and the adoption of means and methods for restoring outside confidence in such stability and integrity, this confidence having been in process of being undermined, the outside world fearing a repetition of the collapse experienced in Germany. The details of that crisis are related in the earlier part of this article. Suffice it to say here that a situation developed in London where world confidence in the stability of the pound sterling was becoming almost as seriously impaired as it had become impaired in the previous month in the German mark. The result was that foreign bank balances and foreign funds, which, London's position as a world banker, are on a huge scale were being steadily withdrawn, making it increasingly difficult to maintain the price of sterling in the foreign exchange markets and subjecting the Bank of England to a huge drain n its gold holdings, and which, unless checked, threatened inancial disaster. How desperate the situation was appears from the fact that on the first day of August a credit or $250,000,000 had to be extended to the Bank of England y the joint action of the Federal Reserve banks of the nited States and the Bank of France, each agreeing to upply one-half of this credit; that is, the Reserve banks greeing to buy sterling bills up to an aggregate of $125,-00,000 and the Bank of France likewise agreeing to conribute the same amount. This credit of $250,000,000 proved o inadequate for the purpose of maintaining the price of sterling that after the resignation of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald and his Labor Ministry, and the erection in ts stead of a coalition or "National" Ministry, made up of nembers of the Conservative and Liberal parties, but with Mr. MacDonald still at the helm as Prime Minister, it became necessary for the British Government on Friday, Aug. 28, to negotiate a new credit running for a year for amount of $400,000,000 ($200,000,000 being supplied by a syndicate of banks and bankers in the United States headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., and the other $200,000,000 consisting of one-year credits arranged in France, $100,000,000 of this being placed with French banks and bankers, and the other $100,-000,000 to consist of a one-year British Treasury loan to be sold to the French public).

The first effect of the establishment of the $250,000,000 credit for the Bank of England was to stiffen sterling exchange rates in this market. But before long something went wrong, and sterling exchange in this market suffered a relapse, thereby furnishing occasion for new anxiety. The $250,000,000 credit, as already stated, was established on Saturday, Aug. 1. The announcement of the credit had the effect of stiffening sterling in the New York market on that day, although the volume of trading in the short half-day session was negligible. On Monday, Aug. 3, the undertone remained firm, although the market in London was closed owing to the August bank holiday. With the resumption of trading on Tuesday, Aug. 4, the market was taken by surprise when sterling developed considerable weakness, while on Wednesday, Aug. 5, there was a sharp break in sterling when the rate in London against dollars fell to 4.84⅜, off almost 1½c. from Tuesday's close. In the New York market sterling exchange opened at 4.85 and later improved to 4.85 7/32. On Friday, Aug. 7, sterling exchange in the New York market sold down to 4.84 15/16. On the basis of the low rates recorded in the break on Aug. 5, gold could have been shipped from London to France, to Amsterdam, to Brussels, to Switzerland, and to New York. The market was at a loss to understand the break in view of the establishment of the $250,000,000 credit, and many rumors gained currency. One was that the entire Bank of France share had been consumed.

These reports alarmed French investors in London, but the withdrawal of funds was prevented from assuming important dimensions by large buying of sterling in New York for French account. As a result of the weakness the Bank of England was obliged to sell £2,500,000 of gold on Thursday, Aug. 6, which was understood to have been divided equally between France and Holland. The financial editor of the London "Daily Herald," in commenting on the break on Aug. 6, said that the fall was due almost entirely to "panic selling" by some French bankers, not the Bank of France. He stated that most of the disturbing rumors came from Paris, indicating the "unbalanced state of mind of many French financiers and investors." No special pressure against sterling was evident in the New York market. It was thought up to that time that the Bank of England had not availed itself of the new credit granted by the Federal Reserve banks and the Bank of France. It was believed, nevertheless, that both these banks had been voluntary buyers of sterling bills to maintain the London rate. It was the opinion in London that the Bank of England had arranged the credit originally more for its moral effect upon the public mind than from any real banking necessity.

For the rest of the month the course of sterling showed improvement, and whenever weakness became manifest there were heavy purchases of sterling bills which could reasonably be taken to indicate that the market was receiving support from official sources. And the large increase in the bill holdings of the Federal Reserve banks clearly indicated that the Federal Reserve banks were heavy purchasers of foreign bills. Sterling continued weak, however, against francs and several of the other European currencies, notably against Holland and Switzerland. Here, too, however, on every dip of the London rate on Paris it became apparent that the Bank of France was giving sufficient support to the pound to keep it just above the export point for gold from London to Paris. The sharp decline in cotton and grain prices, which was a feature of the month, was considered a point in favor of sterling, at least at New York, inasmuch as the drop in commodity prices will have the effect of greatly lessening the autumn drain on London, which usually begins towards the end of August. Tourist expenditures were still helpful as a current factor, but were on a reduced scale as compared with other years and were bound to drop off sharply during September.

While, however, sterling exchange evinced an improving tendency, there was nevertheless considerable nervousness in the sterling exchange market. It was palpably evident that banks and bankers on this side of the water were taking precautions to guard against undue pressure on sterling. At all events, foreign exchange movements were clearly not normal, and but for the Central banks' support it was clear that the pound sterling would be ruling lower, although seasonal pressure against London was still a few weeks off. Considerable uneasiness also developed regarding the plans of the British Government for balancing the British budget. This question had been suddenly thrust forward by the submission on July 31 of the report of a Committee on National Expenditure appointed last March and headed by Sir George May, indicating a prospective deficiency in the British budget in the huge amount of £120,000,000 and recommending drastic economies for dealing with the situation. It was plain that some of the plans for eliminating the budget deficit were of a nature which might easily induce a flight of capital from London, and, as a matter of fact, not a little capital was already taking the flight referred to.

The latter part of the month the plans for dealing with the budget deficit became the dominant feature of the day. The May Committee, in its report, suggested, among other things, a reduction in the amounts appropriated for unemployment insurance commonly known as the dole. Prime Minister MacDonald was also convinced that some cut in the dole, along with other economies, was an absolute necessity, but being at the head of a Labor Government could not induce the members of his cabinet to take the same view. Finally the Cabinet split on this issue, and Mr. MacDonald submitted his and their resignations. This happened over the week-end, on Sunday, Aug. 23, and Mr. MacDonald was prevailed upon to undertake the formation of a new Cabinet in which the Conservatives and the Liberals formed the controlling element. This was quickly accomplished, all the different parties, except the Labor party, realizing that Great Britain was passing through a grave emergency which required united action if collapse and disaster were to be averted. The negotiation of a one-year credit for $400,-000,000, to be provided one-half by the United States and the other one-half by France, followed on Friday, Aug. 28, and confidence was now completely restored, the negotiation of this new credit for $400,000,000 being the best evidence of this. The sterling exchange market here reflected the improvement, and cable transfers on Monday, Aug. 31, sold at 4.86⅛@4.86 3/16, which compared with a range on Aug. 1 of 4.85¾@4.86. The Bank of England, in its return for the week ending Aug. 5, showed a gain in gold of £1,518,000, but in the week ending Aug. 12 suffered a loss of £1,523,527, which, in turn, was followed by a gain of £1,565,847 the week ending Aug. 26, and with an increase again of £1,024,000 in the week ending Sept. 2. The "Monthly Bulletin" of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, in discussing the changes in Great Britain's gold holdings, made the following observations:

"The Bank of England's gold holdings showed a net gain of $6,500,000 in the month of August, as compared with a loss of over $150,000,000 in July. The bulk of the withdrawals were made in the second week of the month, $13,-500,000 being taken for Holland, $6,000,000 for France, and $2,250,000 for Belgium. These withdrawals were more than offset by the reported receipt of $10,500,000 in sovereigns from Australia and South Africa, $2,400,000 in bars from France, and $17,000,000 in sovereigns released from earmark. A total of over $20,000,000 was offered in the market during August, of which $11,000,000 was obtained by an "undisclosed" buyer, $6,500,000 by Holland, and $2,750,000 by France."

As regards the gold movements to and from this country, the United States continued to receive large additional amounts of the metal from week to week, the most of this coming from Latin American countries, though on the Pacific Coast considerable amounts were received from Japan and China. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York recapitulated the gold movements as follows:

"During the first few days of August $11,000,000 in gold was received at the Port of New York from Germany and $1,500,000 from England. Subsequently, imports from South America and Mexico accounted for the bulk of the gold received here, $5,300,000 coming from Argentina, $1,000,000 from Uruguay, and $7,600,000 from Mexico. At San Francisco $25,000,000 of gold was received from Japan and $1,000,000 from China. Exports for the month were negligible, but there was an increase of $16,000,000 in the amount of gold held under earmark for foreign account. A preliminary estimate indicates a net gain to the country's monetary gold stock during August of about $44,000,000, and a net gain for the year thus far of about $400,000,000."

Canadian exchange continued to rule at a discount all through the month of August, though unaccompanied by any exports of gold to the United States.

THE CONTINENTAL AND OTHER FOREIGN EXCHANGES.

While Great Britain was passing through such dire straits the situation in Germany steadily improved. This is evident from the fact that the Bank of Germany on Aug. 11 was able to mark its discount rate down from 15% to 10% and the Lombard rate from 20% to 15%, both effective the next day, and on Aug. 19 found it possible to mark the Lombard rate down still further from 15% to 12%. This was accomplished entirely through self help, no further support from the outside being open. The committee of bankers headed by Albert H. Wiggin of the Chase National Bank which had been investigating the condition of German credit rendered its report on Aug. 18, in excellent form, but could make no suggestions or recommendations beyond those made the previous month by the conference of the Seven Powers at London, namely that Germany's difficulties were to be ascribed to the huge mass of short term credit, which it had been carrying, that the Reich was sadly in need of long term credits, but that no means for obtaining these long term funds were open for the time being or could be now devised to that end. The best the Wiggin committee was able to do was to make arrangements for prolonging of the existing credits. The committees said that it had placed itself in touch with the banking groups which had been negotiating with Germany as to the terms on which the existing short term credits should be maintained. At the committee's invitation representatives of these groups, and of the German banks, had met in Basle on Friday Aug. 14 and after five days' study and consideration had agreed upon and would recommend a plan of prolongation of such credits to the numerous creditor banks and bankers for their acceptance.

Germany, however, proceeded gradually to work back to normal conditions. Many evidences of this were seen. Some further restriction measures were part of the arrangement. Thus, on the night of Aug. 1, the German government issued a new emergency decree regulating transactions in foreign exchange. It was officially stated that this decree supplemeted the "freezing" consortium formed by foreign creditors to halt withdrawals of short term credits from the Reich and was framed so as to prevent the banks and bankers from being placed at a disadvantage compared with the smaller banks and with countries not voluntarily undertaking to leave their credit in Germany. A further decree was issued by the German government on Aug. 2, placing payments to be made in foreign exchange under the strict jurisdiction of the Reichsbank. This was preliminary to the return of the German banks to a normal basis of payment on Aug. 5. It was stated that this decree had been insisted upon by the London and N. Y. bankers who in a plan submitted to them the previous week by Hans Luther, head of the Reichsbank, were asked to maintain their present credits in Germany for another year. It was stated that the British and American bankers were reluctant to assent to such an agreement if lenders of other countries were permitted to withdraw funds from Germany at their own fre will.

On Aug. 5, all the German banks opened their doors fo full payment for the first time in three weeks. And th result proved entirely satisfactory. Press accounts state that the elaborate precautions which Berlin banks had take to meet expected demands turned out to be entirely u necessary. There were no runs or disorders. In many cas branch banks were able to return to the Central depositar quantities of bank notes which they had obtained in th belief that depositors would want to see their money agai The contrary proved to be the case. The amount of reich marks withdrawn from the banks was far behind the amou of new deposits. This was the statement regarding Berl and reports from Munich, Frankfort on the Main, Cologn Hamburg and other leading cities in Germany told a simila story. On Aug. 8, the last restrictions upon banking Germany were abolished when the public savings ban were fully reopened. Withdrawals exceeded those of norm days, but as there were no serious runs anywhere the ca held in readiness by the banks was ample to satisfy a demands. The day before (Aug. 7) all restrictions on o taining foreign currency to finance imports were remov by a decree issued by the German government. Finally th position of the Bank of Germany steadily improved. In th first quarter of the month the bank reported an increa in its gold holdings of 1,726,000 marks and an increase reserve in foreign currency of 60,889,000 marks with a r duction in note circulation of 78,131,000 marks. The secon quarter there was a gain of 760,000 marks in gold, and 9,813,000 marks, in the reserve in foreign currency, with decrease in note circulation of 138,288,000 marks. In th third quarter the bank reported 77,000 marks increase gold with a decrease of 3,273,000 marks in the reserve foreign currencies and with note circulation showing a co traction of 187,500,000 marks. In the final quarter of th month the gold holdings increased 220,000 marks, the r serves in foreign currencies increased 42,447,000 mark though note circulation, as usual in the final week of th month, registered an increase; this increase amounted 334,025,000 marks. Best of all, the ratio of reserves to liabi ties rose above the former legal limit of 40% in the thi quarter of the month, this ratio standing at 41½%. Rat of mark exchange at N. Y. were largely nominal, but we firm. Rates for checks and for cable transfers were mu the same, and the range for the latter was 23.73@23.75 Au 31, compared with 23.60@23.75 on Aug. 1.

We have referred above to the changes in the discount ra of the Bank of Germany. There were few other chang On Aug. 4 the National Bank of Czechoslovakia marked its rate from 4% to 5% and on Aug. 10 the Bank of Danz reduced from 10% to 7% and the Bank of Portugal fr 7½% to 7%. The Bank of Chile lowered its rate from 9 to 8% on Aug. 5 and to 7% Aug. 26. On Aug. 6 the Imper Bank of India raised its rate from 6% to 7%.

French francs showed no special features and fluctuat within narrow limits. For cable transfers the rate Aug. was 3.92⅛@3.92 3/16 against 3.92@3.92⅛ on Aug. 1. T Bank of France further largely increased its gold holdin during the month, though the latter part of the month t French franc gave evidence of weakness with respect, the pound sterling, following the establishment of the n British coalition ministry owing to a return flow of Frem funds to London under revival of confidence in the integri and value of the British pound sterling. In the week endi Aug. 8 the Bank of France showed a gain of 149,261,571 in its gold holdings; in the week ending Aug. 15, a gain 1,519,480 fr.; in the week ending Aug. 22 a gain of 3,053,4 fr., with a further gain in the week ending Aug. 29 2,000,000 fr. The Italian lira held very steady and the r for cable transfers on Rome Aug. 31 was 5.23⅛, in compa son with 5.23@5.23⅛ on Aug. 1.

In exchange on the countries neutral during the war t chief feature was a further rise in rates, while confide regarding the British situation was so deeply disturbed a large withdrawals of credit and funds were the result, w a weakening of exchange rates the latter part of the mo as confidence returned with the establishment of a n British Cabinet no longer under the control of the Labori and when withdrawals were checked and confidence return Cable transfers on Amsterdam varied quite widely.

Aug. 1 the range was 40.32@40.32½. On Aug. 5, when the break in sterling exchange occurred, the range was down to 40.28@40.31½, on Aug. 22 it was as high as 40.34@40.34½; on the closing day of the month (Aug. 31) the range was 40.32@40.33. Swiss francs on cable transfers went as high as 19.54 Aug. 5, but were down to 19.44½@19.45 on Aug. 19, with the close Aug. 31 at 19.46½@19.47. The Scandinavian exchanges seemed to move largely in harmony with the course of sterling, and after some weakness the early part of the month, at the time when the break in sterling occurred, evinced a rising tendency the rest of the month. The Danish crown on cable transfers moved up from 26.73½ Aug. 1 to 26.75 Aug. 4, then declined to 26.67 Aug. 5, and was 26.74¼@26.75 Aug. 31. The Swedish crown on cable transfers declined from 26.76½ Aug. 3 to 26.68 on Aug. 5, then moved up to 26.76½@26.77½ Aug. 27 and was 26.77@26.78 Aug. 31. The Norwegian crown in the break on Aug. 5, touched 26.67 as against 26.76 the previous day, and then moved up to 26.74½@26.75 Aug. 29 and was 26.74½@26.75½ Aug. 31. The Spanish peseta pursued a course all its own and after a sharp further decline in the early part of the month showed recovery the latter part. Madrid dispatches indicated that a renewed attempt would be made to stabilize the peseta and it was asserted that the government would readily part with much of its large gold holdings in order to effect improvement in the exchange. But as reports of the same nature had often reached the market previously, traders were inclined to await further developments. Exchange circles reported that only a small amount of peseta buying was for commercial account and that most of the transactions were of a speculative nature. From 9.03@9.05 Aug. 1, cable transfers on Spain dropped to 8.44@8.60 Aug. 7, and then reached 9.09@9.10 Aug. 29 with the range Aug. 31 at 8.99@9.10.

Exchange on the South American countries continued unsatisfactory owing to the political uncertainties in most of these republics and the abnormal conditions in world markets for their products. Exchange on Argentina continued to show a very uncertain tone although the Argentine government announced that it would ship $50,000,000 gold to New York to pay a loan due on Oct 1. The Argentine peso moved downward and on cable transfers was only 28½@28.70 on Aug. 31 as against 29.65@29¾ on Aug. 1. The Brazilian paper milreis for cable transfers was quoted at only 6.20@6.25 on Aug. 31, as against 6.95@7.05 on Aug. 1. Official announcement that a partial moratorium had been obtained on foreign debt payments was made by the Brazilian Government on Aug. 30. The Government has decided to suspend temporary foreign debt payments with the exception of two funding loans and the 1922 coffee loan. The Chilean peso on checks was quoted at 12.00@12⅛ August 31 against 11.99@12⅛ Aug. 1, notwithstanding that Associated Press advices from Santiago Aug. 19 announced that the Chilean Government had on that day ordered a complete moratorium on foreign debts for the rest of the year. The Uruguayan peso suffered a sharp decline notwithstanding that Montevideo advices Aug. 14, reported that the Government would meet the interest and sinking fund charges on her foreign debt falling due Aug. 21. The Uruguayan peso for checks dropped from 46.17@46.75 Aug. 1, to 40.82@42¾ Aug. 6, then sold up to 50.47 Aug. 11, dropped back to 42.57@44¾ Aug. 21 and was 43¾@44.67 Aug. 31.

In exchange on the Far East there were no special features during the month. On Aug. 6 the Imperial Bank of India increased its rate of discount from 6% to 7%. The price of silver in London was inclined to move lower again and the quotation in London Aug. 31 was 12⅞d. per ounce as against 13⅛d on Aug. 5 and the Chinese currencies, which move largely in consonance with the fluctuations in silver, were lower. The entire Far Eastern market very naturally feels the adverse effect of the low prices for the metal. The Hong Kong dollar for checks was quoted at 24@24 1/16 on Aug. 31, against 24⅝ Aug. 1. The Shanghai tael for checks was 30@30 1/16 Aug. 31 against 30⅝@30¾ Aug. 1. The Japanese yen held very steady, as previously, checks on Yokohama being 49.35@49½ Aug. 31 against 49.33@49½ Aug. 1.

The tables on pages 16 to 38 furnish a complete record of the transactions on the New York Stock Exchange during August and range since January 1. They need no extended introduction, as they are self-explanatory. The tables embrace every security dealt in on the Exchange. We give bonds first, using the classification adopted in the official list. The black-faced letters in the column headed "Interest Period" indicate in each case the month when the bonds mature.

In accordance with the rule adopted by the New York Stock Exchange in 1909, all quotations for interest-paying bonds are at a price to which accrued interest must be added. The exceptions to the rule are income bonds and bonds on which interest is in default. A few other bonds, like the Holland-American Line 6s, for special reasons, are also quoted "flat," but where this is the case the quotation "flat" will be found against the name of the issue. This method of quoting bonds became effective Jan. 2 1909.

For footnotes to tables see last page of bonds and last page of stocks.
